Social Security Agent Here April 5

Explains Procedure to Qualify for Benefits

A representative of the Grand Forks district office of the Social Security Administration, will be in Thief River Falls at the city Auditorium Tuesday, April 5, at 10 a.m. He will answer questions about social security and accept claims for benefits.

To qualify for social security benefits at retirement, how many work units will you need? "Most people don't know," Walter D. Kistler, Social Security manager, Grand Forks, said today. Many don't even know there is such a requirement, while others mistakenly think they can qualify for payments with only a year or two of work.

"Most people will need several years of credit," Mr. Kistler continued, "and the chances are, you will too." The exact number you will need depends on when you reach retirement age; 62 for women, 65 for men. People reaching retirement age now need 4½ years of earnings. Younger people will need more. For example, anyone now under age 54 will need 10 years—the maximum.

Since payments in the future depend on your earnings now, it's important that you receive all credits due. If you work for wages, you should be certain your employer reports them with your correct social security number. If you are self-employed, you should be careful to use your correct social security number on your tax returns, said Kistler.

The Library Corner

By Eleanor Olson

We started remembering the other night at dinner the books, good, bad and indifferent, that we read as teenagers. However they were rated by authorities, those books offered adventure and escape from what then seemed an impossibly humdrum world. Our reminiscences turned to comparisons of our own pasts with the present of today's younger generation. Do teenagers still read "Anne of Green Gables," float down the Mississippi with Huck Finn or get shanghaied with Jack London's heroes, we wondered? Does anyone every cry over Gene Stratton's "Girl of the Limberlost?"

So the next time I saw Frances Shanahan, Carnegie librarian, I asked her what teenagers were reading in our own Library. I have learned that indeed teenagers were still reading these very things. But, in addition to these old faithfuls, teenagers are now finding more and more books on the shelves that are written especially for them. Books that deal with choosing careers, or with science or history, or outdoor activities like hunting or camping. Authentic backgrounds are interwoven with stories of adventure or romance.

For instance, Peggy Gaddis has written four books with nursing careers as a background; her latest book, "Sara Winslow, M.D.," tells of a woman doctor who practices in a fishing community. It combines career, romance and mystery. "Arctic Hunter," by Bud Helmricks, follows the adventures of two young men hunting on the floating polar ice pack. "Crash Club," by Henry Felsen, is dedicated to and written for teenagers who love cars above all else.

Not all teenagers read only fiction; the non-fiction shelves hold as much appeal for younger readers as they do for adults. "Nautilus 90 North," the story of the first submarine journey under the ice of the Arctic Ocean from the Pacific to the Atlantic, has been a current favorite.

An article I read recently brought home to me fully just how important it is for us to encourage our teenagers to read. With the baby boom of the '40s almost at college and with an increasing number of youngsters going on to university, admission requirements have been raised. More entrance exams are placing strong emphasis on general reading. The teenager with a broad reading background is going to have a better chance of getting into the school of his choice.

Nationally speaking, teenagers are reading less and less instead of more. Too many other activities compete for their few leisure hours. Sometimes compulsory book reports and required school reading of "dull" classics are more discouraging than encouraging to the beginning reader. (Don't scream until you tell me if you've tried to read a Thackeray or Bronte novel lately. They are slow going when you are used to writing that reads like your daily newspaper.)

Our big aim should be to help keep our teenagers (who read a lot as children) reading now, and encourage the might-be teen-reader to become a habituee of the printed word. Teenagers come to library often because a subject, baseball, cars, rockets, has caught his fancy, but he will be a life-time reader when he gains enough confidence to go beyond the subject matter that brought him there and when he discovers that the adventure he yearns for is waiting for him between the covers of a book.

Many Criticize City Water During Runoff

Telephones at the city water treatment plant and the home of Harold M. Johnson, plant superintendent, have been doing double duty since Friday, April 1, as residents have called to complain of city water taste, smell and color.

According to Johnson, the condition is earlier and worse than expected. All the trouble can be accredited to the runoff from peat bogs north and east of the city. Organic material from this area has come down the river and gases trapped between the ice and water have been unable to escape. A breakup will help.

No extra chlorine has been added, Johnson added, and none is necessary. Treatment at present consists of the addition of chlorine, coagulents and activated carbon. No lime is added because it accentuates the taste of the water.

Water treatment plants at Grand Forks, East Grand Forks and Crookston have been alerted by the city superintendent to expect what Thief River Falls is now getting.

In the meantime, city residents are using bottled spring water, changing their beverages or holding their noses.

Bemidji College Graduate School Fully Accredited

Final accreditation of the Bemidji State College graduate program was given to the college this week by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools.

Dr. Sattgast and Dr. Martin appeared before the association's commission on higher education Sunday, March 28, to answer questions regarding college graduate program.

Egg Production Is More Balanced

Authority Advises Not to Cut Flocks Too Much

Farm egg prices for the rest of 1960 should average above prices for the same period of 1959. Most of the time, according to W. H. Dankers, eggs may bring as much as five to six cents per dozen above the level of a year ago.

He says that if Minnesota egg producers don't get their spring baby chicks immediately, they may find that when egg prices do improve, they will have only a limited supply of eggs to sell.

For the first three months of 1960, the spring hatch in Minnesota was down more than half, compared to 1959. In the U. S. as a whole, producers reduced spring hatch for this period more than a third.

Dankers urges producers to get new chicks as early as possible—as many as brooding and laying houses will hold.

If you buy too late in spring, birds won't reach maximum production of full-size eggs until a time when egg prices are seasonably low.

Number of layers on U.S. farms in the first three months of 1960 was about three per cent under the same months of 1959. However, number of eggs laid per hen has been up enough so that total egg production for this period is only one per cent below last year.

The slight drop, though, was still enough to bring the egg supply and market demand into better balance. Therefore, egg prices to producers have strengthened.

Life Insurance in Force in U. S. Hits $534 Billion

At the end of 1959 close to $534 billion of life insurance was in force in the U.S. in legal reserve life insurance companies.

This total represents an increase of almost 8 per cent above the $495.9 billion in force at the end of 1958. Of the total, $313.5 billion is under ordinary policies, about $155 billion is under group contracts, and some $40 billion is under industrial policies. The remaining $25.5 billion represents credit insurance.

Policy benefit payments to policy owners and beneficiaries is expected to reach close to $9.9 billion. Benefit payments under life insurance policies and annuity contracts will total nearly $7.6 billion.

State Income Tax Returns Due Soon

April 18 Is Final Day to Report and Pay Tax

Single persons whose gross is more than $750 are required to file Minnesota state income tax returns, as well as married couples whose gross income is more than $1,500. If the married taxpayer and his spouse each have incomes of their own, they may file a joint return (including income and deductions of both spouses), or separate returns (each reporting their own income and deductions, whichever produces the least tax. Every dollar of income of both spouses must be accounted for.

1959 calendar year returns are due to be filed not later than April 18. They should be mailed or delivered to the Department of Taxation, Income Tax Division, Centennial Building, St. Paul 1, Minnesota.

At least one half of the tax must accompany the return on or before the due date. If the taxpayer elects to pay in installments, the second one-half of the tax must be paid six months thereafter. Severe penalties are imposed on those who fail to file a return.

Tips on Income Taxes

By Minnesota State Bar Assn.

(This is the tenth in a series of articles on income tax made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar association, Public Relations Committee.)

Charitable Contributions and Interest

You may deduct contributions made by you in cash or other property for religious, charitable, literary, educational, or scientific purposes. This is another of the itemized personal deductions available to you. However, you cannot deduct contributions you make, no matter how charitable your intentions, to needy relatives or other individuals, social clubs, labor unions, and other such organizations.

On your federal return, contributions to political organizations or to candidates for political office are non-deductible, while, on your Minnesota return, you may deduct such donations up to $100.

If you are on the cash basis and report income as you receive it and expense as you pay it, your contribution must be paid before it can be deducted from your tax return.

You need not make a donation of cash in order to obtain a charitable contribution deduction. In fact, you can often afford to make a larger contribution to charity because of the fact that the law permits you to deduct the fair value of the property you donate to charity, whether or not this amount exceeds the price you paid for the property, with no requirement that you report the increase in value as income to yourself.

For example, if you have a share of stock which cost you $50 and is presently worth $100, you can give the share to a charitable organization and take a $100 deduction. If you sold the stock and gave the cash as a charitable donation, it would be necessary for you to pay an income tax on the $50 profit. By giving the stock to charity you get the $100 deduction and pay no tax.

You are also entitled to deduct as a charitable contribution the fair value of clothing, toys, and other articles which you give to charity and also expenses which you incur for travel and transportation in serving a charitable organization. You cannot, however, deduct as a charitable contribution the value of your time which is donated.

On your federal return, your charitable deduction is limited to 20% of adjusted gross income. However, where one-third of the total charitable deduction is for donations to churches, educational organizations and hospitals, you are entitled to deduct a maximum of 30 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

On your Minnesota return, the deduction is limited to 20 per cent of your taxable net income after all deductions except for charitable contributions have been taken.

Interest expense is deductible in full from your tax return. This expense is often a substantial part of your monthly mortgage payments on your house.

If you are buying a car or other property or appliances on time, a portion of your time purchase price and monthly payment will normally be interest expense. Where the amount of interest expense is not clear or where the time carrying charge includes other charges such as for insurance on your life, you may estimate the interest charge by determining your average monthly balance during the year and multiplying this amount by 6%. It is, of course, preferable to obtain the actual amount on interest which you pay because most running accounts or time charges are based upon substantially higher interest than the 6% figure.

Seed Sellers Told to Heed State Law

County Seed Inspector Cites State Regulations

The attention of all farmers and others selling seed is called to the Minnesota seed laws, which require that all seed sold must be properly labeled, said Ed Moren, county seed inspector. The label attached to each container of seed must show the kind of seed, germination date, purity, weed seed content and lot number. In the case of hybrid seed corn the maturity rating and zone to which the corn is adapted in addition to the cross must be shown on the label.

There can be no prohibited weed seeds and the maximum number of restricted weed seeds is 25 per pound. If restricted weed seeds are present the kind and number per pound must be indicated on the label.

If the seed has been treated the label should so state and should show the name of the substance applied in treating the seed. If this substance is harmful to human beings or animals a caution statement must be used. If the material is poisonous the label should so indicate.

Farmers desiring further information in regard to the requirements of the seed law are urged to contact Ed Moren, county seed inspector for Pennington and Red Lake counties. He may be reached at the Pennington Hotel.

Since June 1, 1959, new U. S. Savings Bonds, Series E and H, earn 3¾ per cent to maturity. Older Bonds earn ½ per cent more, too.

OVER THE BACK FENCE

By [illegible]

First Annual "Ole" Awards

This seems to be the season of the year when personages and programs of television are recognized by innumerable organizations for the past season's "efforts."

Not to be outdone by everyone else and with a full realization of the paucity of television fare in this section of the United States, we have chosen only area comedians for recognition.

This honor must not be taken lightly for the Back Fence "Oles" are unique in that they are formed from pure ludefisk offering both recognition as a symbol and sustenance for the body. Nowhere will you find a performer's "Oles" gracing the mantlepiece for more than a short time, doing away with the housewife's tiresome chores of dusting the trophies of past successes.

With this long-winded preamble out of the way, may we salute the following comedians and their programs:

Best Comedy

After a careful examination of our random sample of one person, there is little doubt that the Saturday night live wrestling show must win the distinction of being the funniest thing of the year. Carefully prepared scripts, blind referees, villains and heroes complete with facial contortions of the silent movie days and fearsome grunts and groans, ring announcers with Madison Square Garden announcements in a small studio and ringside commentators who read their parts well all contribute to make this the biggest comedy of 1960.

Best Individual Actor In a Continuing Role

Although there have been better individual performances, the Saturday night wrestling show commentator and interviewer must get the nod for being able to say the things he does on regular news programs and still take his part on Saturday night without being sick to his stomach. Poker-faced, he reads the idiot boards during post-match interviews and almost convinces the listeners that he actually means what he says. A magnificent performer.

Best Actor In a Supporting Role

Close your eyes and, if you have never heard a Madison Square Garden ring announcer, you might possibly believe that the Saturday night wrestling show announcer was serious. However, once your eyes are open, it is apparent that he is playing in a comedy and can hardly restrain his laughter. Who else could call a completely silent group of 50 people to attention by asking, "May I have your attention please?" without laughing out loud? Who else could describe the one and only match "the main event of the evening" without doubling over from laughter? Without a doubt, this performer is the greatest deadpan comedian since Ned Sparks.

Individual Awards

As in any other field of entertainment, good acting will emerge victorious despite poor supporting players and occasional bad scripts from the Westling Alliance. It was impossible to select any one "wrestler" as the best comedian but separate "Oles" will be shipped by slow freight to Aldo Bagni, Roy Mc-something or other, the former North Dakota state champion and several other repeat performers. Schooled in the Stanislavsky method and adhering to their time schedules nearly every time, they have sent area viewers to bed Saturday nights so exhausted from laughter that the sale of tranquilizers has dropped 75%.

Honorary Award

It would be thoughtless not to mention the out-of-work grunt and groan artists who fill in as referees on televised wrestling shows. Abused and weary, they leave the ring each week, escorted by their seeing-eye dogs, to join their fellow performers in the dressing room, thence to retire to their dingy hotel rooms to await the next day's telegram to discover which state they are from, who is to win, what winning hold will be used and who is to be the villain and hero.

Society in this area of the 50 states is indebted to the glorious benefits which have been brought to otherwise drab homes by such programs as Saturday night wrestling. May the sponsor be twice-blessed and the performers be showered with ticker tape and rose petals. What would we do without television?

Others have taken carpentry jobs before finishing the complete sequence of work. Instructor of the carpentry course is C. W. Pope.

P. G. Pederson to Retire after 46 Years of Service would never have to face the situation.

"I would like to take this opportunity to personally express my appreciation for your many years of service to Thief River Falls. I am sure that everyone that has served with you through the years not only the councils, mayors and employees of the city, but every citizen of Thief River Falls joins me in saying 'Thank You'. We all wish you and your wife a long and happy retirement."

"Pete," who confesses to being "over 65," was born and raised in Fosston where his father owned a furniture and undertaking business—a business which one of his brothers still operates. Following school and employment there he worked for a time in Bemidji as a car clerk on the railroad for $32.50 a month.

He came to Thief River Falls in January, 1914, as deputy city clerk and worked in that capacity until 1924 when he succeeded A. H. Akre.

Since then, many things have changed in the government of Thief River Falls. Back in 1914, the city had no budget the police department consisted of a chief and two men and the overall staff of the city was small. The street department crew was made up of a commissioner and one or two day laborers. Street equipment was limited mostly to hand tools and a horse-drawn grader and drag which were pulled by a team rented from a resident.

Since then, everything has grown including the number of city employes, utilities, departments and expenditures. In the city clerk's office, bookkeeping has been mechanized and modernized.

One of the events during the 46 years of Pederson's service which remains very vivid was the $150,000 fire Feb. 9, 1933, which destroyed the city Auditorium and the adjoining Northern Chevrolet garage containing 42 automobiles. With the temperature down to 30 or 40 below zero, residents of the city were able to save little from the city offices, and all equipment in the city clerk's office was destroyed. Luckily, a good vault protected city records and although some papers were scorched a little and others were watersoaked, city business was able to continue with little delay.

Questioned as to what he intends to do following his retirement, Pederson said that he did not know. He and his wife live at 240 Markley av. N. where they have three lots, a flower garden and "lots to do" and, for some time, he will act as a consultant in the city clerk's office to help his successor.

The city clerk's office won't be the same without Pete.

Auditor Confers with City Council Thursday Evening

To end the deficit spending of some funds which has created the bookkeeping problem of intermingling of funds, Matheson made several suggestions including an overall reduction of 10% in the 1960 budget or a cut in services or raising the tax levy in the future to pay for the services. He pointed to the airport, sewage and garbage services which together lost $35,000 last year and suggested raising sewage rates 120%, doubling garbage rates and reviewing airport rates and disposing of unused equipment in the administration building.

Monthly departmental reports to the council were suggested, and Matheson again advised that "some of the water should be squeezed" out of the 1960 budget. He pointed out that the budget has increased 10% between 1958 and 1960. He ended by urging that the city search for new revenues wherever possible to pay for the services provided. The realignment of operations in the city clerk's office was also suggested.

Following the auditor's report, a discussion on redecorating the main auditorium in the city Auditorium was tabled. The estimate on the work was $1,900.

Members of the park and recreation boards were present to discuss the proposed consolidation of the boards. "Efficiency" was the most-used word during the discussion and there was general agreement that the consolidation would be a good move. The only drawback that seemed to be feared was that the recreation program might be harmed by the consolidation. The two boards will meet for further discussions and recommendations will be presented to the council.

The resignation of P. G. Pederson as city clerk effective May 15 was accepted "with regrets." Pederson has been in the city clerk's office since 1914.

The resignation of Donald D. Olson from the police department effective March 7 was accepted.

Effective April 1, supervision of the garbage pickup and dump ground operations will be under the street department.

A proposal by Martin Rantanen that he construct a steel building on airport property at a cost of $15,000 to be deeded to the city in 30 years was rejected. Rantanen proposed putting up a 50 by 60-foot shop building to be used as an aircraft repair shop. He asked that the city pay one-half of the cost of installing sewer, water and power lines. The council asked that Rantanen submit another proposal at a later date.

Dr. George Martin appeared before the council on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors. Dr. Martin presented an 11-item list of recommendations for better parking control in the city.

The list included: modification of regulations so that fines are increased in direct ratio to the number of offenses committed by an individual; fines for those who attempt to defraud parking restrictions by moving a car from one parking zone to the next one; mark cars 12 months of the year; increase off-street parking capacity by marking stalls in those areas; create additional two-hour parking zones beyond those presently in operation; create short-term parking zones within the busy area; stricter enforcement of traffic regulations; have the mayor meet with the police commission to have police fully authorized to enforce the preceding items; extend parking stall lines at right angles to curbs so people can see if they are parking within the stalls and furnish a motorcycle to facilitate marking cars.

should be named to the state convention. Named delegates were Wiseth, Johnson, Kotaska, Carl Anderson, Ernest Swanson and Mrs. Alfred Johnson. Alternates named were Bert Johnson, Glen Sevre, Mrs. Israelson, Bernard Myers, Albert Kotrba and Orlin Hanson.

In a short talk before the convention Wiseth reported nearly $20,000 had been raised by the DFL Farmers for Humphrey organization in the Ninth district and urged all out support for the Minnesota candidate.

Ten resolutions were made before the convention by the resolutions committee, all of which won unanimous approval. The resolutions were:

1. Praising Governor Orville Freeman for his past administrations and endorsing him for another term. He also was praised for his conduct in the Albert Lea strike situation.
2. Endorsing U.S. Sen. Hubert Humphrey for president of the United States.
3. Commending all DFL officials for reelection.
4. Endorsing state Sen. Roy Wiseth for congressman from the Ninth district.
5. Praising state Reps. Walter E. Day and Ben Wichterman for past services and endorsing them for reelection.
6. Endorsing withholding income tax as against a sales tax.
7. Endorsing a Social Security hospital and medical plan for the aged.
8. Endorsing the family farm plan of the Farmers Union.
9. Opposition to withdrawal of lands from tax rolls for wetlands purposes where a majority of local residents are opposed in the interests of the local economy.

Following the voting on the resolutions, Carl R. Anderson reported on his trip to the national Farmers Union convention in Denver in November. State Senator Wiseth again spoke briefly predicting victory for the Democrats in November.

Wiseth also explained his decision to run for congress from the Ninth district, saying the only other declared candidate was not well known and that a candidate well known, such as himself, would have a better chance agains Rep. Odin Langen.

Wiseth said that the DFL must be determined to win in order to do so. He also stressed the importance of the DFL rank and file members' getting to the independent voters in order to win the majority needed by the DFL.

Following Wiseth's talk, refreshments were served.

HOME Garden TIPS

C. GUSTAV HARD
ORRIN C. TURNQUIST
AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, ST. PAUL 1, MINN.

Start Flower Seeds

Seeds of ageratum, browallia, carnation, Unwin dahlia, lobelia, petunia, pinks, verbena and torenia should be started indoors at this time of the year.

• • •

The flowers are usually started in flats. A flower seed flat may be about 3 inches deep, 18 inches wide and approximately 24 inches long.

Space the rows in the seed flat about two inches apart. Clay pots may be used for the individual seeds. Just broadcast the seeds on the surface of the medium.

A good soil mixture is one that is loose in texture and one which holds moisture readily. Good drainage is essential. Mix the soil thoroughly and then put it through a ¼-inch screen. Put the soil in the pot or flat, level it off and firm it lightly so that there is a smooth surface about one inch from the top of the container. To prevent damping-off disease which kills many seedlings, use ½-inch layer of sphagnum moss over the top of the soil mixture. Put the sphagnum moss through a ¼-inch screen and moisten it before putting it over the soil.

Plant the seeds thinly so they are not too close together. Cover them lightly with screen, sphagnum moss or washed sand. Water carefully, using a fine spray, or place the pots in a pan of water until the surface appears most. Take care not to disturb the seeds after planting.

• • •

Place a glass over the top of the pots and shade them with a newspaper until the seedlings appear. Keep the flats in a room about 68 degrees F. until the seeds germinate. When the seedlings are up, remove the paper and tilt the glass slightly to allow air to circulate over the surface of the pot. Place pot or flat in a south window where there is good ventilation and where the temperature is between 55 and 60 degrees. Too high a temperature will cause the seedlings to be extremely spindly. Don't allow soil to dry out. When the first two leaves of the seedlings appear, transplant them to plant bands, peat pots or space them two inches apart in another flat.

School Heads Advise on Technical Schools

Reports have recently reached school officials that representatives of several private trade and technical schools have been working in this area, contacting high school seniors, Joseph Iverson, high school director, stated today.

It is amazing, he said, how many students and parents fall easy prey to smooth-talking school salesmen and saleswomen, believing everything they are told about a particular school or institute.

On the basis of seeing a few pictures and listening to a "fast pitch," many students (usually with parental approval) sign an enrollment card and deposit a handsome application fee. When this happens, it is the usual thing to find later that the application fee is not refundable.

This is a costly lesson, said Iverson, and one that parents and students need not learn the hard way if they will just exercise these few simple rules of caution.

When a school representative announces himself, suggest that you call a school counselor or school administrator to sit in on the discussion. These individuals have had considerable experience in evaluating trade and technical schools and their experiences might well save you a lot of money and heartache.

Never give any money to any school representative on the basis of a single visit. All schools which are worthy of your interest make arrangements for the payment of fees at the school—after you and your child have seen what you are to pay for.

Don't be pressured into enrolling just because the representative says that "he can only accept a couple more registrations because the classes are almost filled."

Don't feel flattered when the representative informs you that "you were highly recommended." In spite of the fact that Lincoln high school never sends a senior list to any school, nevertheless, the names and addresses of our seniors become known to interested schools.

Beware of all trade and technical schools about which you know little or nothing. Investigate them thoroughly. The good schools appreciate your concern and will gladly allow you time to investigate them. Contact the school counselors and school administrators. If they don't know about the particular school personally, they have excellent sources of information and they will do their best to secure a fair appraisal.

Joe McFarlane, Harold Schelder and Frank Wyatt were reelected president, vice president and secretary respectively. Russell Setter was elected treasurer. Mr. Walker became the seventh member of the executive committee, representing the Northwest Breeders area which merged with Consolidated Breeders Cooperative in July of 1959.

To List 'Floaters' in Census Friday

To Count Those Having No Fixed Addresses

Squads of picked crew leaders and census takers will fan out over this area on the night of April 8 in a special 1960 census drive to count persons who do not have a fixed address, District Supervisor C. M. Carlson said today.

The census takers will make this special effort to make sure that all residents of the area are counted. Persons who do not have a fixed address are included in the population of the place in which they are located by the census takers.

Carlson pointed out that under census law, all persons 18 years old and over are required to answer official census questions. The same law specifies that personal information collected by census takers must be kept confidential.

The person who willfully refuses to answer the official census questions is subject to a maximum fine of $100 or 60 days in jail, or both. The census taker who reveals information about individuals to anyone other than a sworn employee of the Census Bureau is subject to a fine of $1,000 or two years in jail, or both.

Conservation Reserve Limits Acreage in Crops

Every farmer who has cropland under a Conservation Reserve contract this year must be sure to comply with any acreage allotments on the farm and also to observe his permitted acreage of Soil Bank base crops, Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, said today.

Generally speaking, Johnson said, the permitted acreage on a Soil Bank farm in the amount of land on which grains, oilseeds, and row crops may be produced. It consists of the historical acreage of such crops less the amount of land placed in the Conservation Reserve. A farmer who exceeds this permitted acreage or any acreage allotment on the farm may lose his annual rental payment and also be subject to a civil penalty.

When all eligible cropland on a farm is in the Soil Bank, the permitted acreage is zero, the ASC official said. The home garden area on such a farm may be used to produce crops for home use, for setting out forest trees, or for non-agricultural purposes, but production of a Soil Bank base crop on such land is a contract violation.

Sheep Promotion Campaign Boosts Wool, Lamb Sales

About 4½ years ago sheepmen from this area joined with others across the country in a program of promotion and advertising of their products. The program is now one of the finest of its kind in agriculture, creating greater interest in lamb and wool to help boost a sheep industry that was flat on its fleece a few years ago.

The promotion organization is the American Sheep Producers Council at Denver, entirely supported and governed by sheep producers.

Sheepmen contribute one-cent per pound of wool and five cents for each 100 pounds of lamb sold into the promotion fund. This promotion fund contribution comes from the sheepman's incentive payment, a payment he receives on wool which comes from duties on imported wool.

Spring Training

Coach Ralph Skay and his assistant Dick Edlund, called the district and regional baseball champion Prowlers out for the season's first practice session on Tuesday. In lieu of a southern spring training trip, the Prowlers have established a training camp at the local Armory.

The spacious floor at the Armory gives the Prowlers an opportunity to engage in limbering-up drills, and to participate in some informal fielding and batting exercises.

Judging by the number of boys who are appearing for the practice sessions, and who have had previous experience, the Prowlers should provide the fans with some first-rate baseball entertainment this season. The Prowlers are booked to open their 1960 schedule on Friday, April 22nd, when they meet coach Curly Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies.

Last year, in winning the district and regional titles, and in participating in the state tournament the Prowlers compiled a record of seventeen wins and three losses. Only one of those losses, that a 1-0 defeat by Crookston, was received in play against district or regional competition. From that squad of last season, co-captains Harley Drees and Jerry Jorgenson, and Gene Weckwerth, have been graduated; and Jerry Larson, a junior, and Larry Pole, a sophomore, for reasons of their own, have decided against baseball this season.

Returning for this season's campaign are the following lettermen: Arlan Hjelle, Jimmy Wegge, Eddie Lietzow, Paul Saurdiff, Jack Goulet, Gary Anderson, Jim Weckwerth, Gary Klungness and Mike and John Aune. That's quite a nucleus. One of coach Skay's problems will be to develop a couple of hurlers to give assistance to Arlan Hjelle. Hjelle will be the team's number one chucker, and rightly, but the righthander won't be called on to pitch all of the Prowlers' games. Gary Anderson and Jack Goulet show promise, and so does Paul Saurdiff. Paul, though, is too roly-poly, from a winter of soft living, at present to do much pitching. He has promised to "take off" about fifteen or twenty pounds.

Glancing around the district and region reveals that the area is well-supplied with top-flight pitchers, and some low-hit and low-scoring games should be entered into the records this season. In district play, in addition to the Prowlers' Hjelle, Crookston will have righthanded Jim Turner, Warren has Dwayne Yeado, Red Lake Falls has rangy Jason Huseby, and Goodridge has Howard Hendrickson. In regional play we find Bemidji with righthander Pete Barthelmy, Ada with Dwayne Stadum, Twin Valley with Mickey Holen, and Don Ross and Dave Backlund, both lefties at Roseau. The batters won't be taking any liberties with these boys.

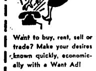
We're Crying

Did you notice that comment in the Minneapolis Trib, prior to the state basketball tournament, about the "uneven representation" of the competition? "In 20 years of state tournament play in basketball, Region One has won two championships, Region Eight, one, and Region Two, none. In the same period, Regions Five and Seven have won thirteen between them eight for Region Five and five for Region Seven."

"It must be a regular occurrence for several teams to be eliminated in the preliminaries in Regions Five and Seven which might have won their way to the state tournament if they were playing in other regions.

"It is too bad that kids in Region Five cannot have the same chance at a state tournament thrill that kids elsewhere have. After all, they're people, too."

And now we'll report on the state high school hockey tournament. Since its origin in 1945, Region Seven has won seven championships, Region Eight has won five titles, Region Four (St. Paul Johnson), has won three, and Region Three (Duluth East, a Region Seven team) has won one championship. Region Five (the Minneapolis schools) hasn't won a championship. But we aren't contending that they shouldn't be represented in the state tournament. They're people, you know. Do you realize that the Twin City area has been sending five teams into the state hockey tournament in most years and four every year? In our memory, there hasn't been a year when a team, or teams, that met elimination in Region Seven or Region Eight tournament play could have been able to move through Twin City competition and reach the state tourney.



We will make a concession, though, and that is that we would like to have Detroit Lakes, and Moorhead in Region Eight competition.

140 Share in Red L. County Dairy Tour

Farmers and Businessmen Inspect 3 Farms Tuesday

Sponsor of the tour was the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement association. Originating at Red Lake Falls with a lunch at noon, the group first visited the loose-housing barn on the John Ulrich farm where they saw a loafing barn and a modern milking parlor and bulk handling of milk and a combination hay storage and feeder structure.

The tour then proceeded to the Robert Swanson farm, also in River township, where they visited the modern stanchion type barn with automatic mechanical barn cleaner, silage unloader and many other new dairy farm improvements in a Grade A operation.

Last stop was the George Spong farm in Garnes township where an outstanding herd of Holsteins is housed in a conventional system with an innovation in cooling known as a drop in electric unit.

At the conclusion of the tour the group had lunch at the Oklee Recreation as guests of the Security State bank and the Oklee Lumber Yard.

Athletic Banquet Slated for May 5

Lincoln Lettermen to Be Honored at Dinner

A special meeting of the Thief River Falls Athletic association was held Thursday morning, March 30, in the Chamber of Commerce office. Roger Tunberg was elected chairman, and John McGinley was reelected treasurer.

The purpose of the meeting was to plan for the annual Lincoln high school athletic recognition dinner. It was decided to hold the 1960 dinner on May 5 at 6:30 p.m.

Chairman Tunberg appointed the following committees. The banquet committee consists of Tunberg and Lieut. Robert Burkhardt of the Salvation Army; program committee, Ralph Skay and Roy Lee; ticket sales, Bob Flynn and Andy Williamson; publicity, John McGinley and Bob Kammerer.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Friday morning, April 8, at 10 o'clock in the Chamber office.

2 Area Men Are Sought for Fraud

Local police reported today that the Polk county sheriff had notified local authorities to be on the lookout for two men who have been reported working in the Angus-Tabor area, representing themselves as employees of a rural livestock breeding service.

Mel Torme grabs a struggling Elinor Donahue in a kidnap attempt in the new drama, "Girls Town," to be shown at the Falls Theatre Wednesday and Thursday. Mamie Van Doren, Roy Anthony and Maggie Hays have starring roles in the production.

Authorities in Polk county say the men have been collecting and raising checks from residents of the Angus-Tabor area. Farmers in the area are warned to be on the lookout for strangers misrepresenting themselves in order to refraud.

Social Security Recipients Asked to List Earnings

Reports Must Be Filed If Recipient Earned More Than $1,200 During 1959

You know that April 15, 1960, is the deadline for filing 1959 income tax returns. But do you know that this date is also a deadline for a social security beneficiary to file an annual report on earnings, reminded Walter D. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks, North Dakota, social security office.

If you earned more than $1,200 during 1959, you must file a report of your earnings with the Social Security administration by April 15, 1960. Even if you earned over $1,200 you are entitled to receive benefits for any months in which you did not earn over $100. If you were in business for yourself in 1959, you are entitled to receive checks for months in which you did not actively engage in your business. You must file this report to receive the payments.

You do not have to file a report if you did not earn over $1,200 in 1959, or you were over age 72 the entire year, Mr. Kistler said.

All beneficiaries received a post card with their March 3 social security check, according to Mr. Kistler. This card can be used to get the report form. If you need help with this report, visit your local social security office at Grand Forks.

You may lose additional benefits, Mr. Kistler cautioned, for failure to report on time.

April Ushered in with Snowstorm

3 Inches of White Stuff Fell Here Last Week-end

Three inches of soggy snow, driven by a strong north wind, blanketed the area Friday and Saturday but an additional four inches promised by the weather man failed to materialize.

The snow, which began with light flurries early Friday, became heavy in the late afternoon and throughout the night. With daytime highs of 31 Friday, 33 Saturday and 38 Sunday and nighttime readings in the high 20's and low 30's, much of the new snow melted rapidly and what is remaining will probably melt with the warmer temperatures predicted for today.

The KTRF forecast calls for partly cloudy today through tomorrow with highs today from 37 to 45 and nighttime lows from 27 to 32. Warmer readings are predicted for tomorrow. Winds today are expected to be moderate from the northwest.

Ducks and Geese to Get Grain at Mud Lake Refuge

Hungry ducks returning to Mud Lake National Wildlife Refugee this spring will be treated to an assortment of food. Herb Dill, Refuge manager, stated that nearly 1,500 bushels of refuge grain will be fed. The grain is spread on the ice in late March.

Feeding of this type is done to provide food during the critical period between early thawing and complete spring breakup. When the ducks first arrive, the natural food supply is often limited because of ice.

After the ice is gone, waterfowl use natural foods. The supply of natural food at the refuge has been increased in recent years by a system of drawing down certain pools. This might be compared to the way a farmer rotates his fields, Dill explained. He stated, "With waterfowl habitat disappearing at an alarming rate, it is important to make the refuge as attractive and productive as possible."

Sectional Session of Chamber Held Thursday Morning

Full Membership Asked to Attend Meeting in Elks Club Rooms Tuesday

President Don M. Olson of the Chamber of Commerce today reported that a sectional meeting was held Thursday morning, March 30, at Inga's Cafe.

A special film featuring Dwight Havens, director of the services department of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, was shown. The group of businessmen present represented the lumber dealers, hardware stores and the paint and glass stores. One of the things discussed was the role that the Chamber has been and will continue to play in controlling parking practices here in Thief River Falls.

It was unanimously agreed that parking meters are not necessary but that the individual businessmen and their employes will have to practice "fair play" in order that parking may be reserved for the public.

President Olson reported that at the annual meeting of Jobs Incorporated it was decided that the president of the Chamber of Commerce should become an ex-officio member of the board of directors in order to provide a closer liaison with Jobs Incorporated.

Olson announced that there will be a special membership meeting of the entire Chamber body Tuesday evening, April 5, at 6:30 p.m. at the Elks club rooms and the film will again be shown. The entire membership will have an opportunity to make their needs known.

$512,000 Bids Are Accepted for New Fosston Hospital

Otto Elkhoff, Crookston Given General Contract on His Bid of $268,718

The general contract went to Otto Elkhoff of Crookston on his bid of $268,718. Moorhead Plumbing and Heating received the contract in their field at $121,670.

Central Electric of Moorhead received the electrical contract at $54,415 and Fargo Food and Supply received a contract for furnishing kitchen equipment in the amount of $13,899.

Troy Laundry of East Moline, Ill., got the contract for laundry facilities and American Sterilizer of St. Paul for sterilizing equipment. Their figures were $6,358 and $6,515, respectively.

There will be later bids on beds and other equipment when it is determined exactly what will be needed in addition to what is available from the old hospital. A contingent fund of $38,000 is set aside for such items as well as other incidental costs.

The total of these figures comes to about $512,000 and this, in addition to other costs such as architect's fees and other incidental expenses brings the cost to slightly over the $550,000 mark originally estimated.

The city has purchased the land and made arrangements for getting water and sewer facilities to the site, which is just east of Melland Memorial park at the east edge of town north of Highway No. 2.

4-H Members Given Advice on Gardening

A successful garden depends on careful planning. 4-H'ers taking the garden project should start at once to select the proper site and draw garden plans.

It is important to choose a good location for your garden. The land should be fairly level and well drained. It should have no soil pockets where water might stand or where late spring and early fall frosts might strike. The garden should be away from trees. The trees will not only shut out sunlight, but will also rob the soil of water and minerals the vegetables need.

The next step after the spot is picked is to draw your garden plan on paper.

Draw it to scale, showing spacing between rows, crops and varieties to be planted, date of planting, length of each row, spacing of transplanted crops in the row, succession planting and general arrangement of the crops.

As you do the drawing, keep in mind that poorly located tall plants like sweet corn and pole beans will shade small plants. Group the crops according to the time they mature. Don't crowd the plants; allow ample room for each vegetable to develop properly. To insure good pollination of sweet corn, plant several short parallel rows in blocks rather than in a long, single row.

When the garden is small, paper planning becomes even more important. The following practices help you to use land more efficiently:

Intercropping — planting a quick-maturing crop which requires narrow spacing (peas or spinach) between rows of crops requiring wide spacing (melons or cucumbers).

Staking or trellising — using supports for plants like tomatoes, polebeans and vine crops.

All 4-H members are eligible to enroll in the garden project. Beginning gardeners should have at least 400 square feet of garden space. 4-H gardeners last year totaled 8,778 — 638 above the year before. They plantd 2,729 acres in vegetables.

Rev. E. M. Tungseth Named Pastor of Rochester Church

Former Local Resident Takes Charge of Large Congregation in July

The Rev. Erling M. Tungseth, 42, pastor of the 1,200 member Roseville Lutheran church near St. Paul since August 1952, has resigned, effective June 15.

In July, he will become pastor of the 2,200-member Bethel English Lutheran church at Rochester, Minn.

Mr. Tungseth is past president of the Luther League federation of the Lutheran Free church and also of the St. Paul Lutheran council. He is a trustee of Augsburg college and seminary, Minneapolis.

He attended school in Thief River Falls, where his father, the Rev. E. L. Tungseth, served as pastor of Zion Lutheran church and also as state senator from the 65th district.

Changes in State Egg Regulations

Grade AA Eggs May Now Be Offered at Retail

Eggs labeled "Grade AA" may be sold in Minnesota effective April 1, according to the revised regulations issued today by Byron G. Allen, commissioner of agriculture, dairy and food. The regulations were adopted after a public hearing held in St. Paul, February 4. A series of ten regional meetings throughout the state were held in January for discussion of the proposed changes.

Commissioner Allen pointed out that it is important to note that this grade designation may be used only on quality controlled eggs produced under the Minnesota certified quality egg program or the Federal-State fresh fancy quality control program.

Both of these programs have specific production and handling requirements which must be met by the producers and processors before the eggs can be marketed as Grade AA. Detailed information on these requirements may be obtained in printed form by contacting the division of poultry industries, Minnesota department of agriculture, dairy and food, State Office Building, St. Paul 1.

Another important change included in the revised regulations requires all eggs transferred or sold within the state to meet the requirements of consumer grades. This has previously been a requirement only for eggs sold at retail.

According to Commissioner Allen, the changes which were adopted will aid in the enforcement of the egg law and thereby benefit purchasers, sellers and consumers of eggs.

Burton Bergeron of Argyle Given UND Fellowship

Burton Bergerson, University of North Dakota senior from Argyle, has been awarded a three-year National Defense graduate fellowship for study in economics at the University of Nebraska. He will begin studies in September, specializing in economic theory in a course of study leading to the Ph.D. degree. The fellowship provides a total of $6,000, plus dependency allowances and possible waiver of tuition and fees.

Announcement of the award was made by Dr. W. E. Koenker, chairman of the economics department, who said that Bergerson scored in the top 15 per cent nationally in an advanced test in economics given by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J. Known as the graduate record examination, it is given to seniors and graduate students to test academic promise in specialty fields.

Bergerson, is president of the UND Economics Club, past member of Interfraternity Council, and a member of the Marketing club and Sigma Nu social fraternity. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bergerson of Argyle.

Area Students on BSC Dean's List

Bemidji State college awarded 174 students certificates of academic achievement and placed them on the Dean's list for the winter quarter, according to Dr. Judson P. Martin, dean of instruction.

To be placed on the dean's list for one term a student must have received no grade below a B for that term and must have carried a minimum of 12 quarter hours.

Paul R. Sponheim Seeks Ph. D. Degree

To Continue Studies at University of Chicago

Paul R. Sponheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sponheim of this city, was admitted in March to candidacy for the degree of doctor of philosophy by the University of Chicago, upon his passing "with distinction" the field examination in theology.

Mr. Sponheim has been a student at the University since 1957. He is presently a holder of a Rockefeller doctoral fellowship in religion and a Matrin Luther faculty fellowship. He has been awarded a renewal in both grants, and will remain in residence at the University to engage in dissertation research, the final stage in the doctoral program.

Theological education at the University of Chicago is distinctive in that it offers the student the depth and variety available in four faculties. Three denominational schools are associated with the Divinity School of the University so as to create a common curriculum and faculty, giving rise to the association's title, "The Federated Theological Faculty".

Mr. Sponheim is a graduate of Lincoln high school, Concordia college of Moorhead, and Luther Theological Seminary of St. Paul. He has studied as well at the University of Minnesota, and the University of Copenhagen, Denmark.

Land O'Lakes "Butters-Up" Philadelphia

Land O'Lakes hit staid, old Philadelphia like a ton of butter. Sales boomed up 15% last year. And this fine butter is now handled by the top wholesalers and food chains.

There's no secret about the Land O'Lakes success story. Land O'Lakes is the only dairy marketing organization with the unique know-how needed to create a continuing selling program; a program of market-wide selling advertising and merchandising that has made Land O'Lakes the only nationally distributed brand of butter. And because we sell in more markets than anyone else, our dairymen have both an assured market and consistent returns.

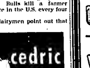
New Booklet Shows High Cost of Dairy Bull Maintenance

Booklet Published by Consolidated Breeders Co-op Compares Costs

Dairymen who think they can breed their cows "free" by keeping their own bull should take a closer look at their record books, according to a new booklet, "How Much Does it Cost to Keep a Bull," just released by Consolidated Breeders Cooperative.

The booklet, prepared by C.B.C. dairy specialists, shows that it costs a whopping $222 per year, just to feed, house and care for the average dairy bull on the average dairy farm.



Sounds like a lot of money . . . until you take a look at the pile of feed a bull eats his way thru every year. Here are some of the figures compiled by the C.B.C. experts:

Every year, the average bull will eat more than two tons of hay and better than a ton of grain. He will need a ton of bedding, and it will take you 60 hours just to care for him. In addition, C.B.C. dairy specialists point out that you have to give him stall space in the barn, pay taxes on him, and take care of his veterinarian fees.

These are the costs that add up to the $222, and they don't include the loss of production you suffer if the offspring of that bull don't give you good milk and butterfat production. (The figures don't show any hospital bills you might have either, if the bull should get you in a corner. Bulls kill a farmer somewhere in the U.S. every four days.)

C.B.C. dairymen point out that the "free" bull actually costs the dairyman $11 per service if he has a 20 cow herd, as compared to $6.50 charged by most artificial insemination services.

Free copies of this interesting and eye-opening booklet are available from C.B.C. technicians or by writing Consolidated Breeders at Anoka, Minn.

THE NATION'S FATHER OF WATERS, the mighty Mississippi, is turning against its own State. I learned, the other day, that iron ore from Latin America is being shipped up the Mississippi River and the Illinois Waterway to several steel plants in the Chicago area. This is a new avenue of transportation for South American iron ores, making it easier for them to compete with iron ores produced right here in Minnesota. All of these Latin American iron ores are very high in iron content and very low in impurities. This is why Minnesota has a big problem in meeting this kind of competition.

"This country is experiencing the great era of the goof-off, the age of the half-done job. It is populated with laundrymen who won't iron shirts, with waiters who won't serve, with carpenters who will come around some day maybe, with executives whose minds are on the golf course, with teachers who demand a single salary schedule so that achievement cannot be rewarded, with students who take cinch courses. The land from coast to coast has been enjoying a stampede away from the responsibility." —Charles Brower

Wisconsin Primary

The Wisconsin primary is finally coming to an end—fortunately. The campaign has been interesting mainly because it has highlighted the personal differences between Senators Kennedy and Humphrey. Unfortunately it has attracted more national and international attention than it deserved.

Minnesota's Senator Humphrey has tried to prove that Senator Kennedy is the rich man's friend and against the best interests of the farmers. It has been a personal battle in which Senator Kennedy has maintained commendable restraint. Religion, unfortunately, has been too obviously a factor in the overtones of the attack.

As far as we have been able to follow the arguments, there have been no issues of national importance in the Wisconsin primary. The campaign has not been informative or constructive and on the whole has been a pretty shabby performance.

The Census Is Important

One of the big events of the decade, certainly one that is going to get much publicity in the years that are ahead, is the population count that is now under way. Ordinarily we don't like to be questioned by snoopy women who ask us personal questions, but as census enumerators they do have a special responsibility. They have a job to do, and they have a right to expect cooperation from those of us who are supposed to have the answers.

The decennial census does serve a useful purpose. The information the enumerators seek should be revealed as accurately as possible.

"It is comparatively simple and easy to count the noses of most families where someone is always at home and ready with the information,—but it is a more difficult though none the less important task to gather the census statistics on those who may be temporarily absent from home, roomers, those who reside here but may be employed elsewhere, et cetera, et cetera.

"A full and correct census of 1960 population will have a direct bearing on many things during the next ten years. Some tax funds are distributed upon the basis of per capita (or per person) population,—just one of the many instances which may be cited.

"The government of the United States wants to know, needs to know, the full and complete population of this country and it's every citizen's patriotic duty to assist and cooperate to the fullest possible extent."

For Second Amendment

Elmer L. Andersen, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, told a small breakfast audience here last week that he is wholeheartedly in favor of area, as well as population, being used as a basis for legislative reapportionment. In his weekly letter to the press he has elaborated on this statement, saying:

"At Thief River Falls this past week I made clear my support for Amendment No. 2 relating to reapportionment. There has been some concern about the clarity of the language but the fundamental principle is so important that we should adopt the amendment making further change later if time and experience prove it necessary.

"As a State Senator and ever since, I have favored modeling our legislature after the national Congress, with one house on population and the other on area.

"I am told that during the last legislative session there was an understanding that the reapportionment bill and the constitutional amendment went together — and there is a feeling of betrayal, even among legislators of the liberal group, with the Governor's announced opposition to the amendment. It is hard to understand how he could, in honesty and fairness, give his approval to it during the legislative session and turn against it later.

"It seems only reasonable for the urban centers to have a majority of one body and the rural areas a majority of the other — and this is the effect of the bill and the amendment taken together. I hope the amendment will pass."

Mr. Andersen deserves the thanks of the people of both the outstate and the metropolitan areas of Minnesota for his fair appraisal of the importance of this problem and his declaration of support for what all fair-minded citizens must recognize as a reasonable solution. The demand for area as well as population as a basis for representation should not be a metropolitan area versus the country fight. The proposal had the support of both big-city and rural members of the legislature.

Nor should the state divide on this question along party lines. The proposal had the active support of both liberals and conservatives when the legislature agreed to submit the matter to the voters.

Opponents of the measure give lip service to the principle of area and population, so well established in the election of our national congress. They say however that the proposed amendment is not clearly worded and will create confusion. As we read it, however, it leaves no doubt as to its purpose and how that purpose shall be maintained.

Under the provisions of this amendment the House would be apportioned on the basis of population alone and, gradually, the five-county metropolitan area would elect a majority of the House members. The area factor would apply to the senate, the outstate area being assured of 65 per cent of its membership, which is about the present division. The metropolitan area could never elect more than 35 per cent of the members of this body. Within the metropolitan area, and also beyond the limits of the metropolitan area, there might still be boundary changes for the senatorial districts but the relationship between the metropolitan area and the outstate area, could not be changed.

That would be a fair solution and in the interests of good government throughout the state. In the business of enacting legislation compromise is always an important factor, but minorities have little trading stock and little voice in the making of final decisions. The interests of the smaller states were recognized by the founding fathers when they provided that all states, large or small, would have equal representation in the United States Senate. And that area representation gives to the small states reasonable bargaining power in dealing with the large states.

And such a balance is maintained within most of the states. Upper New York would not give control of New York State to New York City, and such control of the state by New York City would not be in the best interests of either the city or the state.

Elmer Andersen has performed a good service in pointing up the importance of this issue. It has not received the publicity it deserves and what little publicity it has received in the metropolitan press has been devoted to individuals and groups who have been more interested in confusing the issues than in clarifying them.

The Monopoly That Used To Be

(Wall Street Journal)

It should surprise no one that the trucking associations and waterways users are opposed to the Comerce Department's study of the nation's transportation. For the study, like its 1955 predecessor by the same Government agency, does give comfort to their chief competitor, the nation's railroads.

The comfort, though, is likely to be small unless Congress pushes the report's progress to free the railroads from the kind of government control that has kept them, in far too many ways, from helping themselves. Nor does the study, as the American Trucking Associations and the American Waterways Operators seem to argue, unduly favor the railroads.

What it does do is to make clear that a number of policies that now affect transportaton hinder the railroads in two ways. One is the restrictions on railroad rate-making, mergers and consolidations. The other is the way in which federal and state policies subsidize other means of transportation. Truckers do not have to build their roads, nor do waterways users have to dig their canals and cutoffs. Neither have to maintain their avenues of transporting the goods they carry. The taxpayers do it for them.

The government a very long time ago undertook to regulate transportation at a time when the railroads were dominant in the field. However useful and necessary to the economy trucks, barges and planes now are, the railroads are still the backbone of the transportation industry. But they are no monopoly. They are, in the words of the report, "the outstanding unsubsidized sick man" of the industry.

We aren't by any means proposing that subsidy is the answer to the railroads' trouble. Less subsidy for others and less regulation for railroads is more the answer. "Transportation should be regulated by the same forces as the rest of the American free-enterprise system: Fair competition in price and service to the customer" is the way the Commerce Department puts it.

To be sure, the remark is so true as to be almost a truism. But it is obvious that there can be no competitive prices and services when one of the competitors is wrapped up in regulations as though it were still the monopoly it used to be.

Since Sputnik Flew

(Denver Post)

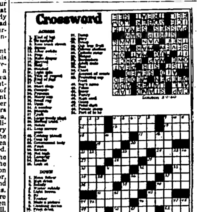
Since Sputnik flew, Americans have been trying to find out what is wrong with American education and what to do with it. As often happens when we attack a national problem, much of our effort has degenerated into a search for scapegoats. What we often fail to appreciate, however, is how much our schools reflect the world around them.

The partial answer to what's wrong can be found by a kind of mental looking-in-the-mirror. Here's a starter:

Complaint: Johnny can't read. Question: Do any adults around your house show any enthusiasm for reading, by being frequently seen with a book in their hands?

Complaint: Johnny is a conformist, doesn't want to excel or be different from his schoolmates. Question: Has he been given any reason to believe his family thinks or acts differently from the Browns down the block?

Complaint: Johnny isn't interested in science and math. Question: Is anybody at your house?



This kind of mental exercise may improve more people than just Johnny.

You and Your Eyes

One Pair to a Customer

Suppose that you were 21 and somebody gave you a brand new car with the words, "This is it. This car will have to last you a lifetime."

What kind of care would you give this car? The best. The best gas and oil. The best service and parts. The best of everything. Nothing cheap would go in that car of yours.

Then how about your eyes? One pair is all you get to last you all your life! Give them the best of care. Don't, for the sake of saving a few dollars, risk the possibility of an inferior examination, inadequate frames and lenses.

If you're about to buy glasses, whether your first or fifteenth pair, ask yourself these questions:

Will I get a complete, thorough examination?

Can I be sure the lenses I get are of superior quality and expertly ground?

Does the price include the necessary readjustment after the glasses are "broken in"?

Is it possible that all these things can be done and done professionally for the price asked?

Remember that inferior eye-care service can cause not only discomfort, but irreparable damage to your eyes. Don't be fooled into saving your money at the risk of losing sharp, effortless, vision. Entrust your only pair of eyes to a competent specialist.

County Board Backs Pleas Red L. Indians

Seek Relocation of Red Lake Agency on the Reservation

The Pennington county board at its April meeting Tuesday acted favorably on the request of the Red Lake tribal council, and endorsed two resolutions recently adopted by the tribal council with a view to improving the status of the Indians on the Red Lake reservation.

The first resolution called on the secretary of the interior to re-establish the Red Lake Indian agency on the reservation, where it had been located until December 1, 1954, when it was merged with the Cass Lake Indian agency and headquarters were moved to Bemidji. The Red Lake Indians stated that the agencies had been merged despite their objections.

In the second resolution, the tribal council calls for the Indian bureau to join with other agencies in establishing a relocation employment office center in the Twin Cities to provide counseling and assistance for Indians seeking employment in the area, and to help them get adjusted to city life. Both resolutions were signed by Roger Jourdain, council chairman, and Otto Thunder, secretary.

In other action Tuesday, the county board voted $100 to the Thief River Falls VFW post and $25 to Goodridge to defray the cost of arranging for the observance of Memorial Day May 30.

Joseph Seidel, county engineer, was given authority to set load limits on county road at less than four tons per axle when necessary during the spring breakup period.

Appearing before the board relative to drainage and road matters were delegations from Black River, Bray and Goodridge townships and Goodridge village. Action was deferred.

4 Lincoln Students Honored; Airline and Meters Discussed

Four Lincoln high school students who were top winners in the recent science fair sponsored by the school in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce were presented with awards at a meeting of the chamber Tuesday evening by Don M. Olson, president.

Kathy Hartje received the top award, a $25 savings bond, while $5 merchandise certificates went to Kathleen Torgerson, Bruce Howick and Jeffrey Hoel.

The program opened with the presentation of a motion picture sponsored by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, which demonstrated how necessary is teamwork to the successful execution by a chamber of projects beneficial to a community.

Parking meters again were discussed, and President Olson stated that a committee from the chamber had objected at a recent meeting of the city council to the installation of meters in this city, at the same time presenting a list of counter-proposals designed to relive the situation.

Olson and Alderman Roy Lee reminded the members that more parking space would be available if businessmen would refrain from parking their cars on downtown streets.

Lindberg Slayer Starts Action to Secure Release

James P. Taylor Appeals from Recent Adverse Ruling in U. S. Court

Minnesota citizens were reminded this week of the death in 1956 of the late Kenneth E. Lindberg, Thief River Falls banker, who was the victim of a kidnap-slaying plot engineered by James P. Taylor, 35, who was convicted of the crime and is now serving a life sentence.

Taylor has filed an appeal with the U.S. eighth circuit court of appeals in St. Louis, Missouri. Now confined in the federal medical center in Springfield, Missouri, he recently had sought a hearing before Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye to vacate the sentence of life imprisonment on the grounds that he was insane at the time of the murder and mentally incompetent when he appeared in court, according to the U.S. district attorney's office in St. Paul. He also charged that his counsel was incompetent.

Judge Nordbye denied Taylor's request for the hearing and it is that decision Taylor is appealing, the attorney's office said.

Rev. Lowell Jacobson officiated at the double ring ceremony Saturday evening, March 26, at the Nazareth Lutheran church of Holt which united Miss LuAnn Smith of Holt and Gordon E. Peterson of Middle River in holy matrimony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Holt and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peterson of Middle River.

Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. Elroy Benitt, sister of the bride, wearing a two-piece blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Darrell Tale of Minneapolis, sister of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake while Mrs. Ronald Smith of Stewartville, sister-in-law of the bride, poured.

Mr. P. O. M. G. says

Monday morning as I walked by the Rex Cafe I noticed two big trucks loaded with restaurant furniture and fixtures. The workmen were hustling and bustling all over the place. I sneaked inside to get a little preview of what Mr. and Mrs. Jack Edmiston are going to give Thief River Falls and our area in the way of a fine new eating establishment. They are using traditional New England furnishings, plus . . . planking on the walls, beams in the ceiling, and a fancy new lighting system to fit the decor of Rock Maple tables with chairs to match . . . and this is what everyone is going to love — the all new terrace room. It will have the utmost in good eating atmosphere including thick soft carpeting on the floor.

Aren't you excited?? I am. I'm also real-real proud to think that we have such forward looking businessmen in this community. That is why Thief River Falls will always be the finest city in Northwestern Minnesota.

A SALUTE to Jack and Sylvia Edmiston and best wishes to you and your all new Rex Cafe.

4-H Leaders Council Sets Play Contests for April 25 to 28th

The 4-H leaders council set the annual 4-H Play and Music contest for April 25 thru 28. Five plays will be given at Goodridge on Monday, April 25 by the Deer Park, Mavie Kratka, Star, and Highlanding 4-H clubs.

Four plays will be presented at St. Hilaire on Tuesday, April 26 by the Black River, Sanders, St. Hilaire, and Rocksbury clubs. Four plays are scheduled for Thief River Falls on Wednesday, April 27. These will be presented by the Steiner, Silverton, City View, and Smiley clubs at the Northrop school.

The finals, in which the three winning plays from the Goodridge, St. Hilaire, and Thief River Falls will take part are set for Thursday, April 28, in the Northrop school.

Three music numbers will also be picked at the three elimination centers and will be presented in the final contest at Thief River Falls.

Nominations of 4-H junior leaders to the Junior Leadership Conference in St. Paul are to be made by the clubs this month. These are due at the extension office by April 30.

Share-the-Fun blanks were passed out to council members to register any acts for this contest which will be held later this spring.

"A Ghost Convention" skit on electrical safety was presented by a group of Smiley 4-H'ers. The skit pointed out various safe practices in handling electricity. The alternative to these safe practices is to join the ghosts. Taking part in the skit were Orrin Helgeland, Nelda Lea Nelson, Nancy Newton, Gloria Phillip, Sharon Knutson and Sharon Nelson.

Orrin Helgeland and Sharon Knutson presented information on home yard improvement. They pointed out various principles and types of floral arrangements for table center pieces. Getting the most out of various materials for dressing a table and home was effectively demonstrated.

Elizabeth Sorenson, exchange student from Denmark, who is staying with the Delmar Hagen family at Gatzke gave an interesting presentation about life in Denmark. A film, "Copenhagen at Noon," also was shown.

During the question and answer period she pointed out that there was a great difference in school organization. After five years of what's comparable to American grade school the students take a test. If the student receives a good grade he can continue the schooling for either two or five years depending on the individual's choice. "Education is very inexpensive both in elementary and high school, and in Universities," Betty stated. Four years of teachers college would cost $1200 for food, clothing, tuition, books, and all the student needs.

Farms are small in Denmark averaging 37 acres of land. Denmark, a leading producer of dairy products, average over 10,000 pounds of milk per cow compared to 7,000 pounds per cow in the U. S. Betty described Denmark as "a land of flowers" where even the poorest homes are literally covered with blooms.

Says Conservation Reserve Has Little Effect on Population

Even though more than two thirds of the land in the Conservation Reserve is in the form of whole farms, the program is having little effect to date on where farm people make their homes and on how much shopping they do in their local communities.

Those are some of the preliminary findings by the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture based on interviews with Conservation Reserve participants in five different areas.

Farm population has been declining and size of farms increasing in most rural areas for many years, and there is no indication of any speedup in these trends as a result of the Conservation Reserve, according to the report.

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, points out that a primary purpose of the Conservation Reserve is to check surplus production by retirement of cropland. Farmers who place all their eligible cropland in the reserve are not required to remain on the farm but may do so and make use of the buildings, home garden area, and permanent pasture.

"This study," Culkins said, "shows that some Conservation Reserve participants who would have sold their farms and moved away are retiring and continuing to live on the fram. Some who have shifted to non-farm work and are continuing to live on their farms said they would have moved to towns or cities if it had not been for the opportunity to obtain a reasonable return from their investments in farm property by participating in the Conservation Reserve."

Other highlights of the Research Service findings include:

Few Conservation Reserve farms have good dwellings that are not occupied.

Most participants plan to maintain and repair their farm buildings although many are not fully used.

There have been some reductions in purchases of farm machinery and supplies but these have been largely offset by expenditures for other items as a result of income received by participants in the form of Conservation Reserve payments.

Mercury Hits High of 46 Wednesday

Was Highest Reading of Current Spring Season

A high of 46 degrees was registered at the municipal airport Wednesday April 6, the highest reading since October 21 of last year but the KTRF weatherman predicts cooler readings today and tonight.

Under clear and partly cloudy skies the snow cover dropped on the area the first two days of the month, has vanished rapidly and a few hardy souls have been seen giving their lawns the first raking of the season.

By this time last year, daytime readings of 62 and 64 degrees had been recorded and the ice went out of the river April 5 at 9:45 a.m.

Occasional cloudiness has been predicted for today through tomorrow except mostly fair tonight. Highs today are expected to be from 35 to 44 and lows tonight from 22 to 28. Northwesterly winds of from 15 to 25 miles an hour are expected today diminishing tonight.

Daytime highs so far this month have been mostly in the middle and upper 30s with 42 posted Tuesday and 46 Wednesday. Nighttime readings have ranged from 23 during the early morning hours of Tuesday to 34 early Wednesday morning.

Must Pay S.S. Tax on Household Workers

Housewives who hire household help by the day or by the week have until April 30 to file the quarterly social security tax returns on wages paid to their employees during the first three months of 1960 announced W. D. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks social security office, today.

A return must be filed with the District Director of Internal Revenue for any household worker to whom an employer has paid cash wages of $50 or more during the three months of January, February, and March. Wages of as little as $4 a week paid to a worker each week during this 3-month period will have amounted to more than $50, Mr. Kistler pointed out.

He indicated that many household employees are still not being reported for social security by their employers, although their cash wages from each employer may amount to well over $50 in a three-month period.

This is especially true of "day workers," he said, who work for several employers during the course of a week. Each employer who pays such a worker a total of $50 cash wages during the calendar quarter is required by law to file a return showing the name and social security account number of the worker, the amount of her wages, and the social security taxes due.

Some employers, Mr. Kistler said, may not understand their responsibilities under the law. Also, some household employees may have asked their employers not to file the returns because thy do not want to have their share of the social security tax taken out of their pay. The law, however, holds the employer responsible for making the returns and paying the taxes, he said.

If not detected first by the Internal Revenue Service through routine enforcement procedures, employers who are not filing reports may be called for a reckoning in a number of different ways. This could happen, Kistler said, when a former worker applies to her social security office for retirement or disability benefits, or when a survivor of a worker applies for social security benefits after the worker's death. Also, a worker at any time can ask the Social Security Administration for a record of her social security credits and ask for an investigation of any credits missing from that record.

The social security tax on wages paid in 1960 is 6 per cent, 3 per cent to be deducted from the employee's wages and a matching 3 per cent to be contributed by the employer. The combined tax increased from 5 per cent to 6 per cent beginning with the first wages paid in 1960.

Household employers make their social security tax returns on a special simplified form printed on the inside of a self-mailer envelope. Any housewife who employs domestic help can get on the mailing list to receive the form every three months by writing to the District Director of Internal Revenue Or, Mr. Kistler said, she may ask the nearest social security office for a copy of the booklet, "Social Security and Your Household Employee." This little booklet of social security information for household employers contains a postcard she can send to the district director of internal revenue, asking that she be put on the mailing list.

Household workers who would like to know more about their rights and obligations under social security, or who need to get a social security card, should get in touch with the nearest social security office.

Polio Clinic Set at Newfolden Apr. 27

Consent Cards Should Be Returned Friday, April 8

The Newfolden Study club will sponsor a polio clinic at the Newfolden Community school on Wednesday April 27, according to an announcement from Mrs. Raymond Tunheim president. Arrangements have been made with Dr. Arvid Carlson and the county nurse, Mrs. Viola L. Rud to administer the polio shots. The doctor will be at the school to give the shots at 9 a.m., so persons bringing pre-school children should be there by 8:45 a.m.

Anyone desiring first, second, third or fourth shots are welcome. The recommended schedule is 4 to 6 weeks between the first and second shots, about 6 months between the second and third shots, and the fourth shot any time after a year later than the third shot. If there are some who have had some of their shots, but more than the recommended time has lapsed, they can still continue their series and get good immunity, they need not start over again, Mrs. Rud states.

Dr. Carlson needs to know about 10 days in advance how much serum to order, so consent cards will be sent out with the school children this week to be returned by Friday, April 8. This early date is necessary because Easter vacation is from April 9 to April 19.

Adults or parents of pre-school children may pick up consent cards at any of the three grocery stores in Newfolden and leave them there to be picked up or send them to the office at the school by Friday, April 8.

The charge for the polio shots will be $1.25 per person. Please remember to get your consent cards in and bring the money for the shots to the polio clinic at the time of getting the shots, said the sponsors.

1958 Reseal Oats May Be Delivered Any Time in April

Any farmer who has 1958-crop oats under reseal on his farm may deliver the grain to the government in advance of the April 30 loan maturity date if he wishes, the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office announced today.

The producer will receive a full year's storage payment for the reseal period even though he makes early delivery of the grain. This storage payment is 12 cents per bushel. Delivery of the oats pays the nonrecourse support loan in full.

Early delivery of the 1958 oats is being permitted to encourage more orderly movement in government takeover of the grain. At the same time, it provides the Commodity Credit Corporation with a favorable opportunity to dispose of its stocks. The 1959-crop of oats was the smallest since 1939 and the demand has been strong in recent months.

GI Widows Pension Rates Analyzed

Amount of Payment Is Tied Closely to Income

Under the present pension law an eligible widow receives $50.40 if she has no children and if her income is not over $1400 a year.

A widow with a child will receive $63.00 and is allowed to earn as much as $2700 a year before becoming ineligible. This $2700 figure is not changed but the sum of $7.56 a month may be added to the basic $63 for each additional child.

Under the new law, the amount of pension a widow will receive is tied in more closely with her annual income. A widow without dependents may receive $60 a month if her income is not greater than $600. She can have income as high as $1200 and still receive $45 a month or as high as $1800 and still receive $25. But at the $1800 figure, the pension payments cease.

A widow with one child will receive a pension payment of $75 a month if her annual income is not over $1000. She will receive $60 a month if her income is $2000 or under, and $40 a month if her income is $3000 or under. Income above $3000 puts an end to pension payments.

Widows may receive full information at any VA office.

Census Forms Are Not to Be Mailed

Enumerators to Handle Sample Population Forms

Census forms for sample population and housing information will not be left with householders as previously publicized, said C. M. Carlson of Crookston, district supervisor. These forms, which will be filled out by the census taker at one out of every four households are to be handled entirely by the census taker so that nothing need be mailed by the householder to the district census office at Crookston.

The procedure of leaving the forms in the sample households is true in only the more densely populated areas and larger cities.

An exception to this would be made if the census taker has been unable to contact the householder in two callbacks, at which time a form would be left with instructions.

The Census Bureau is gratified with the fine cooperation of the householders contacted so far in the 1960 census, said Carlson.

March '60 Was Colder Than in Past 3 Years

March, 1960, was colder and wetter than the same month the last three years with an average high of 23.68 degrees and an average low of 3.48. Comparative average highs and lows last year were 32.7 and 13. Snowfall during the past month totaled an even 4 inches compared to a scant 0.07 inch during March of 1959.

Again this year, the area was lucky to miss the heavy snowfalls common to the eastern and central states. Storm fronts forming in western Canada and over the Pacific followed a southeasterly pattern sparing much of Minnesota each time.

Temperatures at the zero mark or lower were registered 11 nights during the past month and never got above the freezing point at any time during evening and early morning hours. Daytime temperatures were little better with above-freezing readings only seven days.

Warmest temperatures of the month were recorded on the 26th and 31st when 44's were reached. Coldest reading of March was —19 during the early-morning hours of the 4th.

Slow Down and Live!

Many Are Penalized for Liquor Offenses

Considerably fewer persons appeared in Monday's municipal court session, before Judge H. O. Chommie, than had been in court the previous two weeks. Violations involving illegal use of alcoholic beverages again played a big part in Monday's session, however, as in the past two.

There were no highway patrol cases. Sheriff Charles Richards had two persons in court. Dale W. Glass, city, appeared in court for the third consecutive week, and was given a 10-day jail sentence after pleading guilty to drinking by a minor. He is now serving the sentence.

Lyle H. Molskness, city, pleaded guilty to running a red traffic signal and was fined $15.

Ernest L. Merrill, rt. 3, Goodridge, forfeited $15 bond for being drunk on the highway and another $30 for having an open bottle of alcoholic beverage in his car.

All other cases were brought by the city police. Marvin D. Olson, rt. 1, Benjamin Lee Gustafson, city, and Dale Richard Bernard, Roosevelt, each pleaded guilty to driving with an illegal muffler and were fined $10 each.

Jens J. Mikkelson, rt. 4, pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $20. A plea of guilty to having an open bottle in his car cost Curtis G. Haugtvedt, Greenbush, a $30 fine, while Joseph C. Zavoral, city, pleaded guilty to an illegal U turn and was fined $10.

Thomas J. Rice, Mahnomen, was fined $10, suspended, for drinking by a minor but was given a 30-day jail sentence after pleading guilty to having an open bottle in his car. Rice will serve one week of the sentence, under the Huber law, and will then be released on parole.

Two juveniles, each residing on rt. 1, pleaded guilty to possession of beer and were fined, one paying $10, the other paying $10 of a $25 fine, of which $15 was suspended.

Date of Athletic Banquet Changed

Event Moved up to May 2 to Eliminate Conflict

Roger Tunberg, chairman of the athletic banquet committee, today announced that the date of the 1960 banquet has been changed from Thursday evening, May 5, to Monday evening, May 2.

The reason is that another meeting conflicted with it and it was understood that many persons would like to attend both meetings. The other event is the Trinity church's Mother-Daughter banquet.

Tunberg reported that conflicts such as this can be avoided by persons calling the Chamber of Commerce office to have their activities placed on the Community Calendar.

Persons interested in having their activities placed on the Community Calendar should call the Chamber office, MU 1-3720, just as soon as they have determined the exact date or if they are planning an event, they may call the Chamber office and determine what activities are planned by organizations and thereby avoid unnecessary conflicts.

High Averages

The men's bowling leagues are moving into the final weeks of competition and a look at the individual averages reveals that several bowlers have clinched the high-average honors for their respective leagues.

In the Service league bowling on Monday night, Gene Leslie of the baseball Thieves, in 72 games has compiled an average of 181. Gene will be leaving for Milwaukee shortly, but he has participated in enough games to be eligible for the high-average honors. Del Harbott of the Grain Belt squad has a 175-pin average in 51 games. In the National league bowling, also a Monday night competition, Bob Pahlen of the league-leading Joppru's has a 166-pin average in 76 games, holding a three-pin lead over Millard Peterson of the Forkenbrock Motors.

In the Tuesday night Business league bowling, Wally DuChamp the city's perennial high-average bowler, has a mark of 187 for 83 games. Wally's brother Jesse, also a member of the Hamm's Beer squad, the league leaders, has a mark of 184 for 65 games. John (City John) Jaranson of the third-place Elks has a 181-pin average for 78 games.

The American league high-average competition is a two-man race between Roy Lee of the Lee Plumbing, who has a 166-pin mark in 54 games, and Ed Hamerski of the Rotary, who has a mark of 165 in 36 games. We don't expect Roy, who is one of the finest competitors to come out of Lincoln high school, to give up that one-pin lead.

In the Thursday night Commercial league bowling, it's a two-man contest between Am Wysoski of the league-leading Northern Chevrolet, who has a 178 average in 60 games, and Del Harbott of the Northwest Beverage, who also has a 178-pin average, piled up in 45 games. In the Northern league bowling, Frank Gunderman (player-manager and coach of the Parkins' Drug team) has a 165-pin average in 66 games. Frank has been transferred to Fergus Falls, and since this move the Parkins team has dropped to second place in the league standings.

The Friday night City league finds Chuck Krause of the Eagles hitting the pins at a 175 average in 66 games, to hold first place in the individual averages. Gene Leslie of the LeFendrichs has a 183-pin mark, but the sturdy righthander has bowled in only 24 games.

Baseball Notes

"Now that the Sox have gotten Roy Sievers, they're in." This was the comment of Gunder Grovum on the trade that brought the heavy-hitting Sievers to the American League champion Chicago White Sox. Gunder, who is the Branch Rickey of the Penn-Ro-Shall league, is the most rabid Sox fan in this area. For many years, Gunder has been subjected to considerable abuse by such New York Yankee enthusiasts as Earl (Red) Hoppe, Bob Carlson, Garf Benson, Shorty Perkins, and others, but the situation has been reversed, now that the Sox are on top of the American League heap. We wonder, though, how enthusiastic Gunder will be about the Sox along about mid-season. Who'll be pitching, Gunder?

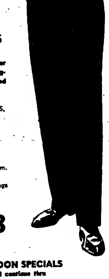
The highly-rated Norman-Polk league will be operating as a six-team circuit this season. Eldred, a member of the Northern Minny league last season, was given membership in the Norman-Polk circuit, and will join Ada, Halstad, Twin Valley, Fertile, and Gary.

With Eldred resigning from the Northern Minny league, this league was forced to reshuffle its membership roster. At a league meeting held last week, during which Bob Carlson submitted his resignation as league president, it was voted to extend memberships to Bemidji and Gonvick. These two teams will have representatives at Friday night's league meeting at Bagley. The Northern Minny operated as a seven-team loop last season, but with the addition of Bemidji and Gonvick, the league will have eight teams, the other members being Thief River Falls, Bagley, Erskine, Fosston, Cass Lake, and Winger. Play ball!

An Object Lesson

We received a welcome letter from a Prowler fan who, in complimenting the boys on winning regional titles in baseball, basketball and hockey said "I think that it is the payoff for having a fine bunch of boys who had the desire to win strong enough to be good trainers."

And that's a fact. We have had the occasion to be close to the members of the Prowler teams for a number of years, and the group of boys that comprise the Prowler athletic teams of this past season have been as faithful trainers as we can recall. As good as the best, and better than most. And, too, the Prowler teams have derived inspiration from their respective captains: Harley Drees and Jerry Jorgenson co-captains of last season's baseball squad; Arlan Hjelle and Dale Wennberg co-captains of the hockey team; and Steve Embury and Bob Pearson, co-captains of the cagers.



And the letter concludes: "I hope that the example that the Prowlers set this year regarding training behavior and winning will last a long time."

Plummer Bowling Assn. Held Annual Dinner Last Night

DuChamp Store Team and Wally DuChamp Honored for High Average Scores

The name, DuChamp, loomed large at the Plummer Bowling association's annual banquet in the Plummer hall Wednesday evening, as the DuChamp's Store team in the American league won awards for high average, both in their league and in the association, and Wally DuChamp carted off the trophies for high games series, average 674, and high game, 256.

Doug Tegtmeier, WTRF sportscaster, was master of ceremonies at the banquet, which was served by ladies of St. Vincent de Paul's church. Other guests were Klem Gigstad, president of the Thief River Falls Bowling association, and Al Brunelle, operator of the Family Bowl here.

In addition to DuChamps in the American league, second and third place were won by Red Lake electric and Ted's Lockers, in that order.

East Side Service won high team honors in the National league, with Brooks Cheese second and Plummer Lumber Yard third.

In the Northern league the Plummer Fire Dept. won high team honors, with Plummer Farmers Union second and Thibert's Garage third.

Don Erickson was elected president of the bowling association at the business meeting which followed the banquet. Harold Kelly was elected secretary-treasurer.

Reminds Cyclists of State Traffic Laws

Traffic laws apply to those who ride bicycles as well as drivers of motor cars. This warning was issued today by Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, as April opened a "Child and Bicycle Safety" month. This is one of the twelve monthly emphasis programs in the year long official traffic Blueprint for Safety.

Sieben pointed out that many city ordinances and section 169.221 of Minnesota's highway traffic regulation act provide that "every person riding a bicycle upon a roadway shall be granted all of the rights and shall be subject to all of the duties applicable to the driver of a vehicle . . ."

The safety director added that 382 boys and girls aged 14 and younger were injured in traffic last year, and that many of these were violating some traffic regulation.

He reminded parents to make sure that young cyclists know that —

1. A person propelling a bicycle shall not ride other than upon or astride a permanent and regular seat attached thereto.

2. No bicycle shall be used to carry more persons at one time than the number for which it is designed and equipped.

3. No person riding upon any bicicle shall attach the same or himself to any vehicle upon a roadway.

4. Every person operating a bicycle upon a roadway shall ride as near to the right side of the roadway as practicable, exercising due care when passing a standing vehicle or one proceding in the same direction.

5. Persons riding bicycles on a roadway shall not ride more than two abreast except on paths or parts of roadways set aside for the exclusive use of bicycles.

6. Whenever a usable path for bicycles has been provided adjacent to a roadway, bicycle riders shall use such path and shall not use the roadway.

7. Whenever any person is riding a bicycle upon a sidewalk, such person shall yield the right of way to any pedestrian and shall give audible signal before overtaking and passing such pedestrians.

8. No person operating a bicycle shall carry any package bundle or article which prevents the driver from keeping at least one hand upon the handle bars.

9. Every bicycle when in use at night time shall be equipped with a lamp on the front which shall emit a white light visible from 500 feet to the front and with a red reflector visible from 300 feet to the rear.

10. Every bicycle shall be equipped with a brake which will enable the operator to make the braked wheels skid on dry, level, clean pavement.

Many Groups Seek Camping Permits

Ask for Permission to Camp in Minnesota Parks

An incomplete summary of applications for group camping permits in the Minnesota state parks this summer reveals that number of groups and estimated camper days is considerably ahead of last year, J. H. Martin, assistant director, division of state parks, reported today.

A recent count of the applications shows that 55 groups have applied and estimated camper days for the 1960 season from about May 20 to September 20 to be 51,300.

Group camping in the state parks is increasing each year, Martin said, and has taxed the capacities of most of the parks to the limits. Youth groups, such as 4-H, boy and girl scouts, school bands and police, and church young people have had annual camps, but adult groups from churches, Jaycees, farmer's union, Bible camp organizations, and state colleges have also used the park facilities.

Applications for camp permits will be received at the St. Paul office of the parks division in the new Centennial Building until May 1. After that date, the application should be made directly to the superintendent of the park.

Southern Minnesota parks are the most popular, St. Croix, Flandrau, Lake Shetek and Whitewater. In 1959 there were 12 groups spending 20,526 camper days at St. Croix during the summer; 10 groups and 3,832 at Lake Shetek; 7 groups and 5,982 at Flandrau; and 17 groups and 4,700 camper days at Whitewater.

Other state parks having group camping facilities are Camden, Itasca, Lake Bemidji, Sibley and Lake Carlos.

Editorials . . .

"I firmly believe that the army of persons who urge greater and greater centralization of authority and greater and greater dependence upon the federal treasury are really more dangerous to our form of government than any external threat that can possibly be arrayed against us." —Dwight D. Eisenhower, in 1949, when president of Columbia University.

Taxpayer's Revolt

Reports from around the state indicate that people are becoming tax conscious. Down in Austin, for instance, "nearly three-fourths of Austin's public school teachers refused to sign their new contracts—in a protest against what they called inadequate salary increases." That means that the Austin school board was getting a little fed up with the continuous, year-after-year demands for more pay and were starting to say "no." And, presumably, the school board members are starting to say "no" because the taxpayers are complaining. Maybe it is wishful thinking, but we are hopeful that we are nearing the end of an evil cycle.

What we need in the state is a few meetings of school board members to which school superintendents would not be admitted. Too many superintendents, well-meaning, we are sure, are too much interested in across-the-board pay increases for the hired hands, including themselves. They speak for a bureaucracy that has become very powerful.

We Are Making Progress

Our probers of outer space scored another first last week when they fired into orbit the world's first weather observing satellite. The camera-equipped projectile flashed back pictures of us from an altitude of 450 miles that clearly identified the areas photographed.

Named Tiros 1, because this type of space traveler is designed to carry infra red measuring devices, Tiros being the alphabetical name for television infra red observatory satellite, it was said to have had the most accurate launching United States rocket men have achieved. It is expected to transmit information for a period of three months and probably will remain in orbit several years.

These are encouraging reports, and they are especially encouraging because they come to us with a modesty that generally is associated with self-confidence. We are making progress.

Scheming for the Summit

Nikita Khrushchev and Charles deGaulle parted company on what seemed to be a friendly basis. According to a news release the two leaders agreed "all the international questions in suspense should be resolved not by the use of force but by peaceful means." We all should be happy with that conclusion.

But Nikita's real purpose in visiting France apparently was to break up the good relations that exist between France and West Germany. Whenever he spoke he seemed to find some good reason why the French should join with his country and be prepared to help protect each other from their "common enemy." But the French did not indicate interest in this suggestion. They probably will decide for themselves whom it is that they must fear.

All of this visiting back and forth by the heads of the governments that will be discussing the problems of world peace at the coming summit meeting probably are helpful. The western powers are not agreed on all points it seems, but as a result of the preliminary talks it is likely that the discussions will be directed to those things about which they are agreed. There is no reason to believe that Nikita has been able to create any serious breaks in their united front and that is encouraging.

Public Accounting Needed

The exposure of questionable accounting methods by the Kenny Foundation points up the need for public accounting for all our charity organizations that conduct their fund solicitations on either a statewide or a nationwide basis. The alleged accounting irregularities now coming to light occurred in 1951, and that is more than eight years ago. The present investigation is based on a complaint filed by a private citizen. We may assume that if this private citizen had not complained the facts would not have been made public.

A Minneapolis accounting firm audited the Kenny Foundation at that time. When foundation officials refused to disclose receipts and expenditures involving more than a million dollars the accounting firm withdrew its services. That of course was commendable but it still did not give the public the information the accounting firm thought it should have.

Minnesota requires public accounting for all state and county activities and makes public accounting available for other units of government. It probably would be in the general interest if public business at all levels were audited by public accountants whose only interest would be the public interest. To have the officials who are being audited hire the accountants who are to do the auditing does not make good sense.

And the great charity organizations that handle many millions of the people's dollars should be required to give to the public complete reports on their operations; not checked by auditors who may lose their jobs if they become too critical.

Hog Prices

A group of corn belt hog raisers is asking farmers in a ten-state area not to market any hogs until the market price rises to $19.60 a hundred pounds. No one can accuse the farmers of being unreasonable in asking for a better price for hogs. There is room for a lot of doubt, however, as to how effective this proposed effort would be over a period of time.

Farmers in all segments of agriculture should be encouraged to establish reasonable marketing controls. The big difficulty in any program of marketing control is to find an outlet for that portion of the crop or commodity that must be withheld from the market in order to maintain the higher price. Essential to the success of any marketing control program is production control, and that is where most of these programs run into difficulty.

Fruit growers find a fairly satisfactory solution for this problem by destroying, or perhaps we should say by failing to harvest, that portion of the crop for which there is no visible demand. They estimate the volume of peaches that will be needed for canning and freezing and crating and all other purposes, and reasonable reserves. Then at harvest time they estimate the crop and if it appears that there will be ten per cent more peaches than the market will absorb they don't harvest that ten per cent. These controls the growers exercise themselves, through their own cooperatives.

The dairy industry protects its market for grade A milk in somewhat the same way. All of the milk is harvested however, but that portion of the milk harvest for which there is not a grade A market is disposed of in the grade B market.

Our potato growers are making progress in orderly marketing. They too have the problem of what to do with that portion of the crop that can't be sold at a fair price.

We sincerely wish the hog raisers success in their efforts to get a fair price for their product, but they will not succeed with marketing controls alone, limited to a ten-state area. Their real problem is figuring out a workable plan for the control of production. When they do that then they've got it made.

Softness

(Wall Street Journal)

At his press conference the other day the President expressed his concern over "softness" in American youth. Children in European countries walk or bicycle to school, he noted, while here they ride buses though they may live only "four or five blocks" from the school.

Five or six years ago, Mr. Eisenhower recalled, physical fitness tests were given to some 15,000 school children here and matched against comparable tests of European children. The "alarming results were very depressing." Among the reasons for the poor showing, in the President's opinion, is the fact that Americans have more comforts and conveniences.

Unquestionably, we have more comforts and conveniences. But it is not the full answer to American "softness." An even greater reason is that our political institutions, meaning the state in all its manifold impertinences and interferences, have taken over more and more the direction of children's and adults' lives.

But if the state has contributed to physical softness, it has contributed also to a softening of the moral fiber of some of us. We are taught by our politicians and by our schools not that the individual, not even that the Lord of the Bible, but that the state will provide.

Nor do our political institutions restrict their grasp of increasing responsibility for the young to providing for school books and free lunches and free transportation. They also look, through the schools, to what has come to be called "life adjustment." They see as their responsibility, not just the teaching of numbers and spelling, but also the teaching of other matters formerly the responsibility of the church and the home.

The day the President spoke of softness, the New York City Board of Education revealed a short course for junior and senior high schools next year designed to achieve a happy home life. The course will cover "group dating, double dating, single dating, steady dating" and the development among children of the "qualities that make one popular."

Perhaps American children are softer than their European counterparts. But, if so, riding the bus to school is not the whole of it. It is, in fact, only the day's beginning.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Sitting at home, having a quiet evening were two spinster sisters. Suddenly one looked up from the paper she was reading and commented: "There's an article here telling of the death of a woman's third husband. She has had all three of them cremated."

"Isn't that life for you?" said the other. "Some of us can't even get one husband, while others have husbands to burn."

"Four-wheel independent suspension totally unlike any other U.S.-built car" ... "air-cooled aluminum engine ... not dependent on the properties of a liquid coolant" ... a rear-mounted transaxle "allowing a flatter floor and a lower roofline. ..." These are some of the praises heaped upon Corvair by the editors of Motor Trend—the world's largest general automotive magazine—in announcing their coveted Car-of-the-Year award. Other cars didn't even come close. The Motor Trend experts, who evaluated every make in the country, were unanimous in their decision, published in the April issue. But, unless you have personally driven a Corvair, you can't appreciate what this engineering achievement really means in combining compact car economy and agility with big car ride, room and sure-footedness. Drop down to your dealer's, take a trial drive and then judge the Car of the Year for yourself!

Make Certain You Get Credit for Earnings for Social Security

If you are in employment or self-employment that counts towards social security, be sure that you get credit for your earnings, Walter D. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks social security office, said today.

The amount of benefits which may become payable to you and your dependents or your survivors are figured from the average earnings credited to your social security account. To become eligible for any benefits, you must have been in work covered by social security for a certain length of time.

If your earnings are not correctly reported, benefit payments to you and your family may be reduced; if your work under social security is not reported, you will not get credit for years which you may need to be insured at time of retirement or in case of your disability or death.

Mr. Kistler said that most people now reaching age 65 need to have at least 4½ years of earnings on their social security account. People reaching 65 later will need even more credits. (A man born in 1906 or later or a woman born in 1909 or later will need 10 years of social security credit.) For disability benefit payments (age 50 to 65 at least 5 years of social security credit are needed.

An employed person should make sure that his employer reports his wages correctly: if he works for himself he should report his net earnings when he files his income tax return and pay the social security tax on those earnings every year, Kistler said.

Failure to make a yearly report is a violation of the law and can result in penalties and interest charge on unpaid social security taxes. Failure to report moreover can result in the wiping out of social security insurance protection altogether. The law says that earnings must get on the record within three years, three months and 15 days after the taxable year in which they were earned. As an example, Mr. Kistler pointed out that a self employed person who failed to report his 1955 earnings by April 15, 1959, can never get social security credit for that year.

Guard against the possibility of losing earnings credits or your insured status by reporting regularly and correctly, said Kistler. Also ask for a statement of your social security account at least once every three years.

Several resolutions will be up for consideration, as well as the election of county officers and delegates to the district and state conventions.

Canadian Natural Gas Coming to Red River Valley Soon

Northern States Power Expects to Serve Fargo and Grand Forks by Fall

Delivery of Canadian natural gas to customers in Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin should begin in time for the 1960-61 heating season, says Northern States Power Co.

The Canadian government last week authorized export of natural gas and NSP will service customers in Fargo and Grand Forks, N. D., Moorhead and East Grand Forks, Minn., and Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls, and Menomonie, Wis.

NSP pointed out the start is dependent upon service from the pipeline supplier, Midwestern Gas Transmission Co., Houston, Texas. NSP will gear its building plans to those of the pipeline company.

Midwestern previously announced plans for a $52 million project involving a pipeline from the Minnesota-Canada border at Noyes, Minn., southward along the Red River Valley and then southeastward across Minnesota and connecting with the Michigan-Wisconsin Co.'s system at Marshfield, Wis.

It was said other Minnesota communities will receive service from Midwestern Gas Transmission's proposed new pipeline. These include Ada, Argyle, Frazee, Hallock, Hawley, Lake Park, Crookston, New York Mills, Perham, Stephen, Dilworth, Detroit Lakes and Warren.

Revenue Service Rules on Price Support Income

Says Money Need Not be Reported until Loan Has Been Consummated

A "certificate of interest" received by a farmer under the Federal price-support program is not income until it has been taken to a bank and exchanged for the loan proceeds, according to a recent ruling by the Internal Revenue Service. According to Edward A. Johnson, chairman, Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, there has been some confusion in the past in certain cases where producers have presented such certificates to the bank to complete their loan in the year following the year in which the certificates were received from the county office.

A ruling was therefore requested from the Internal Revenue Service as to the year in which such certificates should be considered and reported as "income"—for the year in which they were received, or for the year in which they were presented to the bank or other financial institution.

The new ruling by the commissioner of the Internal Revenue service states that "After due consideration of the facts now presented, we now hold that a producer who receives a certificate of interest in one year and consummates the loan in the ensuing year upon its surrender in return for the loan proceeds, should include the loan as gross income in the latter year if he has made the required election under section 77 of the code."

Section 77 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 authorizes a producer, if he elects to do so, to consider amounts received as loan from CCC as income in the taxable year in which such amounts are received. Under the new ruling, a producer who received a certificate of interest in 1959, but presents it in 1960 to a bank for the cash disbursement will be considered as having received the loan in 1960.

Holders of H Bonds get interest checks twice a year. The rate works out to two and a half per cent for the first year and a half; then 4 per cent to maturity.

Deductions for Medical Expense

Medical and dental expenses incurred by you and your dependents are deductible as itemized personal deductions on both federal and Minnesota returns in the year you pay your medical or dental bill.

Generally you may deduct for such expenses as fees of doctors, dentists and nurses, hospital expenses, eye glasses, false teeth, hearing aids, medicines and drugs, and premiums paid on hospital and medical insurance.

Under federal law, you are also entitled to deduct the cost of transportation which is prescribed by a doctor as necessary to cure an ailment. You may not, however, deduct other travelling expenses such as meals and lodging on your federal return.

Minnesota does not allow the cost of travelling for medical care, but you may claim on your Minnesota return the expense of hotels and lodging incurred after discharge from a hospital if you are required to remain away from home for additional medical care after being discharged from a hospital.

Both the federal and Minnesota laws allow deductions for medical expenses only to the extent that your medical expenses exceed the amount you receive for an injury or sickness from health, accident or medical insurance.

On the Minnesota return, there is no limit of the amount that you may deduct for medical expenses.

The deduction for medical expenses on your federal return however is allowable only to the extent that the expense you incur exceeds 3% of your adjusted gross income. In addition, the deduction for medical expenses cannot exceed $2,500 for each exemption you claim, or a maximum deduction of $10,000 unless either you or your spouse is 65 years of age and disabled.

Where either you or your wife are 65 and unable to work due to physical or mental impairment of indefinite duration, the maximum deduction for your federal return is increased to $15,000 if one of you is 65 and disabled and $30,000 if you are both 65 and unable to work.

In computing the medical expense deduction on your federal return, the cost of medicines and drugs is included in medical expense only to the extent that it exceeds one per cent of your adjusted gross income.

THE WORDS OF ETERNAL LIFE

There was a day when some of the disciples of Jesus became discouraged and walked no more with Him.

But when the Master asked the twelve, "Will ye also go away?" Simon Peter answered, "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life."

Never underestimate spiritual intuition! Peter sensed long before the first Easter that Christ's mission was to lead men to eternal life!

As Easter approaches, millions of men and women realize a spiritual intuition. It calls them to their churches to worship the Risen Christ. It prompts them to embrace with new fervor convictions that sometimes have become casual.

Cherish that hunger for spiritual renewal. Fortify it as Peter did with an honest evaluation of man's helplessness apart from God. To Whom shall we go? Only Christ offers the Truth and Life which are eternal.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Fair Trade Act Is Outlawed by High Court

Supreme Court Says Manufacturer Can't Set Retail Prices

The possibility of price reductions and injury to small retailers was forseen Friday in the wake of the Minnesota supreme courts decision outlawing the fair trade act.

The court held, 4 to 0, that the 1937 law permitting a manufacturer or distributor to fix the retail price of his product was an illegal delegation of legislative power to private persons.

The high court said in effect that a manufacturer can't legally fix the price of his product by contracts and still force selling the product to an unwilling dealer at a price where or not they were a party to the agreement.

Nullification of the act is expected to have its greatest effect in large cities where discount houses are numerous.

The ruling does not affect the 1421 fair trade laws now on the record under a 1935 law but does it affect the state's so-called non-signer section act, which prohibits a retailer from selling below cost with intent to injure competitors.

Retail trade association officials said that the effect of the court decision on retail prices might be expected to dip on such fair trade items as drugs, cosmetics, health and beauty aids, liquor and proprietary goods, if competition demands.

"Some businesses may reap big sales increases as a result of the decision, by may lose out in the long run," they said. "Many small, independent retailer who have been protected by fair trade markup basis with 'high-volume discount houses."

Following is now a partial list of Minnesota fair trade laws that will be affected by the decision:

The fair trade law last October and the amendment, CHUM, Inc., to appeal to the supreme court.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

Looking through our late edition of the Thief River Falls Times, I am very much interested in advertised prices of grocery stores, as compared to our's here in Los Angeles. Here is a list of some of the prices I pay at our Big Stores: Butter, 77c lb., eggs, 1½ dozen bananas, 19c lb.; potatoes, 15c per lb.; canned blueberries, 15c lb., mostly juice.

Your prices are as follows: Butter, 58c lb.; bananas, 2 lbs. for 25c; potatoes, 2c lb.; blueberries, 3 cans for 88c, 1 lb. cans. Just a few of the items that I always thought would be cheaper on the Coast. All in all, your prices of food generally, are 85 per cent cheaper than Los Angeles.

Wiseth Endorsed by Marshall DFL

Goodridge Man Supported as Congress Candidate

The Marshall county DFL convention held Saturday at Warren, endorsed State Senator Roy Wiseth as a candidate for Congress from the 9th congressional district by acclamation. Percy Stokke, Viking, was elected county chairman.

Resolutions passed included support for Senator Humphrey in his bid for national office, support for the entire state DFL ticket, advocating the withholding method of collecting state income taxes, a good health program for everyone, and opposition to the trend toward corporation farming and elimination of the family farm.

After considerable discussion a resolution was also passed without opposition condemning the practice of purchasing wetlands with no regard to the wishes of the people directly affected, and with no regard to the effect upon schools, townships and other governmental units as a result of the loss of taxes.

Old timers at the convention stated that the largest group in the history of the gathering was in attendance. Bob Prickett, Middle River, acted as convention chairman.

Bagley Man Heads Northern Minny

The Northern Minny baseball league, receiving commitments from seven teams — Cass Lake, Thief River Falls, Bagley, Fosston, Erskine, Gonvick and Winger — named executive officers for the 1960 season at a meeting held at Bagley Friday night. Mel Brustad of Bagley, a long-time baseball enthusiast in the Bagley area, was elected league president. Fritz Frethem of Fosston was named vice president; and Lowell Collins of Thief River Falls was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Some doubts were expressed as to the intentions of the Bemidji Chiefs as a league member, and it was agreed that Bemidji should be given an opportunity to join the circuit.

Bruce Dally of the northwest umpires' association attended the meeting and, after considerable discussion, the league voted to enter into a contract with the association for the 1960 season. The association will provide two umpires for each of the league games.

Helmer Homme of Winger and Fritz Frethem of Fosston were designated as a schedule-making committee. The two men will draft a schedule that will be brought up for discussion, revision, and approval at the meeting to be held at McIntosh on Friday night, April 22.

The Thief River Falls Thieves' delegation attending the meeting Friday night was comprised of Charlie Smith, Ray Jorgenson, Henry Hjelle and Lowell Collins.

East Grand Forks Boy Wins Tribune Spelling Contest

Ronald Krom First Among 157 Contestants; to Enter National Spelling Bee

Ronald J. Krom, eighth-grade pupil in Sacred Heart academy in East Grand Forks, came to Minneapolis for the first time Saturday and walked off with the championship in the Minneapolis Tribune's Upper Midwest Spelling Bee.

Ronald will represent ETAOI Edward-Krom, didn't stumble once in the 10-word oral contest at the Leamington hotel.

Earlier the 157 contestants took a 75-word written test. The top 32 qualified for the oral contest, and the final scores were the total of the two tsts.

Ronald will represent Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and western Wisconsin in an expense-paid trip to Washington for the national spelling bee June 8.

The winner also receives a 24 volume set of Encyclopedia Britannica. His school will have free access to Britannica teaching films next year and will receive a short wave transoceanic radio.

Runnerup was Robert Dahlquist, 13, Deer River, the Itasca county winner. He is a son of the Rev. and Mrs. Rudolph Dahlquist.

Georgia Anderson of Grygla, Marshall county entrant, was one of the 32 finalists and received a $5 prize. Mary Jane Gall of this city represented Pennington county in the contest.

Goodridge Man Is Winner of Rifle Honor on Okinawa

Army Sgt. First Class Edwin E. Sheridan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linton Sheridan, rt. 1, Goodridge, recently was selected as a member of the 1960 Ryukyu Islands (Okinawa) rifle team after winning qualification rounds in that command's trophy matches.

Sergeant Sheridan will vie for individual honors in the Army's Pacific competition in Hawaii, where he will compete against Army marksmen from Japan, Korea and Hawaii in matches to be conducted later this month. Winners in that tourney will compete in the All-Army tournament later in the year.

The 28-year-old soldier, a radio operator in the 1st Special Forces Group, entered the Army in March 1948 and arrived on Okinawa on this tour of duty last October.

Ousted Manager of Bemidji Liquor Store Sentenced

Harry M. Grindell Then Is Placed on Probation by Judge Paul Lundgren

Harry M. Grindall, deposed manager of the Bemidji municipal liquor store, was placed on probation April 1 by District Judge Paul A. Lundgren after pleading guilty to a charge of misappropriating public funds. He was sentenced to serve an indeterminate term in the state penitentiary and placed on probation to the state comissioner of corrections.

Grindall, appearing with his attorney, Romaine Powell, changed a former plea of not guilty that was entered March 14. In passing sentence, Judge Lundgren cited Grindall's age (he is 68), and his poor state of health in decreeing probation.

While charged in the complaint with the misappropriation of $600, the shortages in the liquor store accounts are expected to run to many thousands. An audit for 1959 revealed shortages totalling $7,480 according to figures released March 29 by the state public examiners office. Audits for previous years will be conducted later this month.

Civil action has already been initiated for the recovery of the shortages which are expected to exceed the $5,000 for which Grindall was bonded. Further action on this suit will wait the completion of the audits.

PARKINS CORNER DRUG
203 LaBree Ave. N. Phone MU 1-2932

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Good Luck, Doug

Doug Tegtmeier will be making his last regularly scheduled sportscast for KTRF radio here on Wednesday, for on the 15th, Friday, he will be reporting for duty with KNOX-TV at Grand Forks.

Doug has made many friends here, and in northwestern Minnesota, during the years that he has been the sports voice of KTRF. We know that we express the opinion of all the fans when we wish Doug good luck and success in his new venture.

According to present plans, Doug will be the sports director of KNOX-TV and KNOG radio, and replace the station's Jack French on the 6:15 and 10:20 sports programs. French, who has been ill and on a leave of absence for several months, has been advised by his physician to retire from active sports casting. Jack was, and is, a capable radio and TV announcer and he made many friends for KNOX; but we are sure that the personable Doug Tegtmeier will be fully as capable and add prestige to KNOX's sports staff.

And sorrowing at Doug's departure are his golfing pals, Milt Reierson and Wes Johnson. In stag night golfing on Wednesdays, these two "boys" had a good thing going when they had Doug in a "money" game. Doug, a southpaw swinger with much distance and poor direction, will be missed when Milt and Wes total up their golfing scores in the club house.

With the Wolverines

Young Denny McGinn of Escanaba, Michigan, a son of the Denny McGinn who captained Prowler basketball and football teams here in 1918 and 1919, is a member of the University of Michigan baseball squad. Coach Don Lund's Wolverines have completed their spring training schedule and compiled a record of eight wins and three losses. McGinn tossed the only two complete games for the Wolverines, one of which was a sparkling four-hit performance in Michigan's 11-2 win over Wyoming.

The batting statistics for the early-season games reveal that young Dennis had one hit in 11 tries for an .099 average. As Gordon LaBree said, like father, like son. That is, as far as hitting is concerned.

Miscellany

Joey Poole, the Prowlers' gift to the Minneapolis Millers hockey club of the professional International league, will return to Grand Forks this summer and attend the North Dakota 'U' next fall. Joey is lacking a few degrees in obtaining his degree. We hear that when Joey does get his degree he has a job awaiting at Rochester . . . Frank Eisenzoph's Fort Frances Canadians are continuing to play winning hockey. The Forts, by defeating the Dauphin team, have gained the western Canada intermediate hockey finals.

Almquist Remains at Roseau

Oscar Almquist last week signed a contract to remain at Roseau as high school principal and hockey coach, and this laid to rest the rumor that Almquist was to accept a position on the Babbitt high school faculy. It's good news for Roseau hockey fans to learn that the popular and capable Almquist is to remain as the Rams' coach.

With the Roseau Rams losing 11 players, including such all-state tournament selections as Larry Stordahl, Dick Roth, Don Ross and Keith Brandt, through graduation this spring, coach Almquist will face a major rebuilding problem next season. But don't wager that the Rams will not be a regional contender next season, or that Roseau won't be in the state tourney.

There will be a couple of changes in the Roseau coaching staff next season, though. Ray Kavanagh, who coached the Rams to a Northwest conference football title last season, will not return. And Francis Macioch, Almquist's assistant in hockey, and who had a very strong Roseau 'B' team, did not return a signed contract.

Local Men Attend Hallock Session of Sugar Beet Assn.

Minnesota-Dakota Beet Development Association Conducts Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Minnesota-Dakota Sugar Beet Development association, held at Hallock April 4, was well attended by members from North Dakota and Minnesota.

The association is made up of membership from Walsh and Pembina counties in North Dakota and Kittson, Marshall, Roseau, Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties in Minnesota.

C. Einar Johnson, Warren, Minn., president of Western Beet Growers association, was the principal speaker. Mr. Johnson had attended hearings of the agricultural committee in Washington recently in connection with the Sugar Act, and he related his experiences.

Indications are that the present Cuban situation has a great bearing on the present act and whether or not it is extended in its present form or changed in favor of United States producers. Mr. Johnson and other directors of the Western Beet Growers association, appeared at the hearings on behalf of sugar beet growers in the Red River Valley area.

Attending the meeting from Thief River Falls were Leonard Furuseth, Everett Amundgaard, Harry Oen and Ken Onken.

St. Hilaire Boys Involved in Theft from Local Store

Two juveniles who thought they could get away with a transistor radio they took from a local business concern reckoned foolishly, because the owner of the firm was too alert for them and caught them with the radio just after they left his store.

The store owner, who requested anonymity, turned the boys over to local police, who, after further investigation, linked one of the boys with several other thefts in the city.

The boys, both from the St. Hilaire area, were released to their parents, pending their appearance in juvenile court.

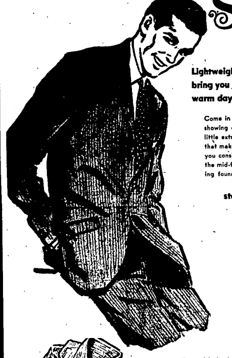
Polio Vaccination Day Set Tuesday

President Urges Public to Obtain Protection

Polio vaccine supplies in the nation are at a high of 26,400,000 doses although more than 90 million Americans still need to be vaccinated, the Public Health service said Tuesday in Washington, D.C.

"Every year for the past four years there has been a surplus of vaccine in the spring and winter followed by a shortage in the summer, when the occurrence of polio cases reminds people they should get vaccinated," Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said in a statement.



President Eisenhower has called for observance of April 12 as Vaccination Day against polio. He noted that April 12 will mark the fifth anniversary of the clearance of Salk vaccine for use against polio.

Parley Will Promote Shipping at Duluth

Dr. Max Myers, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's foreign agricultural service, will participate in the April 29 Duluth Superior Seaway shipping and world trade conference in Minneapolis, according to an announcement made today by E. William Boyer, president of the Minneapolis Area Chamber of Commerce.

Boyer said that in accepting the invitation to take part in the conference, Dr. Myers stated his preference to discuss and answer questions related to the "U.S. Agricultural Export Situation Meanings for the Port of Duluth Superior."

Boyer commented on the fact that, in addition to his key administrative post with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C., Dr. Myers' Midwestern background gives him an unusually keen insight into the primarily agricultural economy of the Twin Port trade area. Dr. Myers was formerly director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and head of the economics department at South Dakota State College. A native of Ireton, Iowa, he was reared on farms near Hudson and Gregory, South Dakota, and farmed near Gregory from 1931 to 1934.

Boyer said that the conference will be held in the Leamington Hotel Hall of States April 29, 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., and is open to all those interested in the area economy.

The purpose of the conference, as outlined by Boyer, is to assemble a key representative group of top administrative specialists in the various fields related to shipping in a one day session with Minnesota and trade area exporters and importers, to exchange current information on the most advantageous use of the St. Lawrence Seaway at its beginning, the Port of Duluth Superior.

Boyer stated that the foundation on which the conference is being built is the tremendous saving on inland transportation costs which can be effected through the Twin Ports.

Aquatennial Derby to Offer $10,000 Prizes

A $10,000 prize list, a lap course change and a revised set of rules designed to make the race more equitable for contestants were announced Saturday for the 1960 Aquatennial Canoe Derby.

Committee Chairman John Skoglund and Executive Director Ed Shave said, the 10-day, 450-miles test of skill, stamina and strength down the Mississippi river, which was revived last year as a natural sporting attraction for the Land of 10,000 Lakes, will be held July 6-15.

Starting at Bemidji and ending at Minneapolis to herald the opening of the 21st Aquatennial July 15-24, the derby prize list will include $5,000 in cash and a similar amount in merchandise for the richest jackpot of any canoe race held on the North American continent.

First prize for the winning two-man team will be $1,500 plus a three-day, all-expenses-paid trip for four persons to Las Vegas via Western Airlines.

The prize list, which will run through 15 places, includes $750 for second, $600 for third, $500 for fourth and $350 for fifth, plus merchandise awards. Low cash payoff will be $50 for 13th thru 15th places.

In addition there will be daily lap and sprint prizes to make the total jackpot $10,000 for an expected starting field of at least 35 teams, Shave said.

The course change has downriver Crosby replacing Aitkin as an overnight stop. This will lengthen the fifth day lap, previously Palisade to Aitkin, to 52 miles, Palisade to Crosby, and shorten the sixth, Crosby to Brainerd, to 40.

To insure more teams surviving the gruelling 51-mile first day lap and the 76 mile second day grind, both of which involve traversing treacherous Lake Winnibigoshish, Shave said course adjustments will be made if the judges feel the water is too rough for safe racing.

Cranberries Are Plentiful in April

Other Food Items Also in Good Supply for Easter

Cranberry products head the U.S. Department of Agriculture's list of April plentiful foods Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota, reported today.

At the Easter season cranberries reach their second highest popularity peak of the year. Consumers are especially fortunate to have such big supplies of cranberry jelly, sauce and juice available to add flavor and color to April meals, Mrs. Loomis said. Pre-Easter holdings of these cranberry products are about equal to a full year's supply.

Broiler-fryer chicken will continue to be plentiful and low priced. Besides chicken, ham and other pork items will be in abundant supply for Easter dinner as the third largest fall pig crop on record comes to market. Consumers can save extra dollars by using the less expensive but equally nutritious pork cuts such as picnics, butts or the blade or armbone shoulder chops.

Shrimp is a good buy this year for Lenten meals, Mrs. Loomis suggested, because of the heavy holdings of frozen shrimp. Rice, an excellent companion for shrimp, is also on the plentiful foods list.

Supplies of eggs will be at a seasonal high during April. Large size eggs continue to be the best buy.

Canned freestone peaches, California dates and raisins are the fruits most plentiful this month. Other good buys for the month are almonds, filberts, peanuts, peanut butter and lard.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS ...UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you —at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.

Editorials . . .

"The regular reader of books is not bounded by his day-to-day experience. Through books, whether fiction or non-fiction, he can get a sense of the lives of thousands of human beings, living in all imaginable times and places, thinking all imaginable thoughts, feeling all imaginable emotions.

"I have already pointed out that good books are enjoyable in themselves. They can be more than that. They can be signposts helping you to make your way through a bewildering world. They do not always tell you how you must live, but they do give you a rich sense of what life is all about. They help you to get rid of that lost feeling so many young people have. In other words, if you're interested in really growing up, books help. Wake up and Read!"

It Really is Nice

When we commented a month or so ago about Jack Edmiston's plans for remodeling the Rex Cafe we said nice things about him and predicted that his restaurant would be a credit to the community. At the time we were not sure about the justification for such a prediction. An owner's promise of what is to be under such circumstances, is not always dependable, we have discovered. And Mr. Edmiston hails from Texas.

We know that in this instance the owner did not exaggerate. As a matter of fact Jack Edmiston's promise of what was to be has proven to be an understatement. The reality far exceeds the promise, and the new Rex, all agree, is a credit to the community. We are gladder now than we were before that Texas Jack decided to continue to make his home in northwestern Minnesota.

Another Revolution

The spreading taxpayers revolt spread to Duluth last week when three members of the school board were replaced and a proposed $7,500,000 bond issue for new schools was defeated by a one-sided vote. The bond issue lost in all of the city's 75 precincts and the count was 23,656 to 4,800.

We are sure the good people of Duluth are not against education. They no doubt want their youngsters to have the best possible educational opportunities. The real issue in the election, it seems, had to do with who is going to run the schools, the school board or the superintendent.

A few more explosions of this kind throughout the state will probably bring about the much-needed return to sanity in the administration of our public schools. From the state level down, our school system has been directed too much by the educators, in the interests of the educators. At all levels, those who have been elected to manage the affairs of our schools have too often abdicated their authority and responsibility to a hired man.

Recent developments here and there throughout the state indicate that those who pay the bills want the school board members to make the important decisions.

Black Jelly Beans

Arthur Flemming, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, is asking for a law that will shift the burden of proof from his department to the manufacturers in determining whether certain food substances or additives are harmful to humans. He thinks black jelly beans may be deadly but he does not know how many black jelly beans a person would have to eat before he developed cancer.

In January he told a House commerce committee that science can't yet tell how much of a cancer-producing substance a man must consume before it produces cancer. If this is true then how are the manufacturers going to be able to prove that black jelly beans in certain quantities are not harmful? It appears that he would expect them to do what he admits is impossible.

The manner in which he has abused the power that he already has is a good reason why he should not be given more power. He has proven himself to be a headline hunter and he obviously lacks the balance and restraint that are essential to good administration. His flair for the sensational makes him far more detrimental to the health, education and welfare of the people than is the black jelly bean.

Grain Hauling

The Minnesota Railroad & Warehouse Commission has agreed to reconsider an earlier order denying to the Soo Line, and other railroads serving the area, a requested rate cut for the shipment of grain. The rate reduction has been tentatively approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the reduced rate is now in effect on interstate shipments. The state commission has authority only over shipments within the state.

In recent years the railroads have been losing grain tonnage volume steadily to the truckers who have been hauling to Duluth and the Twin Cities at a lower rate. The railroads are now seeking to regain this business and request a rate cut that will make them competitive.

We can see no good reason why this request should not be granted. The long distance hauling of grain is a service the railroads should be able to perform most efficiently and, providing they are willing to meet competitive rates, they should have this business. It is unthinkable that we can move all of the freight tonnage on our highways. There already are too many trucks and most of them probably are not paying a fair share of the cost of building and maintaining the roads they roll over. The railroads pay all of their roadbed costs and it is in the public interest that the long-haul movement of freight be by rail.

Because the Soo Line travels through a part of Wisconsin to get to Duluth, shipments from here to Duluth are interstate and the new low rates already are in effect. They are not in effect from here to Minneapolis and St. Paul, however. The state should go along with the federal agency, if for no other reason, to maintain uniformity.

Out of Bounds—

(Shakopee Valley News)

Almost unnoticed during the hectic week of the recent state high school basketball tourney was a meeting of the League Assembly comprised of representatives of each of the 32 districts. One of the actions taken was a reaffirming of the high school league's iron clad decision to control actions of high school athletes at all times during the year, even during the summer holidays.

In this, we think that the schoolmen are completely overstepping their bounds. The action is aimed, to an extent, at the American Legion program of sports including the annual all star football game in August plus various league all-star contests of the Minnesota Amateur Baseball Leagues.

For the record, we submit that both of those organizations were providing summer sports opportunities long before the schoolmen were aware that such summer activity might be desired by the people of the state. In fact, the schools do not provide any particular program of summer organized athletics and it might well be argued that it is a field that should not be invaded by the high school program.

We can recall a number of instances where a high school athlete participated in the league all-star playoff game. For participation in that one game, the high school league solemnly decided that the youth was no longer fit to play in the regular high school athletic events which, it might be pointed out as a reminder, are financed by the taxpayers.

The league is particularly bitter against the all-star football game. No student may participate in this game and remain eligible for high school athletics. As a result, graduating seniors compose the personnel of the two teams. This is probably just as well, and is not a question to discuss in this editorial. However, the bitterness of the high school league is so deep that their rules bar a high school coach from taking any part in the contest. This is sheer nonsense of course. If we are not in error, we understand that a former professional athlete, player or coach, is eligible to hold a high school coaching job. But not, if he is an unpaid mentor of the summer all-star football game.

We had hoped that the annual League Assembly might have given some consideration to modification of their rules. A hope, we are certain, that is shared by thousands of sport fans—and taxpayers—throughout the state. Apparently the League has no intention of relaxing the "kindergarten to the commencement" all-year grip on the youngsters. And if a parent thinks he has some voice in the matter, that parent is deluded.

Ambulance Can Be Dangerous

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

A 23-year-old woman was killed in Brooklyn Center when an ambulance crashed into the side of a passenger automobile at a highway intersection. In the ambulance was another traffic accident victim who was being taken to a hospital.

Ambulance accidents are becoming too common, both around the Twin Cities and in the rest of the country. There have been several such collisions in the St. Paul area.

Here is a pertinent comment from Traffic Safety, published by the National Safety Council:

"The speeding ambulance, screaming and weaving through traffic with an accident victim, has been condemned by a joint medical-safety committee . . . The committee stated that 'speed is seldom if ever a factor in the preservation of a life, and speeding ambulances result in more traffic deaths than lives saved.'

"Surgeons on the committee emphasized that injuries are frequently made worse by fast driving and that the best patient care is a smooth ride. The committee recommended strict obedience to speed limits and traffic laws by ambulance drivers."

City and state regulations commonly give both public and private ambulances the right to ignore standard traffic rules. The intention is good, but in today's heavy volume of traffic there are great dangers in taking such risks.

The Rights of Men

The "spring thaw," it is to be hoped, should also bring a "thaw" in the long controversy surrounding civil rights. On the House side, civil rights has occupied the floor for many, many days as I write this, and although we have not seen such extreme measures as those employed in the Senate, we have been spending the longest legislative days of this session debating this issue.

Civil rights has no direct bearing on our Ninth district. No qualified person is being denied the right to vote and no schools or churches are being bombed out of hate. However, there are two important reasons why I am devoting a large portion of this month's newsletter to this subject. The first is the tremendous amount of interest which this subject has generated throughout the country. And the second, and most important, is that whenever fundamental constitutional rights are being denied citizens of our country, no matter where, it is a matter of concern for all of us. For if basic rights can be denied in one section of a free country, there is nothing stopping their denial in all sections.

The basic argument which those opposed to federal legislation in the field of civil rights are using is that such legislation would be an infringement of States' Rights. This is a very real danger. State and local governments have very definite and very important rights and responsibilities in this and other fields, and it is an unfortunate thing when the federal government takes these over. For ordinarily, when Washington enters the scene, three bad situations result.

1. We get people administering programs who are not familiar with local conditions, and who oftentimes do their administering from an easy chair on the Potomac.

2. When tax money is involved, such programs end up costing us more, because of the cost of the federal round trip to and back from Washington.

3. The more rights and responsibilities that State and local governments abdicate to the federal government, the less control and initiative we retain over our own affairs.

But when State and local units of government are unwilling or unable to meet the needs of their people and to administer the laws of the land, then there is no alternative but federal action. This is the case concerning civil rights. On March 30, 1870 the 15th amendment was written into our Constitution, and states

"The rights of citizens . . . to vote shall not be denied . . . on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude."

There have been, therefore, 90 years in which to make this section of the Constitution effective, and it has not been done. One woman was denied the vote because she misquoted her birth date by one day. A registered voter testified that he had decided not to vote because, "I am too old to be beaten up." A businessman refused to testify before the Civil Rights Commission because, "They would bomb my business out of existence if I even talked with you."

Therefore, the Congress of the United States must take action, and I am sure this action will be forthcoming shortly, perhaps by the time you receive this letter. But there is a lesson here for all of us — a lesson telling us what can happen if we refuse, as States and localities, to administer the laws and meet the needs of our people.

Developments in Agriculture

As of this writing, I have little to report to you on the status of agricultural legislation. Little activity has been forthcoming from the House Committee on agriculture concerning either grains or sugar beets. A few witnesses have been heard and some deliberative sessions have been held but these are so few as to hardly bear mentioning.

On the brighter side, however, there was a news release from the Department that 1958-crop oats had been added to their earlier announced reseal program. When the new reseal program was brought out in February, I was pleased that 1958-crop barley was included, since we had urged this in discussions with officials of the department, but I was disappointed that 1958 crop oats had been left out. Because of the importance of 1958-crop oats reseal to the Ninth district and the state of Minnesota, (almost one third of the 29.9 million bushels presently under reseal are in Minnesota), I requested the department to reconsider, and they informed me on March 10 that this addition had been made.

He "Auto" Know Better

Should have seen the crowd come running when Cap Edwards breezed up to the Post Office in his brand-new buggy. It's one of those pint-size foreign cars with the motor in back and the trunk up front.

While folks opened doors, poked upholstery and peeked under the hood, Cap went in to pick up his mail. A minute later a fellow came up to him, all out of breath.

"Say, mister," he said to Cap, "better get back to your car. Somebody's opened the hood and swiped your whole darn engine!"

From where I sit, most of us are people of habit—new things take some getting used to. And, too, most of us have "favorites" for which there'll never be a substitute. For instance, my summer Saturday nights are spent on the porch with a refreshing glass of beer and close friends. Now maybe you have a "newer, better" way to spend Saturday. Fine! You do it your way, I'll do it mine. That's American—isn't it!

Tips on Income Taxes

By Minnesota State Bar Assn.

(This is the twelfth in a series of articles on income tax made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association, public relations committee.)

Deductions for Taxes

Itemized personal deductions on your income tax return are generally the result of specific law authorizing such deductions. As such, they are not available to you as a matter of right and, as the taxpayer claiming a deduction for these expenses, you must either be able to specifically prove that you are entitled to the deductions or, in the alternative, prove that the deductions taken are reasonable for a taxpayer in your station in life.

One of the most difficult deductions to specifically prove is the deduction for taxes paid because taxes are included in the purchase price of many of the items that you buy every day. The insignificance of each such payment of taxes often results in careless accounting concerning the amount of taxes you pay.

Deductible taxes differ slightly with respect to your Minnesota and federal returns. The taxes most commonly deducted on your federal return are state income taxes, real estate taxes, personal property taxes, automobile license taxes, state gasoline taxes, and driver's license fees.

While the ordinary real estate tax is deductible, special tax assessments which are levied against your property are not deductible if they are for improvements, such as streets, sewers, or sidewalks which increase the value of your property.

The taxes listed above which you may deduct on your federal return are either imposed directly upon you or are treated as being imposed upon you by the tax law. However, taxes which are included in items you buy but which are not imposed upon you are not deductible. Included in this category are such items as alcohol and tobacco taxes. In addition, the federal law does not allow the deduction of federal income taxes paid, Social Security taxes paid for yourself or your personal servants, inheritance taxes, and all federal excise taxes such as those included in the purchase price of automobiles or jewelry.

The Minnesota tax on gasoline is five cents per gallon. Gasoline taxes imposed vary from state to state. Deduction for gasoline taxes should, of course, be based upon the specific number of gallons purchased in Minnesota and other states. However, where this computation is impossible due to inadequate records, you can often arrive at a reasonable approximation of your gasoline taxes paid by determining the number of miles you drove your car in each state, dividing this figure by the number of miles you receive per gallon, and then multiplying the number of gallons used by the tax per gallon in various states where you used your car.

The same method of determining tax can be used where you made purchases and paid a state sales tax. For example, you would approximate states sales taxes paid by determining the amount of your income subject to tax which you spent in a state where a state sales tax is imposed and by multiplying this figure by the percentage of tax imposed on each dollar of purchases subject to tax.

The deduction of real estate taxes paid in the year you sell real property requires special treatment. The taxes payable in 1959 are deductible by you where you sell a house in this year because these taxes are, in fact, 1958 taxes which are paid in 1959. The 1959 taxes do not become payable until 1960. On your 1959 return, in addition to taxes which you have paid, a part of the 1959 real estate taxes which are payable in 1960 may be deducted by you.

The amount is determined by multiplying the 1959 taxes on the property by the number of days you own the property and then dividing this amount by the number of days in the year. The additional tax deduction is deductible by you in the year you sold your house, though the purchaser does not pay them until the following year. In determining your gain from the sale of this house, however, you must add to the sales price the amount of taxes for 1959 which your purchaser will pay for you in 1960.

All of the above taxes are also deductible from your Minnesota return except for state income taxes, real and personal property taxes on property located outside the state of Minnesota, and Minnesota driver's license fees. Certain federal taxes such as income tax on telephone and telegraph services, transportation, club dues, safe deposit boxes, and Social Security taxes on domestic help can also be deducted. However excise taxes such as those imposed on the sale of jewelry, liquor, tobacco, and other articles where the tax is not imposed upon you are not deductible.

On your Minnesota return, you are also entitled to deduct federal income taxes paid during 1959. However, if you have income which is included in your federal return but not included in your Minnesota taxable income, you must apportion your federal income tax paid between income taxed in Minnesota and non-taxable income in arriving at the amount of federal income taxes deductible on your Minnesota return.

The Timid Soul — A WEBSTER CLASSIC

THELMA

"It's A Survey — Francine Is Calling Everyone About Homer —"

Fortunate indeed is the man whose family will listen to and participate in discussing his philosophies and pet theories at the dinner table. Being such a fortunate man I was recently expounding my profound belief that the human animal cannot be completely happy, logical, or well balanced without spending a portion of his time communing with nature.

This is a vitamin of the soul, which individuals require in varying doses to remain content and sound of mind. Some need it every day, and they are happiest on the farm or in other outdoor work; some can thrive with a heavy dose of the nature vitamin on weekends; but those who exist in the catacombs of cities strive in vain for the full life. They see only man-made forms and structures. They touch only glass, plastic, steel and cloth. They hear only the sounds of man-made machines and they smell only smoke, exhaust fumes and artificial perfumes. Their environment is entirely artificial and their dulled senses cannot heed their inner souls crying to see, hear, smell and touch those things which God has created.

The medical researcher is making gigantic strides in curing and preventing the physical ailments of man, but most of his mental ills are not even diagnosed and seldom cured.

Within the next century or two we may achieve the predicted life span of a hundred years, but who wants a hundred years of frustration and ill content?

Some ills will never be cured in the modern clinic. There is no artificial substitute for the therapeutic value of lying on one's back on the forest floor, inhaling the indescribable aroma of the woods in the spring, hearing clear notes of the hermit thrush, and watching wind, sun, and myrtle warblers playing together and each enjoying the other in the tree tops.

Nor is there a substitute for plunging your hands into cool earth and crumbling rich soil through your fingers, or standing knee deep in a prairie marsh where, of all the places I have seen, life is most bountiful in the spring. There blackbirds and terns fly close and scream at your intrusion. So many kinds of shore birds run along the mud flats that, except for the spotted sandpiper who teeters back and forth as he stands, you can't identify them. Then a mud hen swims past with ten little black dots trailing behind, each with a red spot on his face, and you realize that at the right age even a mud hen is cute.

You also realize that no human should live out his life without spending at least one spring day on a prairie marsh.

Well, at about this point in my dinner table philosophizing, my eldest son, who seems to have acquired more dang knowledge and culture than is proper for a 17 year old kid, interjected a statement which rather ended my oration.

He said, "I agree with you, Pa, but your thoughts are not exactly original. The world reknown historian, Toynbee, has predicted dire things for our civilization because of too much urbanization and drifting away from nature."

O.K., so I'm not original, but I do agree with Toynbee.

Now, to be practical about this, I can hear some of you readers saying, "We agree that getting all people, not just those who hunt and fish, out to enjoy and benefit from nature and all wildlife is important. So why don't you, as game and fish director do something about it? Why don't you establish nature areas with woods trails — areas developed for an abundance of all species of wildlife, not just game areas where wildlife can be seen and maybe hunted? And why don't you develop bicycle trails through areas of natural beauty and a hundred other things that could be done for all of us? Game and fish belong to all the people of the state and we all pay taxes."

You can hardly realize how much we would like to do these things, and how important we think they are, and how much really could be done. The division of game and fish, however, like any other department of state government, must operate within the budgetary limitations of an appropriation. Rest assured game and fish management will do everything in their power to enhance wildlife and multiple use values of Minnesota Outdoors.

Try New Vegetable Varieties

• • •

Tendercrop green snap bean has the disease resistance and high crop yield of Topcrop and the quality of Tendergreen. The Kinghorn Wax is a yellow bush bean with round white-seeded pods which are good for freezing.

• • •

New carrots for the garden are Waltham Hicolor and Gold Pak, both of which need a deep, loosely prepared soil for development of long tapering roots. Nantes is still considered one of the earliest and sweetest of all varieties.

• • •

• • •

Two new radishes are Red Boy and Red Prince. Both are summer varieties, but Red Prince is disease resistant.

• • •

• • •

Greenhart leaf lettuce has tolerance against going to seed and it produces an attractive frilled leaf of good quality.

• • •

For early sweet corn, plant Sugar and Gold, North Star and Earliking. Golden Beauty is a dependable midseason hybrid.

• • •

A new early hybrid tomato is Hybrid EE. Fireball is a dependable open-pollinated variety. Big Boy hybrid and Hybrid M are large-fruiting types, especially good for staking.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Q—I need some quick money for an emergency and have been wondering if I should cash in my permanent plan GI life insurance. Before I do this, I'd like some advice from VA. Will you please tell me what would be involved?

A—The VA advises you NOT to cash in your permanent plan GI life insurance. All protection ceases when the policy is surrendered for cash, because, once cancelled, it cannot be restored. You would be much better off to borrow on your insurance. Paid up policyholders may borrow as much as 94 per cent of the policy's cash surrender value.

Q—I know there's a deadline coming up pretty soon for us World War Two veterans on GI home loans. What is the date exactly, and what does it mean?

A—Under present law, July 25, 1960, is the cut-off date for World War Two veterans to apply for a GI loan. You will be allowed an additional year in which to have the loan processed and actually closed.

Q—I now receive VA disability pension, under the present law. If I decide to switch to the new system of payment, effective July 1, 1960, will my change be considered final?

A—Yes. If you do decide to move over to the new system, you cannot go back to the old. If you have any doubt about which method of payment is more advantageous to you the new or the old, ask your nearest VA office to help you decide.

Q—I am the beneficiary of my veteran husband's GI insurance policy. He owed a few bills to private individuals at his death, which I intend to pay. Meanwhile, do these creditors have any right to seize the GI insurance policy to get their money right away?

A—No. The proceeds of your husband's GI insurance are exempted by law from any claims of private creditors. The insurance money may not be seized or attached to pay his debts.

Red Cross Aids Flood Victims in Midwest

Full scale Red Cross disaster relief operations now being conducted in the eight flood-stricken midwestern states, where more than 30,000 persons have been affected, emphasize the need for Minnesota Red Cross chapters to meet annual fund goals which total $1,788,346 in the state, said Kingsley Day, Red Cross national fund vice chairman for Minnesota, at Minneapolis today.

"Minnesota Red Cross chapters have still to raise $604,183 in order that Red Cross services, including disaster relief, can be adequately financed for the fiscal year," Mr. Day said.

"Although the Red Cross has official responsibility under congressional charter for family relief in all disasters, its only source of income is through voluntary contributions made by the American people. These are the only funds available to Red Cross for expenditures such as in this present midwest flood disaster or for any of its other services. Its effectiveness depends entirely upon the generosity of the public."

Mr. Day said Red Cross volunteers are feeding both flood victims and rescue workers in the eight-state flood area which includes South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Nursing and medical care is being provided for flood sufferers along with clothing, help in moving household furnishings, and providing shelter. There are 18 Red Cross shelters housing more than 1,300 persons.

More than 6,700 homes have been damaged by floodwaters, Mr. Day said. Where families do not have the resources to make their own recovery, the Red Cross will help in rebuilding or repairing these homes, replacement of household furniture and furnishings, clothing, tools, and other needed equipment. "This financial help is not a loan but an outright gift from the American people through their Red Cross to stricken families and individuals to meet disaster-caused needs," Mr. Day pointed out.

U. S. Diet Changes in Past 15 Years

'U' M. Home Economist Says Diet Has Improved

America's eating habits are changing.

Today's American is eating a better diet with more of the necessary protein, vitamins and minerals than was the case 15 years ago, according to Annette Gormican, assistant professor of home economics at the University of Minnesota.

As a nation, we are eating more meat, poultry, eggs, milk, fats and sugars. We are also eating more green and yellow vegetables, tomatoes and citrus fruits, but fewer potatoes and grain products, according to a survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Total per capita calorie consumption is less, but so is the requirement for calories.

Much of our fat intake comes from the so-called invisible fats in meat, dairy products and eggs. Thus fat supplies about 82 per cent of the calories in a hamburger, 65 per cent of the calories in eggs, 65 per cent of the calories in a wiener. About two-thirds of the fat we eat is of animal origin and in large part is saturated fat. However, vegetable fats and oils are becoming more popular.

Total milk consumption has increased in recent years. On the other hand, one out of three families in the United States still lacks calcium because not enough milk is consumed, according to the USDA study.

The average value of food eaten in 1960, including that raised by farmers for home consumption, will be about $400 per person, according to Agricultural Marketing Service figures.

2,000 Due at State FFA Convention

Meeting Set May 1 to 3 on St. Paul Campus of 'U' M.

More than 2,000 farm youths will attend the 31st annual state Future Farmers of America convention May 1-3 on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus.

The attendance is expected to be higher than at any previous convention, according to W. J. Kortesmaki, state FFA executive secretary.

Highlights of the convention will include public speaking/parliamentary procedure and judging contests; election of new officers; delegate sessions; and conferral of state FFA degrees.

The State Star farmer degree—highest state FFA award—will be presented at the convention banquet May 2 at the St. Paul municipal auditorium. Banquet speaker will be Jim Thomas, Patterson, Ga., national FFA president.

The traditional "hand milking contest" between the State Star Dairy Farmers and Princess Kay of the Milky Way will be held May 3 on the St. Paul campus.

Convention delegates will be representing more than 12,400 FFA members — the highest number ever in Minnesota—and 284 local high school chapters.

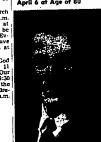
Army Engineers Cite $1,237,500 Savings in Floods on R.L. River

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said today in St. Paul that the Red Lake and Clearwater flood control project has prevented $1,237,500 in flood damages since it was put into operation in 1953.

This represents about a 45 per cent return on the original $2,870,050 construction cost.

Army Engineers also disclosed that flood control projects in the St. Paul District had prevented $7,000,000 in flood damage since they were built.



Figures compiled showed a saving of $6,924,400—or $67,800 per average year of operation—from major flood protection improvements currently in operation.

Colonel Desloge Brown, St. Paul district engineer, said this already represented about a 40 per cent return on the $16,881,300 invested in initial construction. He said that over a 50-year period, and possibly sooner depending upon the frequency of floods, more than a 100 per cent return on the original investment can be expected. The average age of the projects is only about eight years. One project

Andrew Ness, Once Member Co. Board and Council, Dies

ANDREW NESS

Andrew Ness, former member of the Pennington county board and of the Thief River Falls city council, died April 6 at the age of 80 at his home in Long Beach, California, where he and Mrs Ness had lived since leaving this city about 15 years ago.

Born in Norway February 29, 1880, Mr. Ness came to Thief River Falls in 1900 and farmed for many years in Silverton township. After moving into this city, he served on the city council from 1920 to 1924 as fourth ward alderman, and also was for some years a county commissioner.

Ness was married to Rosa Reirson of Holt, who survives his death together with six children; two sisters, Mrs Anna Myrom of Thief River Falls and Thea of Sweden; and three brothers, Dan of this city and Knute and Gilbert of Holt. He was preceded in death by one son, a brother and two sisters.

Funeral rites for Mr. Ness were conducted Saturday, April 9, in Long Beach, with burial in that city. Mrs. Anna Myrom of this city attended the services for her brother.

Rotarians Hear of Objections to the Forand Bill

Dr. M. D. Starekow Calls It Uneconomical Method of Providing Medical Care

Dr. M. D. Starekow spoke in opposition to the Forand bill at the Monday, April 11, noon meeting of the Rotary club calling it "the most uneconomical way of dong the job" of providing medical care for citizens over 65 years of age.

"I don't want the government in my business any more than it is now," the speaker said, "and I hope that for the good of the community, you will be against it too."

He reported on a recent discussion he had had with Congressman Odin Langen who said that he was against the bill but that, during this election year, much pressure has been exerted for its passage. Dr. Starekow told the Rotarians that many of those in favor of the bill feel that they have been cheated by insurance plans which have been with companies which were "fly-by-night."

The doctor emphasized that he was in favor of preserving the free enterprise system and that a socialized system of medicine would not provide as good patient care as at present. He admitted that the cost of medical care has increased but said that it was not as much as the increased cost of living since 1936.

If the Forand bill were passed, social security rates would be increased and the restrictions and interference of the government in medical care would come into effect, according to the speaker.

Group to Fight Lake Project in Marshall Co.

Opposes the Middle River Watershed Plan at Newfolden

A 10-member steering committee to oppose the Middle River Watershed formation together with the creation of the proposed Interbeach lake was organized at a meeting of 250 persons at Newfolden Thursday night, the Warren Sheaf reports. The organization followed a ringing denunciation of the plan by Andrew Strandquist of Warren, office manager of the Marshall County ASC who has land which would be affected by the proposed damming up of Middle River waters.

Named to the comittee were Ervin Strandquist, Foldahl; Alton Carlson, Newfolden, Olger Rokke, West Valley; George Kuznia, Wright; Neil Kruger, Alma; George Fricker, Middle River; Verne Green, Marsh Grove; Oscar Rokke, Marsh Grove; George Qualley, Foldahl; and Arthur Haugen, Foldahl.

"Our problem here is too much water, not too little. This watershed is all bunk to me. Listen to them for 10 minutes and they'll sell you down the river," said Mr. Strandquist as he warmed up to his subject to the delight of the audience.

"Argyle expects to get a sugar beet plant but I doubt if this will ever happen because of this mud hole," Mr. Strandquist said. "I don't trust the studies of engineers. Any ditching we do we can do without a watershed. Hasn't Marshall county contributed enough giving two large lakes without creating another mud hole which would ruin both Argyle and Newfolden and Argyle will probably lose business because of pushing it," Mr. Strandquist said.

Ervin Strandquist, son of Andrew Strandquist, member of the Newfolden school board and owner of a farm which would be mostly inundated by the lake, was elected chairman of the meeting. He briefly stated that "I have never seen a duck buy machinery or groceries or pay taxes. We're here to oppose this thing and that is what we intend to do."

Calling on County Agent William Henderson for remarks, Mr Henderson said, "We don't agree but still we respect each other. None of you have discouraged my opinion. We had public meetings last year even though we knew there was great opposition. Our office is merely trying to give out information; it is not our job to get involved in controversy. We're working as extension agents and we'd like to keep it that way."

Petitions drawn up by Attorney Robert Wurst of Thief River Falls who attended the meeting were circulated and signed with the steering committee organizing after the public meeting to plan a course of action Doctor Starcher was one of five University officials and wives who made the trip here from Grand Forks to attend the meeting, arranged by Milton L. Schlechter. Others in the Starcher party were Lloyd Stone, UND alumni director; L. R. Marti, acting athletic director at UND; Gordon Caldis, alumni member on the UND athletic board of control, and Mrs Stone.

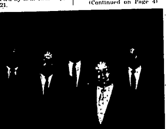
There was a good turnout for the event and would have been larger except that numerous local teachers were out of town this week.

In the election of officers of the Thief River Falls UND alumni group, Dr. Milton D Starekow was named president, Dr. G. I. Sholy, supt. of schools at Warren was elected vice president; Joe Forsberg, secretary; and Milton L. Schlechter, treasurer.



Caldis, a native of this city, described athletics at the university as "on the verge of a great awakening." Marti spoke on the UND athletic program also, giving an insight into the future of athletics at the university. "While we won't always be champions, we'll always have good competitive teams," Marti stated.

Dr. Starcher spoke concerning the growth of the university with emphasis on growth in the past five years and the needs of the university as a result of tremendously increased attendance.

The university education program emphasizes "quantity of quality", he stated. The academically superior high school graduate continues to be attracted to the U and these will be preferred as students, Starcher said. All high school graduates in the upper half of their classes are the preferred type of college student, while those in the lower 25 per cent will be carefully screened and advised as to their attending the university.

No effort is being spared to encourage and help the superior student, those who comprise the upper 25 per cent of their high school graduating classes. Aid

Work Is Scheduled in Area Between Main and Atlantic

Thief River Falls is scheduled for 17 lineal blocks of street improvement this year when the project is approved by the benefited property owners.

At a special council meeting Monday evening, April 11, a feasibility report was ordered to be prepared for the regular meeting April 19 on the streets within the area bounded on the west by Main ave., on the east by Atlantic ave., on the south by Fourth st., and on the north by Eighth st. The work would include the preparation of the subbase and the laying of hot-mix bituminous paving. Curbs and gutters are already installed in much of the area and would be necessary on those streets where they have not been put in before street surfacing is done.

Present at the meeting were Alvin Jablinske, street commissioner, and D. H. Stewart, consulting engineer for the city. Using preliminary figures, Jablinske computed the cost to benefited property owners for the street work at $1.25 per foot of frontage. Cost of curb and gutter was estimated at $2.50 per foot.

Some questions were asked as to whether these cost estimates were high enough to cover certain items in the work and a full report will be made at the April 19 meeting.

D. H. Stewart raised the question of whether business district streets would be sealcoated this year and a survey of the work will be made. The question of limiting loads on residential streets to prevent damage was again raised and it was decided that a change in the city ordinance would be necessary to reduce the load limit to less than the nine-ton restriction now in force.

A report was made by Ole Ness, superintendent of the sewage disposal plant, that large quantities of cooling water are being discharged into the sanitary sewer system by the Thief River Co-op creamery contrary to an agreement made at a meeting Aug. 12, 1959. A committee composed of D. H. Stewart, Alderman A. J. Rau and Olaf Dahlen, and Ole Ness was appointed to investigate the matter. The discharge of oil into the river through one of the storm sewer outlets was also reported and the matter will also be investigated.

A request by A. J. Rau, alderman at large, that he be relieved as chairman of the street committee was not acted upon by the council which asked that he continue with that responsibility. Council members expressed the opinion that although they at times might disagree with Rau, they felt that he was doing a good job.

Also discussed was the possible change of the city ordinance to require parallel parking on at least one side of Second st. between Main and Horace aves. where diagonal parking is now permitted. No action was taken on the matter.

Earl Arneson of Minneapolis, business agent for the Teamsters' union, arrived by North Central plane during the council meeting to ask that wage increases be given waitresses at the liquor store and the airport manager. Following lengthy discussion, no increase was given the airport manager whose pay scale is still on progression but he will be given consideration following the period. Waitresses were given a 3c an hour increase to $1.19 an hour.

Business Rather Slow in Municipal Court Here Monday

Three Drivers Brought in by Highway Patrol; Others by Local Police

Business was again rather slow in Monday's municipal court session, with only a relative handful of cases compared with same previous weeks. Judge H. O. Chommie presided.

Three persons were brought in on four charges by the highway patrol. Stuart O. Sweet, St. Hilaire, paid a $15 fine for illegal parking, while altering a 1958 license plate to look like a 1960 plate cost Charles P. Gruse, city, $20.

Norman R. Briese, city, was fined $10 for failure to display 1960 plates and an additional $30 for driving after license suspension. All the above persons pleaded guilty to the charges against them.

All other cases Monday were brought by city police. Roger B. Olson, city, was fined $25 for driving after license revocation. Charles R. Wiggins and Harvey L. Lund, both city, were fined, Wiggins $10 and Lund $15 for driving with illegal mufflers.

Frank M. Schmitz, city, was fined $10 for an improper U turn, while Audry L. Johnson, city, was sentenced to 30 days in jail, released on parole, for having an open bottle of intoxicants in his car. Allen D. Alby got the same sentence for driving after his license was cancelled, and was also released on parole.

Alvin P. Bakke, rt. 2, Newfolden, forfeited $30 bond for driving after license suspension; while permitting an unlicensed person to drive his car cost August O. Anderson, Newfolden, a $15 fine.

UND President Addresses Local Alumni at Dinner

is given through grants, scholarships and loans.

Doctor Starcher cited the importance of alumni gifts in university progress and in helping the university emphasize quality in its program through grants, fellowships, etc.

In the matter of federal aid to higher education, Starcher said it would be preferable if the states could conduct their own affairs in this respect. However, he stated, this is not always possible and a considerable amount of federal aid is already being received; were this not so, the university would not have been able to progress as it has, and it will require additional federal aid if progress is to continue at its present rate.

He said alumni contributions could go to make not only a better school but a better world.

Following the president's address J. Lloyd Stone spoke on the importance of a loyal alumni to a university and cited instances where loyal alumni have contributed materially to university progress, specifically Hancock and Johnstone halls, dormitories named after a financier and educator, respectively.

The Corps of Engineers St. Paul District covers all of Minnesota, northeast half of North Dakota, western half of Wisconsin, and small corners of South Dakota, Iowa and Michigan. It does not include the Missouri River basin improvements in South Dakota.

Army Engineers follow several basic methods in controlling floods, said Brown. They consist of:

1. Increasing the river's capacity to carry flood water by improving the channel, ie., straightening, clearing or deepening it.
2. Diverting heavy flows by digging new channels to handle the excess water.
3. Constructing dams to hold back water in reservoirs.
4. Building levees and flood walls to keep water away from damage points.

The Library Corner

By Eleanor Olson

Spring has never seemed so slow in coming. The thermometer is having such a time agreeing with the sun that feels so warm in sheltered spots, I can't resist peeking under the leaf mulch on the flowers and although I verbally and sensibly agree with my husband that it is a good thing the earth is still frozen, I am secretly disappointed.

If I am disappointed think how anxiously the residents of the Far North must wait for the first signs of spring. Spring up beyond the Arctic Circle comes, it seems, to the tundra with an overnight beauty. One day there is only the barren brown broken by patches of snow here and there and the next day there is a carpet of color from the tiny flowers that have burst into bloom, taking advantage of the melting snow for water. The animal residents change their coats, the birds change their plumage.

No book describes the exultation of animals, flowers and man at the return of the sun half as well as "Spring on an Arctic Island," by Katherine Scherman. Mrs. Scherman went on a scientific expedition with seven scientists to Bylot Island, a small island 450 miles north of Arctic Circle. She isn't a scientist herself, so this is her own personal account of the six weeks spent in the serene timelessness of the long, long day. (This far north the sun doesn't set for three months.)

The camp was 20 miles across the sea ice from the Hudson Bay Post of Pond Inlet on Baffin Island. Pond Inlet's total permanent population is seven, two HBC men, two RMP men and three missionaries; still it can be found in the atlas represented by a firm black dot, a mark of distinction in the many thousands of uninhabited square miles of the Arctic.

If you become interested in the Arctic's animals, birds or people after you read Mrs. Scherman's book you might go on to read "The Arctic Year," which Peter Freuchen wrote with Finn Salomonsen. These two experts follow the Arctic night from its disappearance to its return, telling the activities of all the Northern inhabitants, animal and human. (I consulted it again last week to try and find specific information on the summer plumage of the Willow Ptarmigan, which in the past have been seen as far south as Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties.)

The Northern lights the other night reminded me to tell you about "Driftwood Valley," by Theodora Stanwell-Fletcher. Mrs. S.-F. went with her husband into the depths of Northern British Columbia to collect specimens for the University of B.C.'s natural history museum. In diary form, she records their daily observations, occupations, the depths of temperatures and the struggles and beauties of nature that surround them. She felt in their two years in the North that the Northern lights were at their peak at the change of the seasons. (This is I think my personal favorite story of the Far North.)

But I found almost equally interesting Katherine Pinkerton's "Wilderness Wife." This is an older book, written by the wife of a young city reporter who is driven out of newspaper work by his health. In the depths of the depression, they spend their last money on equipment and supplies and set out for the wilds of Ontario to make a living off the land and free lance writing. Like the Stanwell-Fletchers they built their own cabin, but unlike them they had no planned source of income. The suspense of mail call and a possible check is almost as great for reader as it must have been for the writer. As a city girl K. Pinkerton did well in adjusting to outdoor life. She even started a trapline and learned to drive dogs. She was tracked into boarding.

You'll find any of these books fascinating enough to make a few more days speed by until spring comes to Thief River and our own nearly perma frost disappears.

Marshall County to Expend $883,450 on Road Projects in '60

Expansion and improvements on the Marshall county road system during 1960 will cost an estimated $883,450, according to the annual report issued by Henry I. Knutson, Marshall county highway engineer, says the Warren Sheaf. An estimated $762,233 in total revenue is expected including $571,033 from the road users funds and $191,200 from county road funds. A surplus of $233,330 was available January 1 and added to the estimated revenue makes a total of $995,563 available for road use.

The total of $762,233 in estimated revenue is composed of the following amounts: Road user fund, $481,033; tax apportionment, $156,000; federal aid, $90,000; township reimbursement, $28,000; village reimbursement, $1,000; ditch fund, $5,000; and miscellaneous items, $1,200.

Estimated expenditures for the 1960 construction season include administration and engineering $35,000; vacation and sick leave, $6,200; maintenance, $240,000, land and buildings, $5,000, new equipment, $15,000; and supplies inventory, $10,000. Construction expenditures are expected to include the following:

CSAH 6, west of Stephen, base and bituminous, $198,000; CSAH 4, east of Argyle, base and bituminous, $164,000; CSAH 2, grade, gravel and right of way, $97,000; CSAH 54, 5.0 miles, reshape and gravel, $5,000; County Highway 117, 2 miles, grade and gravel, $6,750; CSAH 30, 4 miles, reshape and gravel, $11,500.

Also County Highway 118, 1 mile, grade and gravel, $3,450, CSAH 39, 2 miles, reshape and gravel, $1,750; CSAH 1, 4 miles, reshape and gravel, $12,800; CSAH 27, 2.5 miles, reshape and gravel, $8,400; CSAH 29, 2.5 miles, reshape and gravel, $9,300; and CSAH 22, 3 miles, reshape and gravel, $12,300.

Authorized work contributions, township and village maintenance and ditch fund expenses are expected to cost about $41,700. An estimated balance of $112,113 is anticipated including $21,774 in the road user fund and $133,888 in the county road fund.

"If we can continue our present program of bituminous surfacing we will have, by the end of 1962, approximately 100 miles of bituminous surfaced highways," Knutson said in his annual report. "Our County Road and Bridge Fund should serve as a cushion so we can maintain or possibly increase this rate of construction."

Applications for Wool Payments Due by Monday, May 2

Must Report All Sales of Wool and Unshorn Lambs for Year Ending March 31

Patrick W. Culkins office manager of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, today urged wool growers who sold wool or lambs during 1959 marketing year which ended March 31 to file their applications for payment under the national wool program as quickly as possible.

Early filing is highly desirable, Culkins said, because the information on applications is needed for use in computing the average price received by growers. This must be done before the payment rates for shorn wool and unshorn lambs can be determined. Since April 30 falls on Saturday this year, the final date for filing applications is May 2.

The applications being filed at this time are to show all sales of wool and unshorn lambs during the period between April 1, 1959 and March 31, 1960. For a sale to be considered completed during that period, title must have passed to the buyer, the wool must have been delivered, and the last of the factors needed to determine the net sales proceeds must be available.

Culkins urges growers to be particularly careful in reporting purchases of unshorn lambs on their applications. Inaccuracy on this point is the most troublesome problem in administering the wool payment program, he said.

Under the wool program, payments are made to growers as an incentive to increase wool production. The payment rate is the percentage necessary to bring the national average price received by growers up to the incentive level of 62 cents a pound. Under the percentage system the grower who receives the highest price for his wool also receives the largest payment.

Gun Safety Section Cites Law on Subject

Recent records of the Minnesota firearms safety section show a marked increase in the number of shooting accidents occurring in homes and buildings and in other activities not associated with hunting.

Of particular significance is the rise in the number of shootings caused by the negligent or unskilled handling of hand guns. One peculiar feature of this increase is that most of the wounds are accidentally self inflicted — apparently as a result of attempting to pull the gun from the holster and fire rapidly, after the style of the western heroes on television.

The firearms safety section has as its principal activity the education and training in safe firearm practices of Minnesota youth. The program, initiated in 1955, is open to the age group 12-16.

Under the law, in order to hunt or have legally in possession any firearm, residents of Minnesota over 12 years of age and under 14 must be accompanied by parent or guardian and must have a firearm safety certificate or a small game hunting license. Residents over 14 years of age and under 16 must either have a license and be accompanied by parent or guardian, or have a firearm safety certificate.

The law does not apply to a person using or possessing firearms on land owned by himself or a parent or guardian.

Those successfully completing the course of instruction offered by the program get a real bonus since the certificate can be used in lieu of a small game license for the four years between age 12 and age 16.

The law will be strictly enforced this year. This was not the case in the past because the course of instruction was not before available everywhere, however the section now has approximately 3,000 volunteer instructors distributed throughout the state and those persons affected by the law will be required to comply with its provisions.

A $2 enrollment fee is charged to cover the cost of ammunition, targets, and other training materials. The law provides for at least 7 hours of instruction but longer periods may be offered at the discretion of the instructor.

So far 71,000 young people have been issued their certificates in Minnesota which places this state in third place among all the states offering similar training courses.

Jerome P. Liemandt, assistant chief game warden in charge of firearms safety, feels that definite success has been achieved with the program and points to the fact that there has been a trend upwards in the age of those involved in firearms accidents since the program began in 1955.

Liemandt said that he especially wished to express his gratitude to the instructors who serve completely without pay and must even defray their own traveling and other expenses.

The program is under the supervision of the conservation department. Those seeking to enroll in the instruction classes should contact their local game warden who will refer them to an instructor.

Fosston Co. Gets Thorhult Road Job

Three highway maintenance contracts amounting to $107,074 have been awarded by the Minnesota highway department. They call for work on nearly 23 miles of trunk highways in Bemidji and Brainerd maintenance districts. Included is the award to Anderson Brothers Construction Co. of Fosston of a $24,724 contract on submitting the lowest of five bids for grading 3.9 miles of T.H. 89, located between Thorhult and a point 3.9 miles south of Thorhult in Beltrami county.

Water Conserving Stamp Due Apr. 19

Three-colored Stamp Available at Postoffice

WATER CONSERVATION 4¢ UNITED STATES POSTAGE

This is a black and white reproduction of the 4 cent water conservation stamp that goes on sale Tuesday, April 19, at the postoffice here. The stamp, printed in three colors, goes on sale April 18 in Washington, D.C., at the Seventh National Watershed Congress.

The unique two part stamp portrays a close-up view of a drop of water falling from a leaf, which symbolizes the influence of land and vegetation upon water supply. This design leads the eye into a right-hand panel depicting an actual watershed panorama.

Offer Livestock Demonstration at N.W. School Soon

One of a series of demonstrations on livestock practices carried on at the Northwest School and Experiment station, Crookston, will be held at the station Saturday, April 23, at 10:30 a.m. Extra nipples will be removed from the dairy heifers at the Northwest station. All persons who are interested in seeing the demonstration are invited to attend. The demonstration will be given in the dairy barn.

Extra nipples should be removed from dairy heifers because in later life they become a problem. They may interfere with milking or become infected; therefore, it is a good idea to take them off while the calf is young. There is very little bleeding or discomfort if the extra teats are removed when the calf is approximately one month old.

96 Are Graduated from N.W. School

Commencement exercises for 96 seniors were held recently at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston. Dr. George W. Starcher, president of the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, gave the commencement address. Citizenship awards, presented each year to one boy and one girl from the senior class, were awarded to Bette Hovet of Thompson, N. D., senior girl, and Ronald Dufault of Red Lake Falls, senior boy.

Set Polio Clinic at Newfolden Apr. 27

Requests for Shots Are Due Friday, April 15

Residents of the Newfolden community school area are to be reminded that a polio clinic will be held at the school at 9:00 A.M., Wednesday, April 27. The Clinic is jointly sponsored by the Newfolden Study Club, the school and the county nurses office. Dr. Arvid Carlson, Warren, will give the shots.

Because the doctor needs to know in advance the number of persons desiring shots so that he may order the correct amount of serum, it is very necessary the persons who want shots and have not already done so, should send in the survey form which was sent out with the children on Thursday, April 7th or which may be picked up at any of the three Newfolden grocery stores. These survey forms must be in by Friday, April 15. They can be sent to Mrs. Raymond Tunheim, President of the Newfolden Study Club, or left at one of the three grocery stores to be picked up, because the school office is closed this week for vacation. To date 216 persons have signed for shots.

It is strongly recommended that anyone below 40 years of age should have 4 shots to get immunity. If there are some who have had some of their shots but more than the recommended time has elapsed, they can still continue their series and get good immunity, according to Mrs. Rud, County Nurse. They need not start the series over again.

The charge for the shot will be $1.25 per person.

Following a prolonged quiet period, the local fire department was called out twice late Monday afternoon. The first alarm was turned in at 4 o'clock from the Wm. Halbasch home at 236 Tindolph av. N., where a clothes dryer caught fire, creating so much smoke that it was necessary to put the smoke extractor into operation. Damage otherwise was not heavy.

At 5:30 p.m. the department was called to the Walter Leach residence at 617 Atlantic av. N., where a boy passerby had apparently taken a piece of burning material from a rubbish fire and tossed it onto a truck trailer parked on the property. The trailer was damaged before the blaze was extinguished.

Tips on Income Taxes

By Minnesota State Bar Assn.

(This is the 13th in a series of articles on Income Tax made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association, public relations committee.)

Deductions for Losses and Bad Debts

Losses arising from bad debts and casualties can be used to reduce your net income tax, both on your Federal and Minnesota returns. They are, however, treated differently for deduction purposes.

You are entitled to a form of deduction on your tax return when a debt to you becomes worthless. Such debts normally arise from loans where the person to whom you have loaned the money is clearly unable to repay the loan. The difficult problem is proving that the debt is worthless and became worthless in the year for which you desire to take the deduction.

A typical debt which is not worthless is the loan to a relative who, although perhaps able to, does not find it convenient to repay the debt. There is seldom existing here a possibility of a deduction unless you can prove that the debtor cannot possibly pay the debt and is judgment proof.

Where you can show that no reasonable possibility exists that a debt can be collected and also that this situation developed finally in the taxable year, the amount of the bad debt can be shown on your tax return as a short-term capital loss. This means that, rather than taking the amount of the debt as an itemized personal deduction, you must offset it against other capital gain income appearing on your return and, following the rules discussed with regard to other capital gains, the debt can be deducted in the taxable year only to the extent that it does not exceed your capital gains received during the year and an additional amount of $1,000.00. Where the debt does not exceed this amount, you are entitled to carry the excess forward for a five year period against other capital gains, as discussed previously.

Individual taxpayers are also entitled to show as capital losses, treated as discussed above with regard to bad debts, amounts lost which arise out of transactions entered into for profit. Thus, while you are not entitled to deduct losses arising from the sale of your personal residence, you would be allowed to deduct as a loss arising out of a transaction entered into for, profit amounts lost on the sale of a house or apartment building which you held for rental to others. The same rule applies also to worthless securities such as stocks or bonds owned by you which become worthless during the taxable year. While the latter fact is difficult to prove, you can often rely on such events as liquidation or bankruptcy to show the worthlessness of stocks and bonds where it is apparent from the assets of the corporation that you will not ever receive any return from the investment you hold.

On the deductions discussed herein, the amount of your deduction will be the cost to you of the asset reduced, where applicable, by reduction in your basis by such factors as depreciation taken on the asset in prior years.

Casualty and theft losses are also deductible items but, differing from other losses and bad debts, are shown on the return as itemized personal deductions. Losses due to sudden causes such as fire, lightning, flood, storm, theft and explosion are deductible. On the other hand, damage to your property caused by rust, erosion or disease are normally not deductible as casualty losses. In the same category are losses arising from misplacing of property rather than actual theft.

As you can see, losses from casualties or thefts are often difficult to prove, especially where no outward act or accident has occurred, and the burden of proving your entitlement to any such deduction must be borne by you. Where you can show that a deductible loss has occurred, the amount of your loss will be based upon the value of the property lost or the difference in the value of the property before and after the incident, but the loss deduction taken can never exceed the cost of the item to you.

The Bowling Champions

The men's league bowling for the 1959 60 season will be concluded in two weeks, and the season will be officially closed May 3, with a banquet at the Eagles.

Several of the teams, having clinched league championships, are preparing their acceptance speeches they will deliver as they receive their championship trophies.

With the Thieves baseball squad losing three games by forfeit last Monday, for using Gene Leslie in their lineup, the Eagles squad moved into a "safe" lead for the Service league title. Members of the Eagles' squad are Mel Ilgdem, Harvey Odegaard, Al Brunelle, Duane Jensen, LeRoy Carlson, Del Seefeldt, Harold Johnson and Max Graham. In the Monday night National league, the Joppru's have a 10-game lead to clinch the league championship. Bowling with the Joppru's are Don and Dean Joppru, Larry Shetler, Dale Glass, Bob Pahlen and H. Retzer.

The only other team to have clinched a league championship is the Union State Bank squad in the Tuesday night American league. The bankers have a 12-game bulge over the runner-up Walt's Cities Service. The Union Bank squad is comprised of Ken Onken, Bob Flynn, Jim Womack, Red Kortuem, Bob Baker, John McGinley, Len Boyum and Jon Larson.

The Hamm's Beer team, the city's high-average club, scored a three-game sweep on Tuesday night in the Business league bowling while the VFW was losing a pair to the Viking Tavern to take a 2-game lead in the championship race. The Hamm's and the Vets had been deadlocked for the league lead.

In the Commercial league competition, Roy Jorgenson's Northern Chevrolet team holds a 4-game lead over the second place Northwest Beverage. In the Northern league bowling, the Dacotah Paper has a two-game edge over the D&D Pure Oil. And in the City league race, the Western Oil & Fuel has a narrow one-game lead over the Robertson Lumber company.

Thompson for Sullivan

That vacancy in the East Grand Forks high school athletic coaching staff, caused by Harold (Snooks) Sullivan's decision to move up to the athletic supervision of the East Side school system, didn't remain vacant very long. Sullivan was football and basketball coach at the Green Wave school, and the school board last week announced that Ron Thompson would take over the football coaching job.

Thompson, a former Grand Forks Central and Valley City Teachers college athletic star, has been track coach at East Grand Forks for the past several years. He has been instrumental in developing the East Grand Forks track program and directing the East Side squad to a district track title last season.

We have known Ronnie for a number of years, and our most vivid recollection of the speedster's athletic feats concerns his performance against the Prowlers in a football game played here in the fall of 1948. Thompson, in a game played on the old Lincoln high athletic field, scored three [illegible] touchdowns as the Grand [illegible] Central squad scored a [illegible] win over the locals. [illegible] of the touchdowns were [illegible] passes from Dick Koppenhaver and the other came on a run of about 30 yards. In addition, Ron had three long touchdown runs, of from 30 to 50 yards, nullified by Grand Forks penalties.

Thompson played at right halfback on that Grand Forks team, and at left halfback was John Bennett. Bennett later gained nation-wide fame as a track star, specializing in the broad jump, at Marquette university. Neither of the boys weighed very much, being less than 150 lbs. each, but could they move out around the ends on the sweeps!

Dedicated

Floyd Patterson, the former world's heavyweight boxing champion, and who is a rabid hockey fan, was in attendance at the Stanley cup game between Montreal and Toronto at Toronto on Tuesday night. Montreal, by a 5-2 score, defeated Toronto to take a 3 to 0 lead in the best of-seven finals.

Patterson, who has been in training since November for his return match in June with Ingemar Johansson, gave an interesting interview during the between periods break. He stated that he had not looked at the film of the fight against Johansson, in which he lost his title by a knockout, but that he intended to study the pictures a couple of weeks before the return match. He believed that a look at the pictures would serve as an incentive and increase his "viciousness." He does not intend to change his style of fighting, resorting to his usual peek-a-boo stance. Floyd gave the impression of being dedicated to regaining his world's title. He'll give the Swede quite a tussle.

Preliminary Plans Made for Softball Loop Wednesday

Eight Teams Expected to Engage in League Play During Coming Season

The city softball association, at a meeting called to order on Wednesday evening by retiring president Ed Hamerski, made preliminary plans for the 1960 season. The league, which is a solvent organization according to the financial statement prepared by secretary-treasurer Mrs. Ed (Florence) Hamerski, will be an eight team circuit again this season.

The teams that are expected to engage in league play this season are the Hamm's Beer, Western Auto Store, the Bums, VFW, Len's Tire Service, Bjorkman's and Dow Key. At a later date, a meeting will be held to draft a schedule, and an opening date. It was agreed that the league should not open later than Monday, June 6.

With Mr and Mrs Hamerski retiring as executive officers of the association, a three man committee— Bob Carlson, Dave Martin, and Mr Hamerski—was appointed to select suitable candidates for president and secretary treasurer, and nominees for a four man board of directors. Mr Hamerski was empowered to call a meeting within the next couple of weeks at which time the association will act on recommendations of the committee.

Maintaining State Highways Cost $14.5 Millions During 1959

Last year it cost the state $14,579,495 to keep its 11,795 miles of trunk highways in year round driving condition according to a report issued by George A. Meskal, Minnesota highway department maintenance engineer.

Expenditures for 1959 included $2,659,029 for repair of roadway surfaces; $1,113,293 for work on shoulders and approaches; $3,343,224 for roadside and drainage work such as clearing brush and debris and repairing culverts; $1,569,405 for installing road signs, maintaining guard rails and painting traffic guide lines; $3,013,942 for snow and ice control; $1,688,019 for special maintenance such as bituminous surface repairs, seal coats and repairing flood damages; $841,175 for betterment on roads not scheduled for work under future construction programs; and $351,105 for miscellaneous bridge repairs and painting.

The total cost for 1959 was $1.5 million less than for 1958, although one maintenance service last year, snow and ice control, cost some $900,000 more than for the previous year. This was due to heavier snow and ice conditions rather than an increase in equipment or labor costs.

The largest portion of the 1959 expenditures, $5,393,583, went for labor, about $5,000 more than for 1958; materials costs were $2,568,708, up $32,000 over 1958; cost for equipment operations decreased by $200,000 with $3,697,553 being expended; cost for overhead was $1,325,170, down about $125,000; contracts and special agreements with private contractors totaled $1,594,479, over $1 million less than for the previous year.

Meskal pointed out that the spring break up, which causes hundreds of thousands of dollars in damages annually, has been unusually severe this year and will require extensive repairs throughout the late spring and summer.

He also stated that the public can help in reducing costs in one maintenance service, that of trash removal. Last year it cost $250,000 to remove trash from the highways and the more than 800 trash barrels placed for public use in convenient locations along our highways. This cost could be reduced by as much as 50 per cent with the help of the public, Meskal believes. To accomplish this, the public need only use the barrels for the purpose intended: to receive only that refuse accumulated in travelling. Too often the barrels and their immediate areas become dumps for certain people.

This past winter several trash barrels in the Twin Cities area had to be removed for the remainder of the winter because they were found buried beneath pils of rubbish. Boxes of cans and bottles, bags of garbage, old chairs and even a baby buggy and a davenport were removed by the highway department. However, they are now being replaced for the travelling convenience of the public and tourists, and in hopes of keeping highways and roadside areas clean.

Meskal added that the public should be commended for reducing last year's cost for refuse removal by nearly $30,000 over the previous year, but that a greater effort should be made in further reduction of the cost. After all, he said, it's their money.

Agricultural Leaders from All Parts of Nation Are Expected to Attend

Governor Orville L. Freeman and State DFL chairman Ray Hemenway announced that Minneapolis will be the site for the Democratic party's advance platform hearings on agriculture.

Freeman and Hemenway said the Democratic national committee has accepted the invitation of the Minnesota DFL to hold hearings on the "American Economy and the Farm" May 6 in the Twin Cities.

Hearings, which will be attended by farmers and agricultural experts from all sections of the country, will run from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Nicollet Hotel, Minneapolis.

Democratic party Chairman Paul Butler, in Washington making a joint announcement of the farm hearing site, said it would be one of several platform hearings scheduled in various parts of the nation. The first session of the advance hearings will be April 28 in Philadelphia with foreign policy and national defense as the principal topic.

Governor Freeman said the hearings "will give an opportunity for grass-root opinion to be heard in the formulation of the platform of a major political party."

Freeman and Hemenway concluded by saying the testimony at the hearings will be taken by a panel of party leaders, and urged persons with a particular interest in agriculture to contact either the DFL State Committee in Minneapolis or the Democratic National Committee in Washington, D.C.

U. S. to Dispose of Soybean Stocks

Government Inventory Down to 8,500,000 Bu.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture will offer its stock of soybeans for sale, from now until October 1, at the market price but not less than the county price-support rate plus a markup of 20 cents a bushel, Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, announced today.

This announcement continues the government soybean sales policy of setting a minimum above current support rates and is designed to encourage maximum soybean holdings in commercial hands during the remainder of the 1959-60 marketing year. This sales policy will apply to soybeans currently in government inventory and any that may be acquired under price support.

Since last October 1 the Commodity Credit Corporation has sold approximately 31 million bushels of soybeans acquired under price support reducing its inventory in early March to approximately 8½ million bu.

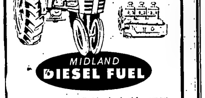
Power-operated Sluice Gates in Two Rivers Dam



The effort to control flooding and maintain water levels in northwestern Minnesota was greatly facilitated recently with the installation of power operated sluice gates at the dam in the South Fork of the Two Rivers at Lake Bronson.

The lake is a reservoir from which water can be released thru the dam whenever required to maintain an adequate level in the river which supplies water to Hallock and other downstream users.

The new sluice gates replace wooden stoplogs in two bays of the dam and can be opened quickly in order to provide capacity for passing flood flows. Their installation should result in closer control of outflow from the reservoir and increased safety for the dam itself.

Editorials . . .

"Too many of us wait to do the perfect thing with the result that we do nothing. The way to get ahead is to start now. While many of us are waiting until conditions are "just right" before we go ahead, others are stumbling along, fortunately ignorant of the dangers that beset them. By the time that we, in our superior wisdom, decide to make a start, we discover that the fools, in their blundering way, have traveled a considerable distance. If you start now, you will know a lot next year that you don't know now and that you will not know next year if you wait."

Citizenship Is A Responsibility

In his good column in the Sunday St. Paul Pioneer Press, Richard Wanek wonders whether the public really is interested in the problems of government. His wondering was prompted by a statement that had been made by a candidate for state office who had concluded that his biggest problem as a campaigner is not taxation, or spending, but public apathy. Said Wanek:

"From our observations we would be forced to conclude that in general, the public, while not necessarily apathetic to government, is so confused by its growing size that it may appear not to care."

Our guess is that people, generally, are concerned about the problems of government but look upon politics as a messy business and prefer not to become personally involved in controversial matters. This is especially true among those in business and the professions who look upon their fellow men primarily as potential customers whom they must not offend.

Most people who have a customer complex are political cowards, but they do have an interest in government and, generally, are quite well informed. This unfortunate fact was impressed upon us recently when local business and professional people were invited to become a part of a study group seeking a better understanding of the government structure.

Those who sold the course placed a great deal of emphasis on the promise that the study would not involve any matters that might be considered controversial. The promoters knew from experience the proper approach.

There was a time, within the memory of many of us, when government was not an important factor in the routine problems of survival. Now there are few matters we can decide for ourselves without first ascertaining whether or not what we propose to do will meet with the approval of some government agency, local, state or federal. We are up to our ears in government regulations and controls, and government, its structure and its procedures in practice, have become increasingly important to all of us.

Under these conditions, any citizen who is apathetic and uninterested in government, or who is unwilling to take a position for or against a government program or policy, because his position may not be popular, is not a good citizen.

In a republic such as ours, citizenship is a responsibility as well as a privilege.

—Including Minnesota

Those who are opposed to a general sales tax should join forces with those who seek limits on public spending. The general sales tax will come because it will provide the only source of additional tax revenue that will be available to us. Shifting a larger share of the cost of government to the owners of real estate and personal property would be neither fair nor popular. Our income tax rates are already high compared to other states. If we must have more tax revenue the general sales tax is the only new source left to us.

When the sales tax comes it will come because we will have spent ourselves into it. There is talk now of it coming as a replacement. At the time of its adoption there may be a few minor replacements for the record, but the sales tax will not be a replacement tax in fact in Minnesota. It will be a tax adopted to produce additional revenue; the additional revenue that will be needed to pay the additional costs of government that we are constantly adding to our already heavy burden.

The general sales tax has much to recommend it and it probably is as fair as any other tax. It does provide one effective way of getting even with the people of other states who tax us when we visit them. The sales tax would enable us to get some of our dollars back when they visit us.

Most states now have a general sales tax and in the not too distant future it is quite likely that all states will, including Minnesota.

Egg Prices

It's predicted that eggs will be in short supply later this year. Department of Agriculture reports indicate that storage supplies are dropping and already are below the year-ago figure. In Chicago last week the market was about 12 cents higher than last year.

Last year eggs were too cheap from the standpoint of the producer. This year they probably will be too costly from the standpoint of the consumer.

As a result of last year's low prices, many producers went out of business, including some of the large operators who had invested heavily for big volume production. This year there will not be enough chicks hatched, they tell us, to become laying flocks capable of supplying our needs.

Egg producers have their ups and downs, as do other producers. In the egg business, however, the up and down price cycles are closer together. A year of good prices means a following year of overproduction and low prices. A year of low prices means a following year of underproduction and high prices.

What to do about it? Is it a problem that should have government supervision, with federal production and marketing controls? Our answer would be "no." They have tried two plans in Canada, and, according to the Winnipeg Tribune, neither have been successful. The supply and demand factor still seems to prevail in the market, the Tribune thinks, saying:

From the point of view of the producer, deficiency payments for eggs have not had much success.

But as a means of getting Ottawa out of an egg support mess the program is working out extremely well.

The Bureau of Statistics reports that egg stocks in nine major cities at April 1 were down to 1,530,000 dozen from 5,050,000 a year earlier. The chick hatch for egg laying hens is down 22.9 per cent in Canada, 25 per cent in Manitoba.

There is no doubt that the policy has wiped out the tremendous egg surplus. It eliminates costly storage. It may permit Ottawa to get out of support prices for eggs entirely now that the old production incentive support is discarded and supply and demand is the main factor on the market. The saving on the national treasury, and the taxpayer who fills it, may be substantial.

Let's Keep Them Working

(Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch)

Should high schools name a valedictorian and salutatorian of the graduating class? Or should the top ten or 20 be singled out for scholastic distinction?

Supt. A. J. Cole of the St. James Public school recently told those attending a PTA meeting at Sleepy Eye that his school had discarded the practice of naming only two honor students. Similar action has been taken in a few other cities.

Arguments can be advanced for and against the change.

Perhaps the top ten deserve some recognition. It might be given by naming eight in addition to the valedictorian and salutatorian.

Not announcing which boy or girl ranked at the head of the class, which next in line, would be like naming ten winners in a race without stating who came in first.

In the old-time spelling contest the best speller wasn't told to fit himself in among the first ten in line. He was told "go to the head of the class" and there he remained until someone else proved to be a better speller.

When a firm hires a supervisor it doesn't say "eeny, meeney, miney, mo" and point a finger at random to one of the best ten applicants. It chooses the one it thinks will do the best work, not third best, seventh best or tenth best.

Choosing a valedictorian and salutatorian provides incentive to do good work, to do one's best work. Brighter pupils need not exert themselves to remain among the top ten or 20.

Let's keep the boys and girls working.

In the Doghouse

(Wall Street Journal)

We don't wish to pick on Senator Humphrey; as far as we are aware, Senator Kennedy is pretty much his ideological twin. Still, some of Mr. Humphrey's campaign utterances deserve comment.

In Wisconsin, for example, he is using a line he has often used before: Let's take planning out of the doghouse and put it in the White House.

Of course there is a good deal of planning in the Federal Government as it is. But if national Government planning is, in the opinion of a good many people, in the doghouse, it is there for the best of reasons.

A number of countries have tried full-fledged planning with results very near disastrous. Britain had a big dose of it from 1945 to 1951. There were not only the wild snafus that are bound to occur when bureaucrats undertake to "bulk buy" much of the nation's needs; far more importantly, the country remained in a thorough socialist slump, with dreary food and other painful austerities for the consumer.

Indeed, it is perhaps permissible to generalize that a planned economy, whether in the Soviet Union or elsewhere, is almost inevitably an austere economy. The reason is that whereas individuals and private organizations plan for profit or advancement, government planners can only take from productive people and try to divide up the pie. In the process they stultify incentive and productivity; they are not interested in expansion but in forcing the economy to conform to their doctrinaire notions.

Mr. Humphrey is not the only one yelling these days. It is one aspect of the great economic debate about whether the Government should be empowered to take over much more of the national resources at the expense of private consumption. So what he is saying has echoes beyond Wisconsin and far beyond today's vote.

Who is going to win the economic debate is at least as important as who is going to win the Presidency. We wouldn't care to speculate on the outcome, but we do know this: If ever a theory has had a full and fair test in human experience and been found wanting, it is the theory of national planning. That is why it is in the doghouse—where it belongs.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

The orderly officers was going the rounds at breakfast and stopped at one table with the usual query, "Any complaints?"

One man jumped to his feet and said: "Yes, sir, this tea tastes of chloride of lime."

The officer took the mug, sniffed the contents, then sipped delicately. "Nonsense," he said, "that's carbolic acid!"

GOP SAYS NO!
Republicans Block Withholding

The State of Minnesota April 15, 1960
Pay to the order of — Minnesota Taxpayers 75% of Income Tax Paid
Seventy-five Per Cent of Income Tax Paid
FOR: Income Tax Refund 75% Forgiveness Through Withholding
DFL Liberal Legislators

The tax refund checks for 75% of this year's tax — the amount that would have been forgiven had withholding tax been enacted — will not go out. The GOP stamped them void.
Withholding was blocked by the GOP in the Republican controlled state senate.

IF WITHHOLDING HAD PASSED:
● Every Minnesota taxpayer would be receiving an income tax refund amounting to 75% of the income tax he paid this year —
● Every Minnesota taxpayer included in the withholding collection of state income tax would never again be burdened with a lump sum payment —
● Every Minnesota school district would receive state aid payments regularly without the inconvenience of waiting for the large influx of income tax receipts in April —
● Every Minnesota taxpayer would know that everyone was paying his fair share —
● Every Minnesotan would now be benefitting from "Pay-as-you-go" —
But Senator Donald O. Wright, the GOP conservative legislators and the Republican party said "No".

CHEVROLET
OVER BACK-COUNTRY ROADS AT 45 WITH A SKY-HIGH LOAD OF TIMBER
That's a 6303 medium-duty Chevrolet powered by a 283-cu.-in. V8. But there's sure nothing medium-duty about the load. Mr. J. E. Blankinship, Arkansas logging contractor, says both of his torsion-spring 6303's "move along at 40 to 50 miles per hour with 55,000 pounds gross weight and maintain a 5-trip-a-day schedule with no trouble at all." Figure the money you save when you've got a medium-duty truck that can cover 30,000 back-country miles a year with a high-tonnage load!
We've never seen anything like the amount of praise truck owners are heaping on Chevy's new torsion spring suspension. Owners like the fact the truck handles a whole lot easier, can move faster off the road without beating the driver to death and shaking loose all the sheet metal. They like the idea of extra thousands of miles before trade-in! . . . Drive a '60 Chevy just once. It's a whole new experience.
Chevy middleweight averages 200 miles of back roads a day dragging timber out of the woods and delivering it to the mill at Crossett, Arkansas.

SNOBOY vegetables and MORTON salt just naturally go together

"Pick at dawn . . . ship at dusk"—that's SNOBOY's rule to make sure you get his vegetables at their freshest. And you know how important freshness is to color, flavor and crispness.

That's why we say SNOBOY vegetables are guaranteed to be worth their salt . . . MORTON salt. You'll keep plenty of both on hand, won't you?

Why there is no Vegetable like a SNOBOY picked for flavor

Speed counts at picking time. Snoboy celery for instance, must be at the absolute peak of flavor before Snoboy inspectors say "pick." But once that time arrives, it's harvested in a hurry . . . to make sure all that famous Snoboy "picked-at-dawn" quality reaches your table.

Speed counts in cooling. Snoboy radishes are brush-scrubbed, their specially innovator cooled the minute they arrive fresh from the fields. It's the fast washing and cooling that keeps Snoboy radishes fresh . . . full of color . . . and crackling crisp.

Speed counts in canning. Vegetables, like this cauliflower, are hand-selected, then expertly hand-trimmed . . . no waste with Snoboy! Not a moment is lost, no flavor escapes. For vegetables which are sized and graded, the same rule of thumb: do it fast!

Speed counts in freezing. Snoboy doesn't waste a second in packaging. Directly after washing and inspection, corn—like the other Snoboy vegetables—are hand-packed . . . to be delivered to your store in perfect condition—fresh, crisp, flavorful!

Speed counts in shipping. Snoboy tantalizers, like all Snoboy vegetables, are shipped in refrigerated trucks or railroad cars the same day they're packed. From field to store, speed is among the important Snoboy differences in flavor . . . freshness . . . and crispness.

Ailanthus Tree Not Hardy Here

Tree Winter-kills, Says U of M. Horticulturist

University of Minnesota horticulturists today warned home owners against the tree that they may be throwing their money away by ordering a flowering shade tree that grows to mature size heights in one season but is not hardy in the Upper Midwest.

Many persons who have called in to inquire about the ailanthus or Tree of Heaven, which is said to grow from the height of a telephone to the height of a house in a few years.

Winterkill of the tree which have been made in this area have killed back to the ground nearly every year. They have survived only if the snow has been very mild in some years, it is said, but the tree usually will develop in the spring.

University horticulturists point out that home owners will be more satisfied if they select shade trees that are hardy in Minnesota even though they may grow more slowly, or stay closer growing than the Ailanthus.

Langen Lists Results of 9th District Poll

Congressman Odin Langen today released a summary of percentage tabulation of the returns in the questionnaire which he sent to residents of the Ninth Congressional district earlier this year. The tabulation was based on 7422 returns, or a little more than one in six eligible questionnaires sent out by the congressman.

Although replies are still coming in, the percentages which are released today, he said that each of the questions has received enough replies to be representative of the district's opinion.

Langen summarized the results as follows.

"In the field of government spending, the replies which we received indicate that a majority favored reductions in many of the items of the national debt or, at least, a balanced budget.

"In response to the agricultural question, 61.5 per cent of those repyling indicated their favor with some type of price support and supports. A majority of those replying in regard to what this program should take, however, reflect the general lack of agreement on how best to improve agricultural income and relieve taxpayer expense.

"Regarding our Mutual Security program, 57.5 per cent of those replying were opposed regardless of purpose replying were against the raising of this limitation.

"Together with the question concerning agriculture, that regarding a medical aid program for the aged under Social Security legislation received the greatest difference of opinion. The replies against such a program were 1.3 per cent larger than those in favor. Replying also were over many substantial people. Of the 7422 persons replies for were over-whelmingly among retired and salaried people.

"A majority of those who replied were against the present federal minimum wage law. Of school replies, and a very large majority were opposed to such aid for teachers' salaries. This was uniformly true among all groups with the exception of professional people, of which 53 per cent favored about 38 per cent of the total replies. Those in this section favored grouping, while substantially opposed to Federal assistance for teachers' salaries remained slightly in favor of aid for teachers.

"The large majority in all groups who voted in favor of federal legislation to deal with such situations as the recent steel strike indicated the general desire to work labor-management disputes."

ON A DESOLATE HILL

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	19	23-42
Monday	John	20	1-23
Tuesday	Psalms	102	1-12
Wednesday	Matthew	14	22-33
Thursday	Psalms	119	169-176
Friday	John	15	11-18
Saturday	Luke	24	13-35

It is not strange that someone chose this lonely spot to erect a reverent memorial. It was on a desolate hill that three crosses stood many centuries ago . . . the Cross of the Saviour . . . and of the penitent . . . and of the scoffer.

Always these crosses have seemed to belong to the desolate hills of life. When a man feels the crushing burden of worldly care upon him, when he trudges the steep trail lost and alone — then, either he will claim the Love and Strength of Christ as did the penitent, or like the scoffer he will let his unbelief destroy his soul.

But no man should wait for a time of desolation to make life's most joyous decision. It can be made today . . . and sealed with years of happy service in the church of one's choice.

Cancer Drive to Be Tues in T. R. Fal

Annual Crusade in City Expected to Be Finished in One Day

The annual Cancer Crusade, which is scheduled this year as a one-day fund drive, will get under way in Thief River Falls at 9 a.m. Tuesday morning according to the three co-chairmen of the drive.

The leaders, Mrs. Walter Halvorson, Mrs. Robert Thompson, and Mrs. Lester DeBrlyn, have listed the following instructions for women of this city who will participate in the crusade. All workers are to pick up their envelopes and materials at the city Auditorium and be ready to go to work by nine on Tuesday morning, April 19. It is hoped that the entire city can be covered in the one-day drive, thus eliminating a long campaign.

Persons living in Thief River Falls are asked to have their contributions ready at their homes as individual workers will not be solicited at their place of employment. A canvass of the business district is planned and in this part of the Crusade businessmen may give their "business contribution".

In planning their 1960 Cancer contribution, people are reminded by the chairmen that in spite of the success of last year's Crusade, still $100,000 worth of necessary cancer research grants had to be turned down because of lack of funds in Minnesota. To help correct this situation, people are asked to give as generously as their budgets will allow. Only by all out participation and generous giving, they state, can the battle against cancer progress.

TRF Employes of the State Highway Dept. to Be Honored Apr. 27

SPEAKER Rev. Herbert Skarie, Lutheran chaplain at the state hospital at Fergus Falls, will be the guest speaker at the Augustana Lutheran Church Women's meeting at the First Lutheran Church in this city on Wednesday evening, April 20, at 8 o'clock. Pastor Skarie has had much experience in dealing with patients at the state hospital and is highly recommended by the Lutheran Welfare Society.

Employes of the Crookston maintenance district of the Minnesota highway department will be presented with department and National Safety Council awards at the annual safety meeting to be held Wednesday, April 27, at 9 a.m. in Crookston.

Department "No Accident" awards will be presented to all employes who have operated motorized equipment or who were on the job throughout 1959 without a preventable or lost time accident. In addition, those drivers who devoted more than half of their working time to the operation of motorized equipment and had no accidents during the year will receive National Safety Council "Safe Driver" awards for their contributions to safety.

Construction district employes have been included in the annual safety meetings this year. Because of the size of the districts, the employes will meet in two groups, one half will attend the meeting in the maintenance headquarters nearest their homes.

This is the 29th year motor vehicle safety awards have been presented to highway department employes. Many of the men will receive awards showing they have driven that entire period without an accident.

Safety awards also will be presented to the following men from this city employed in the Crookston constuction district: Alan Wynnemer, 27 years; Marvin C. Markstrom, Albert C. Larson, Paul R. Grand, Milton J. Burstad, Erling J. Olson, Richard A. Olson, Lester V. Larson, Bruce A. Larson, Robert Lofstedt, Leonard Haack and J. E. Bredeson.

Judge Paul Lundgren, who passed sentence on Peterson, stipulated that Peterson should first be committed to the Fergus Falls mental hospital for psychiatric treatment before he starts serving his sentence, not to exceed fives years, at St. Cloud.

Peterson slashed Janet DeLap, city, with a paring knife in the kitchen of a farmhouse Sunday morning, March 13, following an all-night beer party which they both had attended.

Farm-stored 1957-59 Grain to Be Checked

Inspection Set on Oats, Barley, Rye Loans This Month

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, announced today that all 1957, 1958 and 1959 Commodity Credit Corporation farm-stored oats, barley, and rye loans are to be re inspected during the last two weeks of April.

This inspection is required under CCC regulations and must be made prior to the maturity date of the note and mortgage, which is April 30, 1960.

A 3½ pound sample will be drawn from each bin on which producers have indicated their intentions to reseal the commodity for another year. These samples will be sent to the St. Paul Testing Laboratory for grade and moisture determinations. Eligibility of the commodities will also be determined by the state office laboratory.

Producers who intend to deliver oats to CCC in satisfaction of their loans are urged to contact their warehousemen for a price on the commodity before delivering the grain to CCC, because the market price for good oats has been high enough to permit the producer to make a small profit over and above the amount required to repay the loan in full.

Producers are also urged by Culkins to complete and return immediately the postcard which was recently sent them in regard to their loans.

TRF Youth, 17, Is Critically Hurt in Crash

Darrell Nelson Was Driver of Car Hit by Soo Locomotive

A car-train crash at the First st. crossing early Sunday morning sent one local youth to the hospital in critical condition but two other youths who were passengers in the car with the injured boy escaped injury, according to city police.

The car, driven west on First st. by Darrell Nelson, 17, city, was struck in the rear quarter by the northbound Soo Line passenger train No. 9 about 4:20 a.m. After the collision the car did not overturn but rolled off the paving on the north side of First st., on the west side of the tracks.

Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nelson, 204 Maple av. S., was listed in critical condition from undisclosed injuries at Northwestern hospital. His passengers, Richard Hartje, 25, Minneapolis, and Jeffrey Hartje, 17, city, were not injured.

The injured youth was the recent recipient of the Elks lodge award for scholarship, extracurricular activities and other qualities, and is a member of the Region 8 basketball champions, the Lincoln high school Prowlers, and also a member of the Prowler football squad.

The car, a 1959 Chevrolet sedan, sustained considerable damage, although not so much as would normally be expected from being hit by a train. However, neither the train nor car were moving at great speed at the time of the crash.

No Fatalities in Traffic in County in 1959

No motor vehicle deaths were registered in Thief River Falls or in Pennington county as a whole during 1959, according to a state summary of Minnesota traffic safety which was released late last week.

Pennington county, one of 21 counties of from 10,000 to 15,000 population, had 47 non-fatal injury accidents in which 68 persons were injured and 141 property damage accidents for a total of 188 accidents. This is above the average of 136.7 accidents for counties of this size and put the county in a tie with Watonwan county for second place on the list. Houston county with 206 accidents topped the list.

Thief River Falls was placed with 31 other cities of 5,000 to 10,000 population in class "C". The summary revealed that the city had 32 non fatal injury accidents in 1959 in which 39 persons were injured.

With 113 property damage accidents, the total number of accidents was 145. This was well below the average of 168.9 accidents registered in cities of this class. Edina with a population of 9,744 had 445 accidents to lead the list and no deaths were reported there during 1959.

Eveleth with a population of 5,872 registered the best safety record in the class with only 45 total accidents and no deaths.

Ask Used Clothing to Be Supplied to Foreign Refugees

Drive by Local Churches to Start Next Friday and Continue Thru April 26

Harold G. Rasmussen, committee chairman, today announced that a spring clothing drive to assemble garments for destitute refugees in the Far East, Middle East and elsewhere will be conducted Friday to Tuesday, April 22 to 26.

The drive is again sponsored by the Church World Service, Lutheran World Relief Organizations, Friends, and the Brethren Service Center. They have issued an appeal for good quality ready-to-wear clothing. All clothing will be distributed by government licensed agencies.

Items most needed include suits and coats, trousers and overalls, dresses and skirts, caps, gloves, sweaters and robes, underwear and stockings, shoes (sturdy pairs tied together with low heels and closed toes), blankets and bedding, layettes and infants wear and cloth remnants for sewing.

Items that cannot be used are hats, neckties, open toes or high heel and narrow width ladies shoes or bulky bedding such as pillows, mattresses, comforters and featherbeds.

All givers are asked to pack their clothing in cartons and tie securely ready for loading, and to bring their clothing to the north door of the city Auditorium in Thief River Falls on Friday, April 22, Saturday, Monday and up to 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 26. O. A. Hafdal will again be present at the Auditorium to assist with this work.

Soil Testing May Be Done in Spring, Says Pennington Co. Agent

Farmers who missed taking a soil test last fall would do well to do so this spring, states County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

Fields which should be tested this spring are:

Those where seeding is delayed to control wild oats. Starter fertilizer use on fields is important since the fertilizer is in the row to "kicks off" the grain which gets ahead of the wild oats. So fertilizer doesn't control wild oats but because it speeds up development of grains the wild oats gets less chance to compete with grains. This improves grain stands which outgrow the wild oats and also mature earlier. This gives rise to statements that fertilizer controls wild oats.

Hay meadows, pastures and corn fields should be tested and fertilized.

Since soil samples are sent to the University for analysis, which takes about 18 days, testing the fields mentioned above would not delay spring work.

Fertilizer put on grains in the right kind and amount averages three dollars return for one dollar spent on fertilizer. On hay and pastures the returns are frequently higher.

Here in Northwestern Minnesota including Pennington county, county agents conducted 1800 fertilizer trials. Fertilizer recommendations according to soil tests on these plots were within 10 per cent of getting the highest possible yield in these plots.

If the farmer fertilized according to trial and error at least 30 to 40 different plots would be needed on one farm to get this information. It's a whole lot easier to sample your soil and send it in for testing — and more accurate too, says Stelmaschuk. Soil testing is the key to unlock the high-profit yields on a certain soil.

Entries Sought for Wool Garment Event

Highlighting the bi-centennial year of wool manufacturing, the 14th annual "Make It Yourself with Wool" contest, sponsored by The American Wool Council and the Women's Auxiliary to the National Wool Growers association opens officially this month.

Girls between the ages of 13 and 22, in 21 states, are invited to enter one of 250 district competition from which winners will be selected by judges for state contests to be conducted next fall. Forty state finalists will meet in January at the national contest and wool fashion revue to be held in Denver, Colorado. A Designer's Tour to New York, London, Paris and Rome, via Pan American World Airways will be awarded to the top junior and senior winners at the national contest. In addition, five college scholarships, several U S Savings bonds, and many merchandise prizes will be awarded.

The purpose of the contest as defined by Mrs. O T Evans, president of the auxiliary and wife of a prominent Wyoming sheep producer, "is to encourage home sewing and show young girls how easy it is to sew with wool."

Contest rules stipulate that all garments submitted must be entirely the work of the contestant, and must be fashioned from American loomed wool, "our American heritage."

Official information forms and entry blanks may be obtained from the American Wool Council, 520 Railway Exchange Building, Denver 2, Colorado, or from district and state directors, whose names will be announced locally sometime this month.

The beginners competition, open to 13-year-olds, has been inaugurated this year to encourage younger girls to start sewing with wool, and thus prepare for their entrance as juniors in the 14-17-year-old class next year. The senior class is open to girls in the 18-22 age bracket.

An adult class for women 23 years of age or older will be conducted in several of the contest states. Oklahoma is entering on an experimental basis this year. Other contest states are Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington, Wisconsin, and Wyoming.

Safety Group Offers Tips for Bicyclists

Are you an expert at riding a bicycle or do you just think you are?

According to a recent release on safety published by the Minnesota department of highways, an expert on a bicycle obeys all the traffic rules for bicyclists. You will see him do these seven things:

1. Signal for turns and stops.
2. Obey all STOP and GO signals. (a) Traffic lights: Green—GO; Yellow—CAUTION; Red—STOP. (b) STOP signs at intersections. (c) Police officers directing traffic.
3. Yield the right-of-way to pedestrians.
4. Ride alone — only one on a bike.
5. Keep both hands on the handlebars, except when signaling, and then one hand.
6. Ride single file — close to the right side of the street or roadway.
7. Keep the bicycle in good condition! A brake that works right. A bell or other signaling device. A good headlight and a taillight or good reflector.

Like a good automobile driver, a good bicycle driver always has CONTROL which comes from learning to drive well before going into a street or roadway, keeping your bicycle from wobbling or zig-zagging and seeing that you and your bicycle follow all traffic rules.

Here are a few tips from expert bicycle drivers who keep out of accidents: Keep well back from moving cars — they may stop suddenly. Be smart on left turns — drive straight across the street close to the right curb, wait for the light to change, then start off in the new direction—WITH THE LIGHT. Drive in a straightaway path and make no sudden change of course. Avoid driving too fast downhill or on rough, slippery roads. Cross railroad tracks fairly straight across then your bike won't skid on the tracks.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

Reading your last Monday's Times, editorial section, I saw your School Revolution article.

When you speak about who runs the school, the School Board or the Superintendent, well, who else should run it? Maybe some babyless grumbling editors of our newspapers?

What may I ask makes your paper interesting? If it weren't for the young people of today's schools' doings, 4 H club doings, FFA, Luther League, plus many other young peoples' activities, you would not have hardly any news to print about.

If so many Grandpas and Grandmas have so much to grumble about, why didn't they practice, when they were young, these things they so badly oppose now. Then you would not have any school building programs to worry about.

School board elections are just a short time away and three board members are to be elected too. Would you like the job, Mr. Editor?

Yours truly,
John Burtness

Now... try the motor oil that Surpasses Carmakers Toughest Tests!

If you drive a car, you should know this: leading automobile manufacturers agreed on a series of tough tests to rate motor oils for MS (Maximum Severity) service.

STANDARD SUPER PERMALUBE surpassed every test! What does this mean to you?

1. You get lower oil consumption with multi-grade SUPER PERMALUBE. As a result—you'll go lots farther without adding oil.

2. You get better gasoline mileage! For most cars, SUPER PERMALUBE saves up to two gallons in every tankful, up to 15% more miles per gallon!

4. You get smoother anti-knock performance! SUPER PERMALUBE reduces the octane requirement increase of your engine—in effect, adds octane numbers to your gasoline.

6. You get doubled piston ring life! SUPER PERMALUBE lubricates so perfectly it helps piston rings last twice as long.

That's why we say SUPER PERMALUBE is the best protection for your car. Change over to STANDARD SUPER PERMALUBE MOTOR OIL at your Standard Oil Dealer's.

New Minneapolis Bank Home to Open

1st National Dedicates 28-story Edifice May 6

Eyes of the entire state will be focused on Minneapolis the weekend of May 6-8, when that city's First National bank holds the official grand opening of its new 28-story skyscraper home.

The structure rises 383 feet into the Mill City skyline. It features an unusual "curtain wall" exterior entirely of glass and gleaming metal, stainless steel on the broad five-story base unit and anodized aluminum on the office rental tower.

First National, 103 years old and the city's oldest bank, occupies the entire first five floors of the building.

Harold L. Hanson of Baudette, president, Minnesota Bankers association, commented: "On behalf of the Minnesota Banker's association, I wish to express my heartiest congratulations to the First National bank of Minneapolis on the completion of its new modern home."

Some 1,500 bank presidents and their wives, from throughout the Ninth Federal Reserve district, will have a "preview" tour of the building on April 30.

Ralph Fjelstad to Head Republican Unit on Education

Carleton Professor Is Son of Late Dr. Fjelstad, Former Trinity Pastor

Ralph S. Fjelstad professor of government at Carleton college, Northfield, will head a 20-member Minnesota Republican advisory committee on education, it was announced Friday.

Fjelstad, formerly of Thief River Falls, is the son of the late Dr. R. M. Fjelstad, who served for many years as pastor of Trinity church here.

The committee is one of six appointed by Ed Viehman, state GOP chairman, to advise the state Republican platform committee.

Fjelstad said the group will conduct "a comprehensive study of Minnesota's educational system, in terms of administration, curriculum and finance."

Among its specific subjects for study, he said, will be higher education, teachers retirement and pensions, state and federal scholarships and loans, increased technical education, foundation aid, transportation aid, exceptional children and the relationships of federal, state and local governments.

Farm Cleanup to Avert Fires Urged

Farm Safety Specialist Says Lives May Be Saved

By cleaning up around the farm buildings this spring, Minnesotans may save thousands of dollars worth of farm property — and maybe even their lives.

Rubbish lying around can cause fires and lead to costly accidents, according to Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

He surveyed newspaper clippings from around Minnesota during May and June of last year. He found more than a dozen accidents resulting from fires and falls — the kind of accidents often resulting from littered buildings and back yards.

In the nation as a whole, more than 700 persons die every year from farm fires. Property losses from these fires have increased to more than $156 million annually.

A recent survey in Iowa showed that every 100 farms averaged two fires annually, with a loss of about $2,200 per farm.

How can a clean-up prevent fires? For example, Prickett says, about a third of all farm fires start from defects in heating and cooking equipment. Yet, most of these could be avoided by regularly cleaning and repairing chimneys and stovepipes.

Another major cause of fires is faulty electrical equipment. So spring clean-up is also a good time to check the wiring, connections and appliances and replace any defective equipment.

Once you rake up trash, burn it only in a safe place—not on a windy day. And check first whether burning permits are needed in your area.

Two highway construction contracts on Marshall county state aid roads totaling $247,-197.58 were awarded to low bidders at approximately $41,750 below the engineer's estimates of $288,950 by the county board of commissioners in session in Warren last Monday.

A contract for the bituminous surfacing of 11½ miles of CSA No. 6 from Stephen east to Florian was awarded to the Ness Construction Company of Mahnomen with a bid of $167,525.76. There were eight firms bidding for the big job.

Dahlin Brothers of Euclid were awarded the contract for grading 8 miles of CSA No. 2 from the junction of T.H. No. 1, 10 miles east of Warren to the Soo Line tracks just east of Viking. The Euclid contractors bid of $97,-671.82 as the low bid on the job out of a field of eight bidders.

The engineer's estimate on the bituminous job was $197,800 while on the grading job the estimate was $91,150.

Commissioners will call for bids at a later date for the bituminous surfacing job being scheduled for east of Argyle. This job will be under the Federal Aid matching program, said Oliver Thompson, assistant highway engineer.

Cantata Is Climax to Lenten Season

55-voice Chorus Offers Fine Rendition Friday

The Lenten season in Thief River Falls reached a fitting climax Friday evening with the presentation in Lincoln high school auditorium of the cantata, "The Seven Last Words," by Dubois.

The cantata was ably rendered by the 55-voice community chorus, directed by Bryant Ulseth, with the solo parts being filled by Miss Elizabeth Buran of Roseau, soprano; John Brady of Moorhead, tenor; and Gordon Dahl of Cloquet, baritone. Mrs. A. C. Purdy provided the piano accompaniment.

From the sonorous harmonies of the duet in the Second Word, "Verily, Thou Shalt be with Me in Paradise," by the tenor and baritone; the full richness of the soprano portions; "He Is Death Guilty," by the chorus; to the frightening earthquake picture portrayed in the piano solo, listeners agreed that the cantata sounded afresh the sorrow and triumph of the Crucifixion Day story. —JCR

5 State Farmers Given Sentences for Illegal Sales

Five southern Minnesota farmers were given one year suspended sentences and placed on five years probation in St. Paul federal district court Monday for selling property mortgaged to the farmers home administration.

The men were indicted by a federal grand jury in January. They pleaded guilty to charges of selling mortgaged property, livestock and grain, from 1956 to 1959.

Enforcing the Rules

It is reported that the NAIA (small college) group has tightened the eligibility rules pertaining to professional athletes competing in college competition. It has been custom to allow athletes who had signed professional sport contracts, such as baseball, to compete in college football and basketball. The athlete was only ineligible to compete in the sport in which he had become a professional. But now it is stated that any athlete, signing a professional contract, is ineligible to participate in college competition.

The enforcement of this rule will bar such athletes as Bemidji's Clark (Corky) Johnson and Bill Lawrence from playing football or basketball with Bemidji State college. The two boys, who has signed professional baseball contracts, and have played in organized baseball, have been members of the BSC football and basketball squads for the past couple of years.

The Northern State college conference, of which Bemidji, Moorhead, St. Cloud, Mankato, Winona, and Michigan Tech are members, has had some strange eligibility rules. We can recall some years ago that Dick Lawrence, Bill's oldest brother, played varsity football at Bemidji State college after having completed three years of varsity competition as a member of the University of Minnesota football squad.

And prior to this instance we remember when Weldon (Buzz) Gray, the former Cass Lake high school star, played with Moorhead State college as a member of the Dragons' varsity cage squad after having played his full quota of basketball with Hamline.

Gray was a star with the Cass Lake team that won the Region Eight basketball title in 1934 by scoring a 24 to 22 win over Twin Valley in an overtime tilt played here. Buzz, a spectacular floor man, followed up his high school by enrolling at Hamline and becoming a star member of the championship Pipers. Gray concluded his college play at Hamline, and then, following World War II service, Buzz enrolled at Moorhead, and at the age of thirty he became a member of the Dragons basketball squad. "Dad" Gray, as he was called by his teammates, proved to be a star with the Dragons.

Benefits for Training

The Minnesota State Medical association, in commenting on high school athletics, advises parents and girl friends that they can do the high school athlete a great favor by making it easy for him to observe his training rules.

The association adds, "Fundamentally, athletic training rules could serve as a guide to healthier living for most persons. For the adolescent contemplating participation in an active program of competitive athletics, strick adherance to rigid athletic training rules is essential.

"Sleep requirements may vary with each individual but, normally, coaches and athletic trainers will usually recommend nine hours of sleep for the active athlete in order to restore the wear and tear of vigorous athletic activity.

"Smoking can have a number of effects upon the system including irritation of the mucous membranes of the nose, throat and other respiratory passages. Constriction of the small blood vessels and an increased heart rate resulting from smoking can reduce the athlete's effectiveness particularly in a stress situation.

"Use of oxygen as an aid for improving athletic performance is without scientific basis. Drugs taken to stimulate athletic activity provide no real benefits and may have serious toxic effects. Individual players may require vitamin supplementation but such additional requirements should be determined by a physician.

"Small amounts of sugar, candy, or an orange can give a short 'lift' but should never be substituted for well-balanced nourishment and rest."

Border Station at Pinecreek Is Open Longer May First

Starting Sunday, May 1, border inspection stations at Pinecreek and at Piney in Manitoba, will be open from 8:00 o'clock a.m. to midnight, O. W. Brandon, immigration inspector, announced this week. Under the present schedule the offices close at 9 p.m.

In his letter to the Times Mr. Brandon comments, "It might be of interest to note that the highway through this port is completely blacktopped all the way to Winnipeg. The mileage from Thief River Falls to Winnipeg is exactly the same as by way of Noyes. Adjacent to the Pinecreek inspection station there is an air strip where those desiring to fly to Canada can clear customs for both countries with only one stop."

American Lutheran Church to Be Formed at Session This Week

Three Lutheran synods will cross the threshold into The American Lutheran Church—a new denomination of 2¼ million persons—at a historic constituting convention in Minneapolis this week.

One thousand delegates will adopt the founding documents necessary to form the new church, and will elect a new president, vice president and secretary.

The new church body will be fully functioning by Jan. 1, 1961. At that time it will replace the existing American, Evangelical and United Evangelical Lutheran churches (ALC, ELC, UELC), in administering a national and world-wide program.

Closing conventions of the three synods during the first days of the week (April 19-21) will precede the constituting convention Friday through Sunday of the ALC.

Including the delegates, church officials, pastors and spectators who will witness the sessions, more than 10,000 persons are expected to visit the convention.

Comprising the ALC will be more than 5,000 local congregations in the U.S. and Canada with nearly 4,500 ordained ministers.

In addition, its missionary banners will fly in New Guinea, India, Indonesia, Brazil, Columbia, Ethiopia, Madagascar and other regions of Africa.

Property holdings of the churches will exceed 400 million dollars, and their local expenses will run over 80 million dollars yearly.

The national and world-wide program of the ALC will be administered from its headquarters at Minneapolis in the building presently used by the ELC. Existing headquarters of ALC at Columbus, Ohio, and UELC at Blair, Neb., will be moved by next Jan. 1, date set for the final changeover to the new organization.

The three churches' publishing houses will be consolidated under the name "Augsburg Publishing House" with units at Minneapolis, Columbus and Blair. Their periodicals will be combined into the "Lutheran Standard."

Election of a new president for the American Lutheran Church to a six-year term starting next January will follow adoption of the founding documents. A vice president, secretary and six members at-large of the 46-member Church Council will be chosen at an afternoon session.

Greetings will be brought to the convention from the joint commission on Lutheran unity, which is piloting a similar merger effort of the United Lutheran Church in America, Augustana Evangelical Lutheran Church, the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church (Suomi Synod), and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church. The message will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen of Minneapolis, president of Augustana Evangelical Lutheran Church and chairman of JCLU.

First Dist. Nurses Meet in Crookston

Discuss the Various Medical Professions

Nearly 40 members of the First District Minnesota Nurses association attended a supper meeting at Bethesda Hospital in Crookston on April 7th. Sister Mary David of St. Francis Hospital acted as moderator of a panel discussion of various medical professions.

Miss Janet Hooey represented the staff nurse; Miss Delores Pierce, the clerical administration; Mrs. Munn, the head nurse; Warren Fuller, the social case-worker of a county welfare department; and Bud Westman, physiotherapy. Questions by the moderator, panel members, and the audience brought out many ways that these branches can work together for better patient care.

Mrs. Mildred Dahlgren, president, conducted the business meeting. She announced that Mrs. Joy Suldahl of Crookston has been named a Minnesota delegate to the American Nurses association convention to be held in Florida in May.

The nominating committee presented the slate of candidates to be voted on by mail in the next month.

The date and place for the June meeting will be determined later.

Minnesota Dental Assistants Plan State Convention

Economists Discuss Zoning Rural Areas

Problems like junk yards next to rural homes may be easier to avoid in Minnesota as a result of the state's newest zoning legislation.

Rural areas in 1959 were given broader authority to plan for land use. How the new legislation works is discussed by R. B. Morrow and P. M. Raup, University of Minnesota agricultural economists, in the current issue of "Minnesota Farm Business Notes."

Morrow and Raup explain that up to 1959, some counties and townships in the state had zoning authority, but there was no comprehensive law for all rural areas.

The 1959 legislature, however, enacted a statute whereby any township may pass zoning laws. Plans must be approved by 70 per cent of the persons voting on the issue.

Counties may plan and zone if their population is under 300,-000 persons. Voter approval is not needed.

The economists expect that counties will be most active in rural zoning. They are better able, in most cases, to raise funds for preparing development plans and employ planning personnel.

Zoning can help avoid a number of problems resulting from city expansion, highway improvement and suburban development, Morrow and Raup say. There are problems of incompatible land uses — like a livestock feed lot next to a shopping center.

Without planning, water supplies may become contaminated — such as when too many private water and sewage systems are in use in the same area. Unrestricted and uncontrolled construction may lead to rural slums.

Rural and suburban population increases bring up new needs for schools, police and fire protection and other public services. And without some type of regulation, roadside blight may develop around approaches to major new highways.

Here's the procedure by which counties may plan and zone:

The board of county commissioners must first pass a resolution declaring its intent to proceed with planning and zoning. Next, the board should prepare a comprehensive plan for orderly development of the entire county or for parts which they wish to zone.

The board is not required to submit the plan to the voters, but hearings must be held on the proposal.

Once plans are adopted, counties may enforce them under their general authority to protect and promote the general health, welfare and safety of the citizens.

These ordinances generally have three main features.

First, they establish zoning districts. Certain areas are restricted to given uses, such as residential, agricultural, recreational, industrial or others. Some areas may be zoned for a combination of uses.

Second, the ordinances guide building location, height, set back and size of yards or service areas of activities designated for the district. Regulations must be similar for all property classes within a district, but may differ from one district to another.

Third, the ordinances include maps showing planned location of roads, parks, streets and service facilities, such as schools, playgrounds and water and sewage systems.

A county board adopting official controls must set up a board of adjustment, to act on questions which may come up on administration and interpretation of the maps and ordinances. Decisions from this board aren't necessarily final. Dissatisfied persons may appeal board rulings to the district court.

On the other hand, persons injured through lack of enforcement may bring action against responsible officials to put the ordinances into effect.

Counties which had zoning authority before 1959 now have the option of zoning under either the old law or the new statute.

The largest one a year gathering of dentists held anywhere in the U.S. gets under way on Monday, April 25, when the 77th annual meeting of the Minnesota State Dental association opens in St. Paul.

The three day professional session is expected to attract more than 2,200 dentists from 30 states and several foreign countries, as well as hundreds of dental students, hygienists, assistants, laboratory technicians and wives.

Total anticipated attendance is estimated at more than 4,000. The sessions will be held in the municipal auditorium.

"When you can, always advise people to do what you see they really want to do, so long as what they want to do isn't dangerously unlawful, stupidly unsocial or obviously impossible. Doing what they want to do, they may succeed; doing what they don't want to do, they won't." —James Gould Cozzens

Less Guesswork Now

A number of atomic scientists have sharply revised their estimates of the dangers of radioactive falkout, and this, of course, means that we should take a new look at the problem of defense in the event of an all-out nuclear war. The prospect still is far from encouraging but it now appears that we are emerging from the era of hysteria and are beginning to consider the probabilities realistically.

It has been assumed that areas hit by heavy radioactive contamination might be aninhabitable for long periods of time. Present thinking is that such areas could be inhabited and cultivated in a few months after an attack.

Food contamination from fallout, including the feared strontium 90, is now considered far less serious and scientists believe what contamination there is can be reduced by crop sprays.

It probably is better that we overestimate the dangers that might threaten us in the event of attack than to underestimate them, but better too that we postpone the building of shelters and other defense works until we are reasonably sure that the kind of shelters we build will shelter us.

There is less guesswork now in this field than there was a few years ago and in a few more years our scientists will know a great deal more than they do at this time.

An Interesting Survey

Congressman Odin Langen received more than 7,000 replies to a questionnaire mailed to Ninth District residents last January, and the answers he received are both revealing and encouraging. For instance an overwhelming majority opposed increased government indebtedness, favoring debt reduction or at least a balanced budget.

If Congress could be convinced that the folks back home believe that we should live within our means, and that expenditures should be limited to what we can pay for without additional borrowing, our government's standing as a credit risk would be greatly strengthened. Such a policy would be the best guarantee we could get against further inflation, and the government probably would find a better market for long-term bonds at a favorable interest rate.

Most of the people in this agricultural district recognize the fact that there is a farm problem, 63.5 per cent of those who expressed themselves on this question favoring production controls and price supports in some form. Unfortunately, the survey revealed how far apart the good people of this agricultural district are in their thinking on what should be done. And if we can't agree among ourselves as to what kind of a farm program we should have, it isn't reasonable to expect our representatives in Washington to find a solution that will be satisfactory to most of us.

One encouraging thing about the replies was their indication of an increasing awareness of the relationship between government spending and taxing. At the local level all are aware of this relationship. It is seldom that money is spent foolishly at the township level, and in a rural community such as ours, most of the people want conservative government at the county level.

As government gets farther from home this relationship becomes less evident, and many who are conservative in the management of their own affairs and the affairs of their own community, go along with the idea that anything they can wangle out of the state or federal government they will get for free.

The Langen survey, however, indicates that most of our people are aware of the inevitability of higher taxes as we increase spending, and it appears that people are becoming more tax conscious. This is one survey that may serve a good purpose.

Good News

"Hopes rise for railroad labor peace," reports the Wall Street Journal. "Insiders figure this spring's arbitration of engineer's pay will set a pattern for operating unions." It states, and "an emergency board would settle other wages. A study commission will take over the thorny work rules issue later for longer-range study. A strike looks unlikely before next year, if it comes."

That is cheerful news and hereabouts, we are sure, all are hopeful that it will prove to be a generally correct prediction.

It should be possible to settle this "thorny work rules issue" peacefully. We have heard the conflicting views of management and labor on these questions and we can see no reason why reasonable solutions cannot be found.

Those who speak for labor maintain that they have a vested right in the benefits they have gained when these rules were agreed to and there is much to be said for this position insofar as it applies to the old employes. Some of the rules in question probably are good. But we can see no good reason why new employes should inherit the benefits of obsolete rules that cannot be justified in any way except as a property right.

If the railroads are to survive, and continue to provide the service they are best suited for in the transportation field, then they must be encouraged to operate at maximum efficiency. Only by that approach will the best interests of employers, employes and the public be served.

Welcome DeGaulle

General Charles de Gaulle, president of France is now in Canada and will arrive Friday to spend eight days with us as a welcome guest. De Gaulle is one of the most colorful characters of the world today. We do not know at this time what future generations will think of him. He is now engaged in the great battle that probably will determine his destiny. We are rather hopeful that he will emerge victorious from that struggle and deserve a place of honor among the great men of all time.

A few weeks ago he visited England and, according to the Manchester Guardian, he arrived "in an atmosphere as cool as the April winds that whistled about Victoria Station, London. But before the day was out there had been a transformation brought about by the General himself, which gives promise that the visit may go down as a triumph of general understanding."

And the visit did result in a better understanding of questions that had divided these former allies. As a result of his visit to our country we may hope for a similar result.

The following observations on the life and character of Charles de Gaulle by the Manchester Guardian are interesting as an introduction to the man who this week will be our guest.

"A great man" can sometimes be an empty phrase, and some men well known to history have been great chiefly by their crimes. Yet now and again we come across a man whom we must call great, not just for what he has done but for what he is. Such a man is President de Gaulle, whom the Queen welcomed on our behalf on Tuesday.

"De Gaulle's whole history shows that he is all of a piece; and, as he is, he must be taken. Thus he unites a far sighted understanding of the way the world is going with some notorious blind spots where the "greatness" of France is concerned; a lofty sense of honour and responsibility with a readiness to deal in shrewd ambiguities; a scrupulous respect for constitutional forms (as he understands them) with a pretty sweeping disregard for hose who seek to use those forms to forward the wishes of particular groups of Frenchmen.

"His liberal and his autocratic gestures flow from the same source—his belief that he knows what France must and will do to be great. So we might as well stop trying to think of him as either a democrat or a potential dictator. He is neither. Instead he is a unique figure—a monarch who pursues aims and works within restraints which his own conscience has set. He also pre-eminently embodies the qualities—in politics they are not always virtues—of patriotism, consistency, and selflessness.

"President de Gaulle comes at a time when our minds turn anxiously to the fate and purposes of France under his leadership. Most people know about his record in the past—the years when he stood with us as leader of the Free French. There again we had to take him as he was: as he himself has written, he had to be a difficult ally because only thus could he impose the notion of France as a country not defeated and disorganised for all to see, but uninterruptedly great.

"Now our hopes and fears centre on his endeavour to settle the greatest problem that faces France—Algeria. All else hangs upon it: though France is again an awkward ally, quickly moved to outbursts of aggrieved national pride, unwilling to play her full part in North Atlantic defence except on her own terms, insistent upon keeping the bridges down between us and her partners in "Little Europe," who can doubt that liberation from the Algerian bull and chain would resolve at least some of these difficulties?

"The vicissitudes of President de Gaulle's Algerian policy have kept us on a see-saw of hope and doubt: his intentions have clearly been good, his firmness at the moment of crisis exemplary; yet circumstances and his own temper have set strict bounds on his freedom of action. The war goes on, and no end is in sight.

"We should also like to think that the fate of France was not being made to hang so thoroughly as sometimes appears on de Gaulle's staying on long enough to see through what he conceives as his mission. It would be cheering if de Gaulle lent his help to those who hope to see the roots of French representative democracy (still strong below ground) send up new shoots. It might be his greatest legacy if he helped to establish his France, as in Britain, that not even the greatest man is indispensable."

School-of-the-week last week was Nashwauk, on the Iron Range, where 30 teachers and the superintendent resigned for various reasons, including disappointment because they did not get the salary increases they had asked for. The president of the school board pointed out that tax dollars were not as plentiful as they had been. The school board evidently had concluded that a lack of tax dollars was a good reason for not increasing spending.

Clean-up time is here again and many yards already have that well-raked appearance. The ice moved out of the river at about the normal time, robins and crows are with us again, a northward-bound flock of swans camped west of town last week and early one morning we heard honkers somewhere in the sky above us. This is the hopeful season of the year.

Andrew Skaar President of New Farm Unit

Elected to Head Development Assn. In Warren Tuesday

Andrew Skaar, Pennington county farmer is the first president of the new Farm and Home Development association, which was organized officially at a meeting at Warren Tuesday, April 19. It is designed to furnish the member families with the latest information from research stations and universities, with half of the cost, which is $75, being paid by the member family. Elected vice president at the Warren meeting was Lee Munger of Warren, and Gerhardt Rust, Fisher, was named secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the executive committee which runs the business of the association were Gene Johnson and Gerhardt Rust, West Polk county; Leonard Hapka and Lee Munger, Marshall county; Robert Parnow and Andrew Skaar, Pennington county; and John Grenier, Red Lake county.

The association will be served by a fieldman, who will furnish information to the farm families. He will have his headquarters at Thief River Falls and start work July 1.

The Farm and Home Development agent will work only with the families in the association. Rapid and dynamic changes in farm practices and in techniques of production are demanding more and more information to make correct decisions on today's farms, County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk pointed out.

Many thousands of dollars may be invested improperly and mean a lower standard of living and in some cases dissolution of the farm business, said Stelmaschuk. This means more carefully planned decisions will have to be made to insure successful operation of the farm units.

9th District GOP to Hold Its Convention in Bemidji Saturday

Mrs. Ethel Cooley of Minot, Republican national committeewoman from North Dakota, will keynote the Ninth district Republican convention in Bemidji Saturday, April 23, announces District Chairman Earl William of Fergus Falls.

A pre convention banquet will be held at the Elks Hall Friday evening, and the convention opens the next day at the Masonic Lodge. Meeting headquarters will be the Markham Hotel.

Stan Mortenson, Pennington county GOP chairman, will head the county delegation.

Republican candidates and state party officers have taken to the air and highways this week for a barnstorming tour of district conventions.

Led by gubernatorial hopefuls Elmer L. Andersen and P. Kenneth Peterson the Republican retinue started with appearances at the Sixth District convention in Little Falls April 19, then swung back to the Twin Cities for the Fifth District meeting at St. Mark's Cathedral in Minneapolis on the 20th.

Adhering to a split-second time schedule, they will go to Bemidji for the Ninth district convention on the 22nd and 23rd, fly down to Bloomington for the Third on the 23rd, and then the same day swing north again to the Eighth in Duluth and double back to the Seventh in Marshall.

Major items of business at each convention include addresses of candidates and party leaders, action on candidates and resolutions and election of two delegates and two alternates from each district to the July 25 GOP national convention in Chicago.

An additional 10 delegates and alternates will be elected at large at the state convention in June to round out Minnesota's 28-vote Chicago delegation.

Physical Examinations to Be Given Tuesday by T. R. Falls Physicians

Children who will enter the Goodridge elementary school as first graders next fall will take part in a pre-school roundup Friday, April 22.

A resolution passed by the school board requires that all children who are six years old on or before Sept. 1 must have taken part in the roundup or its equivalent before entering the first grade.

The program has been planned to better acquaint the parents and children with the problems and responsibilities connected with being in the first grade and to prepare preliminary health records.

Dinner will be served in the lunch room beginning at noon followed at 12:30 by meetings of parents in the first grade room and a children's class in the principal's office. From 1 until 1:45, parents will meet in the principal's office, and children will meet in the first grade room. The period from 2 until 2:30 has been planned for completing health records with parents accompanying their children.

Appointments for physical examinations have been made with all the clinics in Thief River Falls Tuesday, April 26. Dental checkups will be made by Dr. C. E. Snyder and eye examinations by Dr. O. D. Belch. A school bus will take the children to Thief River Falls and return them after the examinations. PTA mothers will accompany the children.

A resolution was adopted expressing to Doug Tegtmeier, former sports announcer with Radio Station KTRF, appreciation for his services in broadcasting Lincoln high school sports events, and wishing him success in his new position in Grand Forks.

CHRISTMAS shopping was done a little late and quite illegally by two teen age Thief River Falls girls. Elton Cummings, police chief, looks over some of the loot recovered this week which has been taken from city stores since last Dec. 25, then given away to friends. "This is not the end," Cummings said. "Other things are turning up." Council Plans to Refinance $113,000 Bonds

Hearing on West Side Blacktop Work Scheduled May 12

Bonds and streets were two of the many items of business taken up by the city council at its regular April meeting Tuesday evening.

Following a report by Milton Relerson, fifth ward alderman and chairman of the finance committee, and a lengthy discussion which completed the evening's business, the council voted to ask the bond firm of Juran & Moody of St. Paul to prepare a resolution calling for the refinancing of $113,000 in general obligation bonds which come due this year. The rate for the refinanced bonds would be 4.25%. Refinancing of an additional $30,000 in bonds coming due next year was discussed but no action was taken.

Streets of Thief River Falls occupied much of the council's time. Elmer A. Andersen, 117 Kneale ave. N., was the first spokesman for a six-man delegation of property owners who asked that something be done to alleviate their dust problem. Andersen said that salt used in a surfacing mixture last year was damaging trees, shrubbery and metalwork. Paul Roy, 126 Kneale ave. N., requested that a survey be made to estimate the cost of permanent improvements to the street.

Following a request by Roy Lee, council president, D. H. Stewart, consulting engineer, told the delegation that the master plan calls for abandoning the inadequate drain now serving the street. Bob Jabliniske, street commissioner, added that proper drainage would be necessary to do away with water which now stands on the street.

He added that he doubted that there is any blowing salt dust now, that gravel could be used as a cover but that there would be more dust after the gravel was laid than there is at present. Following the discussion, Alderman Lee said that a survey would be made of the cost of constructing a permanent street with a report to be made at the May meeting.

A discussion of various parking problems resulted in the adoption of a resolution increasing the size of the bus stop on LaBree ave. N. at the intersection with Fourth st. to three parking spaces rather than the present two spaces.

The feasibility report of the proposed construction of 17 blocks of surfaced streets north of the business district was accepted and a public hearing on the matter has been set for the evening of May 12 beginning at 8 o'clock. Although no cost-per-

Area children who have a physical handicap will have the opportunity to be examined in Thief River Falls next Tuesday, April 26, at a field clinic sponsored by the crippled children services of the Minnesota department of public welfare.

It will be open to youngsters up to the age of 21 from Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, Roseau and Kittson counties, and will be held in the Trinity church parish house, starting at 8:30 a.m.

Charles P. Morehouse Gored by Animal Early Monday Afternoon

Dr. Ernest O. Thorsgard, county coroner, said Charles P. Morehouse, 57, a hired man on the Woodrow Almquist farm, apparently went or fell into the bullpen and was killed about 2:15 p.m. Monday while working alone on the Almquist farm.

The time of death was established at 2:15 p.m. because Morehouse's watch had stopped at that time. According to Doctor Thorsgard, an autopsy performed by Dr. Reeber of the Falls Clinic here, revealed Morehouse died of fractured ribs and a punctured lung.

Morehouse, a long time resident of Middle River, was the brother of Mrs. Glenn Curtiss of that city. Collins funeral home of Middle River is in charge of funeral arrangements and final rites will be held Saturday at First Lutheran church in Middle River with Rev. James Hanson officiating.

Interment will be in First Lutheran cemetery.

Study Club and County Nurse to Assist Warren Doctor in Giving Shots

Consent cards for shots at the polio clinic to be held at the Newfolden Community school on Wednesday, April 27, will be sent out Friday, April 22, with the school children whose parents answered the survey form indicating their family wish shots. These cards are for the school children only. They should be filled out, signed, and returned to school not later than Wednesday, April 27, so the school children may receive their shots. Adults and pre-school children accompanied by a parent do not have to have consent cards.

The clinic will start at 9 a.m. sharp, April 27. Dr. Arvid Carlson, Warren, will administer the shots, assisted by Mrs. Viola Rud, the county nurse, and ladies from the Newfolden Study club. The club members will collect the money ($1.25 per person), register names of persons getting shots and collect the consent cards, and swab arms.

Because of this assistance, the clinic should go quite rapidly so that persons advised to be there early because the doctor will leave as soon as the line is through. It is recommended that adults and pre-school children be at the school by 8:45 a.m. so that they may be the first persons in line and leave right away. The school children will then follow to keep a continuous line going.

That Crossing

An accident Sunday night has again brought attention to a traffic hazard in Thief River Falls which should not exist.

There are two main reasons why the Soo Line crossing at First street needs an underpass and a perfect example of the first of these reasons in now lying in Northwestern hospital where his condition is listed as "critical."

What is the value of a human life? Is there a family in Thief River Falls or in this area who would not consider the cost of underpass construction as a small sum in comparison to the loss of a son, daughter, husband or wife?

From the standpoint of property safety, the rails which separate the east side of the city from the fire station are an impassable barrier when long trains block every crossing. This has been repeated by our firemen year after year but the matter is brushed aside as being of little or no consequence.

There are those, of course, who feel that the number of times a day lives and property are put in jeopardy by our crossings are few and hardly worth the money that would be expended. They would have you walk up to this crossing to look up and down the rails to prove that visibility is adequate and that one with normal hearing should be able to detect a train from a great distance. The truth of the matter is that anyone arriving at a sane rate of speed has only moments from the time he sees a train until he can bring his car to a stop. Houses on the east side of the track and boxcars deadheaded on the spur on the west side make this a dangerous crossing and here, where car windows are rolled up a majority of the time, it is often difficult to hear a warning signal.

First street is a state aid street. Costs of constructing an underpass would probably be borne by the state, community and the railroad jointly. With a three-way split of this construction, the expense would not be impossible for any of these three.

The Smell of Spring

At no time of the year is it so graphically called to our attention that what we have gained through the years has been at the cost of other things.

With the departure of the snow and ice and the constantly-increasing warmth of the sun, the earth is again beginning to have that "spring smell" which we dimly remember in the distant past.

I hope that our children can experience this aspect of the new year as we did. I hope that they will remember it as we do.

A hint to clever inventors: Why don't you manufacture a more concentrated version of the "spring smell" to put on the market? That, plus a new car smell for use in aging vehicles should make some one a million dollars.

Council Arranges for Refinancing of $113,000 Bonds

foot figure was adopted for assessment against benefited property owners, the council will have an informal meeting Monday, April 25, to decide on that matter.

Whatever figure is decided upon, the council emphasized that the figure would probably be lower than it has been in some other areas. Much of the material on the street at present could be salvaged and used in the five-inch sub-base layer.

Specifications call for a four-inch crushed gravel base as a second layer, a 1½-inch road-mixed bituminous binder as the next layer and a wearing course of 1½-inches of road-mixed bituminous. Work would be done with city owned equipment and by city crews. Total cost of the street surfacing was estimated at $32,000.

It was also recommended that property owners be required to install water and sewer service connections to the curbline and that all existing iron pipe water service be replaced with copper pipe. A new water main along Sixth st. from Main to Atlantic ave. would be installed at an estimated cost of $9,700.

Bids to furnish gasoline for use in city equipment were opened. The bid of Consumers Cooperative association to furnish 1,000 gallons of premium gasoline for use in the police car at 25.3c a gallon from the station was accepted. The Bugge Pure Oil service station bid was at the rate of 28.7c.

Mobil Oil company's bid of 19.9c a gallon for 16,000 gallons of bulk regular gasoline was accepted as the low bid in that category. Other bids were: Consumers Cooperative association, 25.9c, Cities Service Oil company, 20.9c, Standard Oil company, 20.22c, and Pure Oil company, 21.65c.

The bid of Hydrocarbon Specialties, Inc., to furnish two types of bituminous materials was accepted. On 8,000 gallons of RC-2, the successful bid was 10.73c a gallon with Western Fuel and Oil company bidding 10.95c and Consumers Cooperative association bidding 13.25c. Bidding on 40,000 gallons of MC 3, the successful bid was based on a cost of 10.48c per gallon with Western Fuel and Oil company bidding 10.7c and Consumers Cooperative assn bidding 12.75c.

Four building permits totaling $11,200 were approved. J. K. Stadum, 809 Horace ave. N., will build a garage costing $1,100; Cliff Bjorkman, 918 Main ave. N., will build a $7,500 addition to his dwelling; the Falls Concrete company will build an addition to its plant at a cost of $2,600 and Neil Stone, 415 Arnold ave. S., will build a $3,000 two-car garage and breezeway.

Mack Draper appeared before the council as chairman of the airport commission to ask for the council's reaction to a lease of some airport property to be occupied by an aircraft repair shop. Civil Defense Chiefs and Firefighters in Session Here Monday

More than 35 men from Area III of the civil defense mobilization, including county directors and fire chiefs from a dozen counties in Northwestern Minnesota, met Monday evening at the Thief River Falls fire hall.

Purpose of the meeting was to discuss what equipment and manpower could be secured from each community when called to another town in time of disaster.

Fire Chief Herbert of Crookston, serving as mobile support area fire chief, discussed the problem, and stated that towns with only one fire truck would be asked to provide only manpower and a truck.

Rendezvous points in time of emergency were designated as follows: Kittson and Roseau counties, Hallock fair grounds. Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Polk, fair grounds in Thief River Falls, with an alternate to be named. Beltrami, Lake of the Woods and Clearwater counties, Bemidji fair grounds. Becker, Clay, Mahnomen and Norman counties, Detroit Lakes fair grounds.

Ed Johnson of Bemidji, Area III commander of civil defense, called attention to the necessity of constant war against Communism, pointing out that six out of every ten persons in the world are now Communists.

Miss Bertha Hasted to Read 'Pinky and Petunias'

"Pinky and the Petunias" is the book Miss Bertha Hastad will read for story hour at the public library on Saturday, commencing at 1:30. Miss Hastad will tell what happened to the little kitten who liked petunias so well that there were soon none left in the neighborhood.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor, Times:

We wish to commend you for your editorial, "Public Accounting Needed," in the April 7th issue. We have read recently about some charity organizations being accused of questionable methods of handling money contributed by the people. Now the Sister Kenny Foundation, which we all have thought would be conducted in an honest manner. We find instead that the top brass are receiving fabulous salaries and like other charity organizations do not make an accounting of the money solicited for a certain charity or research.

It seems that the top officials are not for charity, but are in the organization to get all they can for themselves. Only a very small part of the money contributed is used for the purpose for which it was intended. The only way that such irregularities will be stopped is that all accounts of charity organizations must be audited by public accountants after each drive for funds.

The only way to enforce such laws would be for the people to refuse to contribute to any charity organization or foundation until it can be proven that the accounts have been audited by public accountants. This would be a very hard hearted way to get at the irregularities because all charities are for a worthy cause, but it does hurt to see so small percentage of money contributed really being used for the purpose intended.

We wish to state further that it is our belief that all units of state and federal government that handle money should be audited at certain intervals by public accountants. When we read of the many cases of embezzlement we know good and unbiased accounting must be done.

Respectfully yours,
C. E. Hellquist

By Eleanor Olson

When I was little the most exasperating thing that could happen was to be called away from the wonderful adventure I was having "by book" to do something impossibly ordinary like set the table. The inevitable plea of "In a minute, mama," came from the bottom of my heart because at the moment whatever the characters in the book were doing I was actually doing too. After all, to a child mind and body are equally real. Dreams and book adventures aren't substitutes for daily living, they are daily living. This is something that the adult who is used to abstract things completely forgets.

This ability to live their book experiences may explain why books make such an impression on growing minds. They can play a big part in developing attitudes and personalities. I read the other day of a little girl who scolded her mother for grumbling about a lack of electricity after a storm. "Why, mother," she said, "after the earthquake in San Francisco the people suffered a lot more than we have, and they never complained." Whether this was really true didn't matter half as much as the fact the girl had gained an ideal on how to meet disaster and emergencies from a book.

Children can learn how to cope with emergencies as well as get ideas for making daily living more interesting. Perhaps I'll never have to get along on a desert island, but if I do I'll have Robinson Crusoe and Swiss Family Robinson to draw on. The latter made having my tonsils out when I was eight an almost joyful experience. To this day if you say tonsils, I will answer Swiss Family Robinson. Whether I ever do put the book to practical application or not doesn't matter half as much as the fun the book gave me after I was back in action after my tonsillectomy. I had what I was sure was the best tree house in the country and a happy lesson in self reliance and inventiveness as well.

So you see, books don't have to teach, because children learn from everything they read. Even, and especially, fairy tales and fantasy. That's why a good book, one that makes demands on a child's imagination instead of so saying just what he expects, will help him grow.

But really the most happy thing of all is that books and children mix so well. I was at the library the other day when a class of youngsters from St. Bernard's school fairly burst through the door. They scurried first to the check-out desk to return their books, they flew to the tables where books were laid out for them. Some chose new ones immediately, others took more time; but their aim was evident. To get a new book and sit on the steps and sneak a hurried peek at what fun was in store for the next week.

Their enthusiasm wasn't by any means directly proportionate only to the number of children involved. Coming to the library was more than an adventure in itself; it was the means to even better adventures in books.

One country mother complains that if her children finish their books before she does her's, they give her no rest. Anytime she sits down one of them brings her book and says, "Here, mother, read your book. We're all ready to go back to the library for more."

Girl Shoplifters Stole Nearly 100 Items from Stores

Two Girls, Age 14, Found To Have Stolen Many Valuable Items Here

A case of shoplifting on a grand scale is nearing solution this week because an alert merchant, Ervin Johnk, of the A&E Appliance shop, was able to accurately describe one of the girls involved after a transistor radio was taken from his establishment. As a result the offenders were apprehended and the case begins to unfold.

Two local 14-year-old girls are the principals in the case and a large pile of loot is accumulating in the municipal court rooms as authorities uncover the objects of the girls' "shopping" forays about the city.

Numerous other boys and girls in the city have been recipients of goods taken by the generous shoplifters and much of this loot is being uncovered as the investigation continues. Included in the goods received so far are numerous transistor radios (a favorite item of shoplifters these days because of their diminutive size), a camera, cosmetics, handbags, records, a skirt and sundry other items.

Police questioned several youths Wednesday during the investigation, local school officials were highly praised by Police Chief Elton Cummings for their excellent cooperation in helping to solve the case. Up to noon Wednesday, 86 articles had been recovered and more is expected.

According to police, the thefts go back as far as last Dec. 25.

Slow Down and Live!

Sheriff Richards Warns Litterbugs

Cites Penalty for Tossing Rubbish along Roadside

Sheriff Charles Richards today asked the public to cooperate in refraining from throwing trash along the highways in the Thief River Falls and Pennington county area.

Numerous complaints have been received recently about the amount of trash, particularly beer bottles and cartons, etc., thrown along area roads. The annual clean-up entails much work and expenditure of funds by farmers and highway departments.

Richards also asked cooperation of citizens hauling refuse to the dump in seeing that trash does not fall off the vehicles. A considerable amount of trash collects along highway 32 as a result of this, Richards stated.

The sheriff also requested that anyone seeing occupants of a car throw rubbish on the highway report it to authorities. Only by catching offenders can the law be implemented, he stated.

Prowler Nine to Play Goodridge on Friday

Coach Ralph Skay on Wednesday designated the Prowlers that would be given the starting assignments for Friday afternoon's schedule-opening baseball game at the Fair Grounds diamond, with coach Julian Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies providing the opposition. The game, slated to start at 5:00 p.m., will be a district conference game. Originally the two teams had been slated to play at Goodridge, but the "heavy" condition of the diamond there forced the transfer to the Fair Grounds diamond. The Fair Grounds here is undergoing a "face lifting" treatment, and playing conditions will be just fair for Friday's opener.

Coach Skay gave the starting job on the mound to righthander Gary Anderson, a junior. Jim Wegge, a senior, will be the catcher; Jack Goulet, a junior, will be at first base; Paul Klungness, a freshman, at second base; Eddie Lietzow, a junior, at shortstop; and Jim Weckwerth, a sophomore, at third base. Paul Saurdiff and Arlan Hjelle, seniors, and Gary Klungness, a sophomore, will patrol the outfield.

On Monday evening, with game time at 6 p.m., the Argyle Eagles of district 32 will invade the Fair Grounds diamond for a game against the Prowlers.

VFW Loyalty Day Scheduled May 1

Calls for Flag Display April 30 and May 1st

"The VFW-sponsored and directed "Loyalty Day" May 1 has become established as a time for open display of allegiance to our great nation," said Commander R. G. Berger, of the local VFW post. The statement came as he announced plans for the post's observance of the occasion.

"Loyalty Day" originated some decades ago on the East coast when several VFW posts worked up an idea for a counter demonstration to the annual May day mass meetings of communists. The idea spread throughout the country and was extremely successful in eliminating the May day mass meetings. Years of work by the VFW were crowned by national recognition when, on July 18, 1958, President Eisenhower signed the unanimously passed Loyalty Day Bill into public law.

Loyalty Day is no longer a day used as a counter to communism. Rather it has become a specific day when every loyal American is afforded an opportunity to publicly proclaim his or her loyalty. The cooperation of service, civic, fraternal, women's, labor, religious, educational and youth groups has been wholeheartedly extended and accepted to make the observance of Loyalty Day an event as important as Memorial Day and the 4th of July.

Comander Berger asks that everyone in Thief River Falls fly the American flag on Loyalty Day weekend, April 30 and May 1 and to help the VFW post to make this Loyalty Day observance an outstanding event.

On Thursday and Friday, April 21 and 22, County Nurse Viola L. Rud, assisted by members of the Newfolden Study club, will conduct hearing tests for grades one through 12 at the Newfolden community school.

Testing will be done during school hours, and it is called to the attention of the public in case there are adults in the community who would like to take the hearing test.

There is no charge, and an appointment is not necessary.

2,655 Job Holders in March; Little Change from '59

As of the middle of March, 2,655 persons were employed in Thief River Falls, compared to 2,668 for the same period in 1959 and 2,638 for 1958, it is revealed in the April issue of the bulletin published by the local employment service office, of which R. S. Eldevik is manager. He added that the usual spring upturn in job opportunities has been delayed this year by cold weather, but it is expected to get under way by the end of April.

Of all the private cars owned in the U.S., 73 per cent are used for traveling to jobs, conducting business, or doing the daily chores on the farm.

Lincoln School PTA to View Comedy at Meeting April 25

One-act Play Based on Shakespeare Comedy to Be Given by 8th Graders

The Lincoln high school PTA unit will meet in the school auditorium Monday evening, April 25, at 8 o'clock. Sjachrani Mochammed, exchange student of Indonesia, will speak.

One section of the eighth grade class will present a one act play taken from "Midsummer Night's Dream," a comedy by Shakespeare, which the class has read. The title is "The Most Lamentable Comedy and Cruel Death of Pyramus and Thisbe."

This is a story of two young lovers, Pyramus and Thisbe. They are forced by their fathers to meet secretly. At one such meeting a catastrophe leads to the death of the pair.

It is a very enjoyable comedy because it was first presented by a group of rough working men of Athens. They confuse their lines, miss their cues, and argue with each other throughout.

The entire English class has worked on the play. Gary Borgen plays the part of Thisbe, Elroy Frolland plays Pyramus. The lion is played by Roger Oftelie, the wall by Bruce Howick. Ronald Armstrong presents Moonshine, and the prologue is done by Allen Christenson.

The play is rehearsed to be presented to the Duke of Athens on his 'wedding day at night.' The Duke and his court are seated close to the stage area and frequently interrup the action of the play with their comments of disgust at the way the players work their parts.

Lunch will be served by the seventh grade mothers.

Welcome Home, Maynard

We have learned from a reliable informant, that Maynard Troland, the sports director and sports announcer for KBUN at Bemidji, will arrive here about May 15 to take over the sports casting duties at KTRF.

Maynard won't be coming here as a stranger to local sports fans, and the high school gymnasium and the athletic field and the Fair Grounds diamond won't be strange places to him. Maynard, you know, is a native son, and he was a member of the Prowler football and basketball squads back in the 1940's and early 1950's.

Maynard played football with such boys as Wally Grovum, Al Williamson, Joe Bradley, Jerry Furuseth, Jack Winter, Don Stadum, Don Green, Roger Dorn, Bill Maruska, Keith Rosengren, Chuck Dicken, Harley Wagner, Erv Skaar, Pinky Adolphson, Jim Russell and others. And on the basketball court such boys as Williamson, Wagner, Don Sponheim, Grovum, Skaar, Rosengren, Duane DuChamp, Dick Bjorkman, Furuseth, and Green were Troland's team-mates.

Following his graduation from Lincoln high school, Maynard entered the Army. At the completion of his Army stint, Troland entered the radio field, and was employed at Minot, North Dakota for several years. For the past couple of years he has been with KBUN at Bemidji and broadcasting the athletic fortunes of the BSC Beavers and the Bemidji Lumberjacks.

Worth the Trip

We received an item from Ralph Anderson of the Detroit Lakes Tribune informing us that Elgin Baylor and a contingent of the Minneapolis Lakers basketball team will play an exhibition game at Detroit Lakes on Saturday night, April 23.

Included in the Laker troupe, in addition to the colorful spectacular Baylor, will be Bob Leonard, Rudy LaRusso, Ray Felix, and Rod Hundley.

Baylor, who has been an all-pro choice in the NBA the past couple of years, and who was an all-American during his college career at Seattle university, is worth the 95-mile trip to Detroit Lakes.

But what should be of interest to local basketball fans with regard to this game on Saturday night is that included in the all-star roster that will face the Lakers is Art Johnson, the former Prowler and Concordia Cobber star. Joining Johnson on the all-stars will be Lowell Bolger, George Hanson, Lyle Dahl, Haldo Norman, and Bruce Pagel.

Admission for the evening attraction, with the tip-off slated for 8:00 P.M., is $1.00 for all, adults and students alike.

The Opener

If weather conditions permit, and the playing field here is in shape for the game, coach Ralph Skay's Prowlers and coach Curly Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies will open the 1960 high school baseball season on Friday afternoon by meeting in a district 31 tilt on the Fair Grounds diamond. Game time for the opener is slated for 5:00 P.M. The game was originally scheduled for the Goodridge diamond but coach Gasperlin advised coach Skay that the Goodridge diamond would be too "heavy" for play on Friday. And so the game was transferred here.

Last season the two teams were also slated to meet in the season opener, but that game was "called off" because of cold and inclement weather. And these factors are a threat for Friday's tilt.

The Prowlers and the Huskies did meet in a pair of games last season, with locals marking up a pair of wins. In a game played here early in June, the Prowlers triumphed by a 14-7 score. That's the game in which Prowler righthander Arlan Hjelle was "loaned" to Goodridge in the 3rd inning, after the locals had gained a 14 to 0 lead, and Hjelle proceeded to pitch no-hit and no-run ball for the four innings in which he hurled.

In a district tournament semi-finals game played here, the Prowlers chalked up a 7 to 0 win over the Huskies as righthander Harley Drees gave up but one hit, that a single by Mike McEnelly. The Huskies' Howard Hendrickson pitched a fine game for the Goodridge, limiting the Prowlers to three hits and three runs in the first four innings. In the 6th and 7th innigs the locals punched out seven hits to tally four runs.

Coach Skay is well-supplied with lettermen for Friday afternoon's opener against the Huskies. Paul Klungness, a freshman, assigned to second base, appears to be the only non-letterman to gain a starting berth for the Prowlers. The other positions will be manned by such lettermen as catcher Jim Wegge, pitcher Arlan Hjelle, first baseman Jack Goulet, shortstop Eddie Lietzow, third baseman Jim Weckwerth, and outfielders Gary Klungness and Paul Saurdiff. Gary Anderson will get the starting assignment for coach Skay's squad, with Hjelle and Goulet due to see action on the mound. And Mike and John Aune, lettermen, are sure to see action.

On Monday evening, with game time set at 6:00 P.M., the Prowlers will play the Argyle Eagles on the Fair Grounds diamond. Coach Loran Eickhoff's Argyle club is rated as a title threat in district 32.

Rotarians to Go to District Meeting

Back Fergus Falls Man for District Governor

Robert Allison of Fergus Falls was endorsed by the Thief River Falls Rotary club as governor of district 558 at the regular noon meeting of the local club Monday, April 18.

Officers of the district will be nominated at the annual district conference in Grand Forks April 22-23 and the official election will be at the conference of Rotary International in Tokyo, Japan, in May.

Several members of the local club have indicated that they and their wives will attend the district conference in Grand Forks which will include a business session, programs for both Rotarians and their wives, a banquet and dance.

Dr. Roland Anderson, a new Rotarian, presented the Monday program. He showed colored slides taken in Guam, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, Hong Kong and Japan while he was in service from 1955 to 1956.

4 State 4-H'ers Go to Washington

Four top-ranking Minnesota 4-H'ers will represent their fellow club members at the 1960 Nation 4-H Club conference in Washington, D.C., April 23-29, Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, announced Tuesday.

Attending the conference will be Norma Krenik, 18, Madison Lake; Roger Wrase, 18, Chaska; Ronald Knutson, 19, Montevideo; and Karen Koehn, 19, Lindstrom. The four were awarded the trip because of their outstanding 4-H achievements by the Minnesota Bankers' association, Minneapolis.

"Getting Set for the Sixties" is the overall theme of the 1960 conference. Sessions will be held in the National 4-H Club Center.

FARMING TODAY by your County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk

Feeding Cattle

Farm economists at the University of Minnesota have found that 40 head of cattle required 423 hours per year while 80 head used 630 hours — less than 50 per cent more.

The increased efficiency in boosting herd size wasn't simply a result of bigger equipment either. Even with the same facilities and feeding methods, large herds took less time per head.

A herd of 30 cattle getting hay with limited grain and no silage would require 16 hours per week for hay feeding alone. That averages out to 3.2 minutes per head. Without changing the system at all, doubling the herd size would reduce hay feeding time to 2.5 minutes per animal, requiring 1.86 hours per week for the entire herd.

In general, the average amount of labor per ehad drops rapidly for lots up to 50 head. After that, boosting herd size still increases efficiency, but not as much.

On one of the farms which was 160 acres in size the farmer would have more than 230 hours of labor per month available in January, February and March. In June, however, the press of field work would leave this farmer with only 28 hours that he could spend on his cattle.

In that particular case, 38 head of feeder cattle would use about 28.4 hours per month, meaning that herd size would be the maximum for June on this farm.

Naturally, the figures worked out by the economists are averages and are no absolute limit for an individual. Farmers differ in speed and working efficiency.

Swine Feeding

As with candy for a child, feed a pig likes most may not give him all the nutrients he needs.

Of course, a ration must be eaten well for good growth. But even more important is what the feed contains.

First, make sure the feed has enough protein. The correct amount depends on size. Pigs up to 40 pounds need 16-18 per cent protein. Reduce it to 14-16 per cent between weaning and 100 pounds, and figure 12 per cent after 100 pounds.

Second, feed good quality corn or barley or other grain to make sure the hogs get all the energy they need.

Minerals and trace elements are important, too. Each 100 pounds of feed should contain about eight pounds of steamed bonemeal or its equivalent, 2½ pounds of high, zinc trace element salt, and a vitamin-antibiotic premix, added according to label directions.

Research in many states has shown that soybean oil meal is a good protein supplement. Soybean protein is high in quality and hogs take to it well. Besides, it's usually the cheapest supplement you can get.

If tankage is a good buy, it can be used to replace up to half of the soybean oil meal in the ration.

To determine whether another supplement is cheaper, you need to compare the price per pound of protein — not just cost per sack. For example, let's say soybean oil meal costs $4 per hundred. This supplement is 44 per cent protein, so that divides out to 9½ cents per pound of protein.

Tankage is about 60 per cent protein. So multiply 60 by 9½ cents and you'll find that tankage should cost no more than $5.70 per hundred pounds to be as good a buy as soybean oil meal.

Wild Oats Control

Cultivation and crop management can give good control of wild oats. But careful timing of both practices is important. Wild oats shatters its seed before most small grain crops are harvested, and seed can remain alive and dormant for a number of years.

Very little seed germinates between June and September, so here's what you should do:

First of all, cultivate shallow in the spring, but don't plow. That way you'll keep the seeds near the surface where they can germinate.

Cultivate later to kill the seeds that have germinated. Plant to oats-peas silage, early flax or some other early maturing crop.

Wild oats can regrow after cultivation. Avoid this by cultivating after the third leaf appears, and by completely uprooting the plants.

Another plan that shows promise is to sow tame oats early and cut it for hay before wild oats have formed seed. Then, as long as no seed has been produced, you can plow right after the hay crop has been harvested.

It will take more than one year of early tillage, delayed sowing of a crop or cutting of tame oats for hay to control wild oats on a badly infested field.

Two new herbicides — Avadex and Carbyne — show some promise of controlling wild oats. However, further tests are needed before they can be fully evaluated.

Carbyne is being marketed this year under a controlled experimental sales program. Avadex is not being sold in the United States yet.

Pruning Trees and Shrubs

Many trees and shrubs can be pruned during the early spring before growth begins. Almost all summer-blooming shrubs or those which are not grown for their blossoms can be pruned at this time. These include the spireas, the dogwoods, roses and all of the shade trees.

• • •

Proper equipment is essential to good pruning. The gardener should have a small hand pruner, a large-sized pruner or loper and a good pruning saw. The equipment should be sharp and in good condition. Use the proper tool for the kind of pruning you are doing. The hand pruner will usually prune anything up to approximately ⅝ inch in diameter. The loper will make a cut approximately ½ to ¾ inch in diameter, whereas anything larger than these dimensions should be cut with a pruning saw.

• • •

Pruning should do three things:

1. Improve the shape or form of the shrub.
2. Remove any weak or diseased wood.
3. Rejuvenate or keep the shrub young and vigorous.

Shade trees are pruned to improve their shape and form, to control their growth and to remove any weak crotches. A general thinning will allow more sunlight to penetrate to the grass beneath.

• • •

Most cuts that are made do not have to be treated with a wound compound; however, if the cut is larger than ½ inch, orange shellac or other commercial wound compounds should be used.

• • •

All cuts when pruning should be made back to a side branch or to a main trunk. Shearing as a method of controlling growth is not recommended since it takes away from the natural form of the shrub.

When pruning shrubs, cut back some of the old wood nearly to the ground each year in order to encourage new young wood to develop.

BALLS BENCHED, BUT ANALYSTS STILL SHOOTING

From Champion Edgerton's 79.6 rating right down to a little southeastern Minnesota school's 1.4, Kent B. Youngdahl of Minneapolis has rated the basketball performance of 535 Minnesota schools the past season. Following Edgerton, all with ratings 70 or above, are Richfield, St. Louis Park, De La Salle (Minneapolis), Cloquet, Austin, Morgan Park (Duluth). Champ, runner-up and consolation champ are among the seven; the other five tournament teams rank down as far as 67 in Mr. Youngdahl's scale: Melrose 10th, Chisholm 13th, No. St. Paul 17, Granite Falls 51, Thief River Falls 67, with a rating of 60.8. Johlfs found that Richfield's tournament score topped their opponents by 120.3%; Edgerton 114.3, Melrose 111.5; Austin 107.0; Chisholm dropped to a ratio of 96.4, North St. Paul 84.4, Granite Falls 81.7, Thief River Falls 76.7—just about the order in which Mr. Youngdahl rates them.

Aid of Clergy Sought to Promote Safety on Minnesota Highways

Governor Orville L. Freeman today issued an invitation to all Minnesota clergymen and lay leaders to join in a concentrated attack on traffic accidents and the tremendous price Minnesotans pay in lives, injuries, and property damage for the privilege of using the motor car.

"I am inviting all clergy and lay leaders of Minnesota to a meeting in St Paul on May 3 to acquaint them with the complex problems of traffic safety and to ask that they develop programs within the churches of our communities which will further alert the motorist to his responsibilities on our roads and highways.

"Minnesotans can be proud of the improvements we have made in this field in recent years," Freeman said. "We rate well nationally by accepted standards. But as long as 600 to 700 persons are killed in traffic accidents, and other 28,000 injured, we can take small comfort in our modest gains thus far!"

The governor said he also had invited the National Safety Council, through its Church Activities section, to participate in the May 3 meeting to help in planning the religious emphasis program. "I know that the Minnesota Safety Council, under its new president Justice Thomas Gallagher, stands ready to assist the clergymen and religious organizations of the state in getting on with a workable program.

"Earlier this spring, a planning committee, which included representatives of religious groups from throughout the state, went into this matter of religious emphasis in some detail. From their report, it is evident that there is much enthusiasm for the formation of a permanent group to coordinate the efforts of all faiths to help their members to drive according to the principles of morality that they profess.

"Invitations to the May meeting are going out this week," said Governor Freeman. "If there are clergymen or leaders of religious or related groups who miss getting an invitation, I ask them to communicate immediately with Harry Sieben, highway safety director, New Highway Building, St. Paul 1, for particulars."

314 Persons Face Fish Law Charges

Offenders Rise by 108 Per Cent During March

Arrests for violations of the state's fishing laws during March rose 108 per cent over the same month last year, reports Francis W. Johnson, chief game warden.

Game wardens made a total of 314 arrests last month for game and fish violations, including 207 for fishing infractions.

"Arrests during the first three months of 1960 have shown a considerable increase over a similar period last year," said Johnson. "In fact, arrests are 112 per cent higher this year."

Queried as to the reasons behind this marked upsurge, Johnson indicated "each winter sees more people participating in ice fishing. This just naturally results in more people taking a chance on getting by with breaking a law. Also, our game wardens have developed techniques and methods for uncovering violations which many folks think cannot be detected."

"The 1959 law restricting fishing to one line only has been a boon to enforcement," said Johnson. "Heretofore wardens had a difficult time proving a two line angler was fishing for walleyes and northerns instead of panfish. Now anyone trying to sneak in another line is clearly violating the law and often finds himself before a judge."

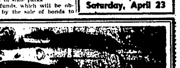
Commenting on the $6,170 in fines levied in March for game and fish violations, Johnson praised the courts for "making violators realize that robbing the sportsmen of the state of their fair share of game and fish can be costly."

State to Spend $288,000 on Parks

Improvement Program to Include 34 Parks

A $228,000 capital improvement program will be launched this spring to improve facilities in 34 state parks, it was announced today by U. W. Hella, director of state parks.

The funds, which will be obtained by the sale of bonds to private investment concerns, are expected to be available May 12th following the opening of bids for the bonds on May 3rd.



Improvement projects include such items as toilet facilities, electric and telephone service, well drilling and picnic shelters.

"As soon as these funds are available," said Hella, "we will begin calling for bids on those projects on which planning has been completed, and planning on the remaining projects will be accelerated."

Hella said that every effort would be made to complete the projects by the scheduled date of July 1st in view of the great increase in the number of park visitors recorded in recent years and the expectation that this upward trend will continue.

Editorials . . .

There is only one situation I can think of in which people make an effort to read better than they usually do. When they are in love and are reading a love letter, they read for all they are worth. They read every word three ways; they read between the lines and in the margins; they read the whole in terms of the parts, and each part in terms of the whole; they grow sensitive to context and ambiguity, to insinuation and implication; they perceive the color of words, the odor of phrases and the weight of sentences. They may even take the punctuation into account. Then, if never before or after, they read.

Thank You California

California is doing something about its smog problem. According to the provisions of a law adopted this month, automobiles will have to be equipped with anti-smog devices. Within one year after the state's Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board approves several of such devices, now in the experimental stage, all new cars, and all used cars transferred in ownership, will have to have the required equipment. Estimates on the cost range from $50 to $150.

The results in California will be watched with much interest throughout the country. The smog problem is not limited to West Coast cities and legislation similar to that adopted in California probably will become general throughout the country if a good result is obtained. Automobile exhaust fumes are poisonous and we owe California a vote of thanks for seeking an effective control.

Why All The Fury?

Senator Hubert Humphrey probably will be the winner of the West Virginia presidential primary, observers report. They come up with this conclusion because in this instance Senator Humphrey will have the support of all of the candidates who are interested mainly in stopping Kennedy.

In the West Virginia primary there will be only two candidates, Humphrey and Kennedy. But there is strong support in West Virginia for Symington, Stevenson and Lyndon Johnson, and these candidates have campaign committees working for them. Kennedy is generally looked upon as the man who stands in their way.

Strange things, these presidential primaries. The West Virginia poll is in reality nothing more than a popularity contest, and with only two candidates running it does not serve this purpose. The primary in West Virginia has nothing to do with the selection of delegates to the national convention. Why then all the fury?

There Is No Emergency

If the question of whether or not the government should provide free medical care to all aged people were submitted to the voters at this time our guess is that the proposal would be approved. The idea has a lot of emotional appeal. Who would stand up and say that old people should not have free medical care?

But if the vote were delayed for a few months and the idea kicked around and carefully examined in all of its aspects, our guess is that it would not have popular support.

The proposal is based on the thought that we should find a way of providing protection from catastrophic illnesses and accidents, and that idea has much merit. But we have already moved a long way toward providing that kind of protection for the aged. Under present laws covering social security, old age assistance and direct relief, no aged person should be denied essential health services.

From our observation, catastrophic illnesses and accidents work the greatest hardships when they strike young people, and the middle aged. When the young and the middle aged are stricken they are not so apt to have reserves of their own, or retirement funds, to fall back upon. The aged generally are in a better position to help themselves, and they do not have so far to go. The young and the middle aged still have a long future ahead of them, and many difficult adjustments to make.

This problem of providing for the needs of those who are the victims of a disaster in any form, deserves careful consideration. But it is not likely that we will come up with the right answers by a hasty response to an emotional appeal. And there is no need for hasty action. We already have made good progress in meeting the exceptional needs of the unfortunate and there is no emergency that requires instant action.

Better that matters of this kind be settled in the off years when politicians become statesmen, rather than in the campaign years when statesmen become politicians.

Keeping The Cow Healthy

The United Nation's Economic Commission for Europe is urging European countries, for their own good, to buy more products from the United States. The commission is concerned about the problem for two reasons. European countries should encourage more competition within their own borders as a means of curbing inflation. And their imports should be from the United States as much as possible in order to maintain a balance of trade that will stop the drain of gold from our country.

It isn't that they are feeling sorry for us. Their concern for our survival, it seems, comes closer to being the attitude of a good farmer who realizes that his cow will not continue to give milk unless she is fed.

It is comforting to know that some foreigners recognize the importance of keeping our economy healthy. In this campaign year too many of our own leaders are going to be more concerned about their own immediate future than the long range welfare of the country.

We don't like to be looked upon by our neighbors as a cow that must be kept healthy, but in some ways that probably is better for us than being taken as suckers by the members of our own family.

Inviting Disaster

The government of South Africa is doing an excellent job of demonstrating how not to solve the race problem. As the Nationalist government attempts to enforce strictly its Apartheid program, the country's crisis is growing rather than subsiding.

There are two political parties in South Africa, the Nationalists, with their white domination policy, controlling the parliament with 103 of the 156 members. The minority group, now banded together in the United party, favors segregation but has opposed the extremes of the Apartheid program.

That this balance of power might be changed if an election were held now is the opinion of the Christian Science Monitor. Commenting on the condition that has been steadily worsening, it states:

"It is hard to see how the government's present course can lead to a solution of the crisis. Modification of that course may require a new government, either of the opposition or by coalition.

"The sense of hopelessness in this situation comes chiefly from the fact that the Nationalists are trying to move in the direction of more rigid discrimination against the Africans, contrary to the whole trend of current history. But they do not represent as many South African voters as their hold on parliamentary seats would indicate. There is a great body of more enlightened South African opinion which doubtless will now make new demands for a voice in government policy."

World-wide opinion is against the South African government and no doubt will be an effective force in bringing about a more moderate and realistic approach to the problem. The question now is whether or not the realization of the need for a new approach will come in time to avert a really serious disaster. The situation might worsen to a point where the only alternative to negro slavery would be white extermination.

Children Safer Than Adults in Car Crash

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

Young children suffer fewer automobile accidents than do adolescents or adults, no matter where they sit in the car, a study of this angle of the traffic accident problem reveals.

Research into mishaps on the highways, undertaken by Cornell university, covering 31,000 persons of known ages, shows that the greater height and weight and the lessened resilience of older persons makes them more vulnerable to injury in the fast moving lines of traffic today. But the experts who have studied these reports and many who have also participated in the tests warn parents that though babies and young children prefer the front seat of the car, it is not the safest place for them.

Now that little Eric Peugeot, the four-year-old French boy, is safely home again, we can speculate as to whether the ransom money should have been paid to the kidnappers. We have wondered, on such occasions, if society would not be better served if the paying of ransoms were forbidden by law, and the law strictly enforced. A few lives would be sacrificed no doubt, and that would be bad. There would be screaming about the heartlessness of those who valued dollars more than human lives. But by making kidnapping for profit a futile means of extortion, maybe there would be fewer of such horrible crimes. We have wondered about it.

The department of agriculture has proposed a cut in grain storage rate payments that would save nearly 100 million dollars a year. The storage of grain is now paid for at rates established under a law that has been on the books a long time. Its shortcomings have been highlighted by several scandals and serious consideration should be given to the changes that are proposed. A 100 million dollars distributed as additional price support payment would do the farmers more good than the huge gifts that are being passed along to the elevator companies.

In its publicity release this week, the Minnesota Taxpayers Association urges "a replacement sales tax" as a measure of personal property tax relief to farmers. While fully agreeing that the personal property tax is currently exacted as inequitable, unfair and oppressive, nevertheless, The Times would like to be informed as to when any "replacement tax" ever permanently replaced an existing tax, or more explicitly when a "replacement tax" did not become just another tax? This information would be helpful to many people in forming an opinion on the proposed "replacement sales tax." —Art Suel in New Prague Times.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

The father was properly horrified. "No use!" he exclaimed. "Do you want to grow up an ignoramus and not be able to figure football scores, batting averages and race-track odds?"

4 H Meeting

The Smiley 4-H members had a busy night when they met for their regular meeting April 12. During the business meeting it was decided that the club will hold a bake sale in May, that 4-H Sunday May 22 will be observed at Bethany church, and that the proceeds of the April meeting should be given to the cancer fund. CORVAIR BY CHEVROLET DRIVE IT! GET OUR DEAL!!!!
A pair of Corvairs recently recorded 27.03 and 26.21 miles per gallon in the 2,061.4-mile Mobilgas Economy Run. That's certified proof that Corvair skimps on gas costs. It saves other ways, too. Corvair is the only U. S. compact car that never needs antifreeze or costly radiator repairs. Come in and drive the compact car that outdoes them all.
Practically flat floor . . . real foot room for the man in the middle. Fold-down rear seat gives 17.6 cu. ft. of extra storage space. Four-wheel independent suspension for a smoother, flatter ride. Rear-engine traction . . . that comes with the engine's weight bearing down on the rear wheels.
You probably realize already that the mileage figures Corvairs recorded in the Mobilgas Run are higher than the average driver can expect. But because the cars met every kind of driving condition—rugged mountain grades, long country straightaways, congested city traffic—those mileage figures prove Corvair's inherent ability to save. Operating costs take a nose dive the day you take delivery of a Corvair.

Winter Shows Board to Go Forward with Construction Plans

"Proceed with preparation of building plans" was the direction given the executive committee by the Red River Valley Winter Shows board of managers, Inc., at a meeting Wednesday, April 13, at the Northwest School and Experiment station. The board also authorized the appointment of an area-wide advisory committee on building plans.

All county fund drive chairmen will be named to the building plans committee to represent the interests of their county. The steering committee for preparation of building plans will be the members of the board's executive committee, including B. E. Youngquist, president of the board, Northwest School; Wm. Strickler, vice president of the board, Euclid; O. C. Soine, secretary-treasurer, Northwest School; Walter Ross, Fisher; Wayne Ewing, Beltrami; and Harold Thomforde, Crookston.

The decision to go ahead with building plans came after the board had met jointly with about 30 area and county chairmen of the building fund campaign. The joint meeting carefully reviewed a six page detailed report on the Winter Shows building fund drive.

This joint session of 42 men voted to adjourn the campaign effort in the rural areas until fall and to begin contacting area-wide business in the immediate future. The analysis of the fund drive to date disclosed that 1453 pledges have yielded $130,000 in 11 counties. Three counties have yet to be organized but expect to be ready for the fall campaign.

This meeting brought into focus the work completed in many parts of the area and outlined the steps necessary to complete the fund drive. Further, the meeting emphasized that a new home for the Winter Shows and other programs that promote northwestern Minnesota agriculture is fast coming into view.

Attending the meeting were Delmar Hagen, area chairman, and Edgar Naplin, Pennington county co chairman of the building fund campaign.

The Farmers Union, the Farm Bureau and the Red River Valley Beet Growers association were voted representation on the Red River Valley Winter Shows board of managers, Inc., at its meeting.

Admitted as regular members on the board were: A. M. Larson, Beltrami, representing the Farmers Union; Paul Wagner, Bemidji, representing the Farm Bureau; and Lyle Kriel, rural Crookston, representing the Red River Valley Beet Growers association.

The action expands the number of cooperating farm organizations assisting in the direction and operation of the shows to 12 and the total membership on the board to 15 members, the maximum permitted by the bylaws of the organization.

26,000,000 Tree Seedlings Set to Leave Nurseries

As soon as weather and ground frost conditions permit, 26 million tree seedlings will be removed and packed for shipment to landowners who have placed orders with state tree nurseries.

The trees will be planted in windbreaks, shelterbelts and forest plantations and are sold by the state on a cost basis as a conservation measure. The law prohibits the sale of the trees for landscaping or ornamental purposes.

Landowners who have placed orders will be notified before their shipment is sent out so that they can make the necessary preparations.

Danger of Forest Fires Held Acute

Many Areas Tinder Dry, Says State Forester

A combination of high wind and very low humidity is turning some Minnesota forest and grassland areas into a tinder dry and dangerously incendiary condition, E. L. Lawson, director of forestry reported today.

Forestry division headquarters in St. Paul has been notified that approximately 400 acres burned over Monday, April 11, as a result of six fires in the Brainerd fire protection area alone. One of these fires destroyed 160 acres including two barns approximately eight miles southwest of Pine river in Cass county.

Lawson emphasized that forest and grass fires are costing Minnesota taxpayers significant amounts of money by pointing out that last year over 90,000 acres were burned over at a loss in excess of a quarter of a million dollars.

Thes figures by themselves, he concluded, do not adequately reflect the loss of priceless scenic wonders and loss of outdoor recreational opportunities.

HOW MUCH MEAT DO YOU EAT EACH DAY?

Probably nobody knows why, but the nation ate more meat per person in 1956 than in any recent year, and considerably less in 1951. Top poultry year was 1959, though '60 is expected to do better in poultry, not so well in meat consumption. In 1956 we Americans ate 166.7 pounds of meat apiece, 29.8 pounds of chicken and turkey; last year we got away with 35.8 pounds of poultry, 159.6 pounds of beef, lamb, pork, and veal. That makes '56 biggest year for both, at 196.5 or just over half a pound apiece per day. Estimates for 1960 are 159.1 pounds of meat apiece, 36 poultry, for a per capita total of 195.1. The '51 slump went to 138 meat, 26.1 poultry, total 164.1 pounds; we climbed steadily until '56 and have since been slipping in our meat consumption. National Meat Promotion committee does the measuring.

On Friday, April 22 some professional conservationist in this state will receive "The Minnesota Award." I have no idea who it will be but the recipient of this coveted award may be justly proud because he will know that his colleagues and fellow workers in conservation hold him in the highest esteem.

The award is given by the Minnesota section of the Wildlife Society. But then you may never have heard of the Wildlife Society so how could you be duly impressed. Of course you have heard of the American Medical association, the American Bar association, the American Society of Civil Engineers and possibly the American Society of Foresters. These professional societies serve a useful purpose to the public as well as the members and the Wildlife Society is no less important just because there are not as many practicing professional conservationists as there are doctors, lawyers and engineers.

The Wildlife Society strives for high standards of performance, ethics, truth and reliability among its members. It publishes The Journal of Wildlife Management and provides a medium for the free exchange of ideas in fish and wildlife management, research and protection. Membership is open to all professionally employed conservationists and now numbers 3,300 around the world. Each year this "international" society also presents the "Aldo Leopold Award" to the author of the best conservation publication of the year.

With its membership numbering over 110 the Minnesota section of the Wildlife Society is one of the most active affiliates. Meetings are held through the winter months and the speakers have included many well known scientists, conservationists and administrators.

Present and past members of the Minnesota section of the Wildlife Society include quite an imposing array of college department heads and administrators in both federal and state government.

Just as the society brings together college professors, fish managers, administrators, game managers and leaders in conservation groups, the Minnesota Award may go to anyone in a wide variety of conservation activities. Last year it was won by Lytton Taylor, the now retired outdoor writer for the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press. The previous year the award was made to Dr. George A. Selke, Minnesota commissioner of conservation.

Proud of its long service to Minnesota conservationists and equally proud of its distinguished membership, the Minnesota section of the Wildlife Society stands with other state professional societies in its dedication to the highest possible service to the people of the state of Minnesota.

Arrests Made for Illegal Spearing

Fish Are Starting to Make Spawning Runs

With the spring fish spawning runs already underway in the southern part of the state and even as far north as Brainerd, state game wardens have begun their 'round the clock vigil for illegal spearing.

Chief game warden Francis Johnson reports that "wardens have already made a considerable number of arrests for illegal spearing, shooting and netting of fish."

Johnson reminded the public it is "unlawful to have in possession in any vehicle or on their person, or at or near any waters a spear, net or any device capable of taking fish from February 16 to April 30. This does not apply to nets used in the taking of trout and smelt in season, or if a person is operating under permit or contract from the section of fisheries.

Judges have been levying heavy fines in these spearing cases," commented Johnson. "After all many judges are fishermen too and they don't like the idea of game fish being speared on their spawning grounds."

"The public is aroused to this type of violation also and have cooperated in numerous instances by notifying wardens of illegal fishing activities. I have received a number of calls at my office which have resulted in wardens making arrests for shooting or spearing fish," concluded Johnson.

Continuous mining machines cut and load coal in a single operation. Single types have been developed that are capable of producing two to five tons of coal a minute.

Building A New Life

Quite a thrill — building a new home! Day by day you watch it take shape. And somehow, you have the feeling that this new house will bring new life for you and your family.

But building a new life isn't as simple as building a new home. One just can't move out of the drab past into a sparkling future.

The life to which conscientious men and women aspire is built on foundations that cannot be laid in a week or two. Character, courage, consecration — these are concrete evidences of faithful years in the worship and service of God.

Today, where there are new houses there are new churches — and where there are old houses there are old churches. And through the portals of all the churches pass the millions of earnest families who are serious and happy about building a new life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

HOW Bridgeman PROTECTS QUALITY

From Farm To Your Doorstep...

Bridgeman Creameries were the first to utilize bulk tank methods of collecting milk and constant refrigeration in storage and transportation in this area. Bridgeman insists that the highest standards of sanitation be observed at all times. Bulk milk intended for Bridgeman Creameries must never be exposed to warm, bacteria-activating air or touched by human hands. The result: A better product for you—Grade A all the way—pure, wholesome, better tasting.

The above picture shows Ken Wahlin, our Laboratory Technician, who holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Dairy Technology, preparing to sterilize the chemical solutions to be added to samples of dairy products, to determine growth, and to isolate, bacteria for accurate counting.

Standard Plate counts are run on the PASTEURIZED PRODUCTS to check for any possible "after-pasteurization" contamination by bacteria, thus insuring clean, safe products for your consumption.

Ken also runs microscope counts on samples of all RAW milk to check for bacteria count and other contaminations that might be brought about by diseased cattle. This insures you that Bridgeman Creameries uses only the best raw materials.

District GOP Endorses None for Governor

Support Leonard Dickinson, Bemidji for Lieut. Governor

The decision came after a 1½-hour floor fight between the backers of the two candidates, Mayor C. Elmer Anderson of Minneapolis and former State Rep. Elmer L. Andersen of St. Paul.

Two roll call votes were needed before the issue was finally resolved, 67 to 32.

There was no indication of the respective strength of the candidates in the votes taken but some delegates said they felt the failure of either to get the endorsement indicated support for both candidates.

In other action, the delegates unanimously endorsed Leonard Dickinson of Bemidji for lieutenant governor and Richard Bjornson of Moorhead for attorney general.

They unanimously endorsed for reelection Congressman Odin Langen, State Treasurer Val Bjornson and Auditor Stafford King.

Wm. Carl Wilhelmi, Fergus Falls, district chairman, and Mrs. Francis Erickson, Bemidji, district chairwoman, were chosen as delegates to the national convention. Alternates picked were Mrs. Ruth Hanson, Moorhead, and Mrs. Kirsten Bjornson, Detroit Lakes.

U. S. Conservation Reserve Program Cuts Crop Surplus

More Than 28,000,000 Acres under Contract Department Announces

Going into the 1960 crop season, the Conservation Reserve program is having substantial impact on the acreage and production of surplus crops, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said in its annual report on the operations of the program for 1959.

With approximately 28,000,000 contracts in effect and more than 28 million acres under contract, the report shows, cropland which has been continuously devoted to the surplus buildup in recent years is being withdrawn from production and is being shifted to conservation uses under long-term contracts.

During the 1959-60 period, the U.S. will have the productive capacity in the conservation reserve more than doubled. The acreage of cropland withheld from production almost tripled, and the acreage of "normal crop farms" under contract grew to more than two-fifths of the total.

Under the Conservation Reserve, farmers voluntarily enter contracts to hold cropland out of production for periods of 3 to 10 years for conservation uses. After four years of experience, the department says it is evident that a large numbers of farmers will participate in a program of this type. In each county, the local committee determines the land that is eligible for the program, and the amount that could be accepted.

Many Job Openings Await College Grads

A healthy and vigorous employment demand, further improved over last year's expanding job market — that is the picture for college graduates of the June 1960 class.

There are from 5 to 15 per cent more companies recruiting this spring on many college campuses. There is a corresponding increase in the number of job offers reported so far, according to early returns in the 25th annual survey of college placements now being made by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Evidence of solid business confidence in the long term future is found by the insurance firm's family economics bureau, which conducts the survey.

For instance: There is an explosive demand for advanced-degree men in engineering and physical sciences, preferably PhD's, to augment research staffs of many large concerns. The major reason is a substantial step-up in such firms' 1960 budgets for research, say college placement officials consulted. The supply of doctorate level men available is far short of the number of key jobs opening up. Starting salaries range from $7,500 to as high as $12,000 a year.

Of the regular bachelor degree graduates, engineers and physical scientists continue to enjoy the heaviest demand and top-level starting salaries. Practically all the available men in these categories should be placed by graduation. Their salaries, from present indications, will average somewhere from $520 to $535 a month, or about five per cent higher than the record levels of 1959. Business graduates will probably average about $100 less than the engineers, though they also show gains over the 1959 class. Good liberal arts men are averaging close to the business salary levels.

Noteworthy in this year's college employment picture is the fact that the bulge in demand comes mainly from the "peace" sector of American business and industry. By contrast, 1959's spring gains in placement opportunities came mainly from a rebound in defense activities, the survey observes.

The automobile industry, which last year was worrying over foreign competition, seems to feel it has the answer in its new compact cars, and is employing confidently again. Steel, aluminum and non-ferrous industries have upped their calls for college men.

Big retail chains are hiring more business and liberal arts men, in enlarged programs of on job training for eventual management jobs. Banks and insurance companies are seeking many college trained men. A heavy demand for accountants is repeatedly mentioned by placement departments.

Neil Mattson in his column in the Warren Sheaf reports as follows on the recent chance meeting in Cuba of a Warren dentist with Mr. and Mrs. Stan Nelson, formerly of Thief River Falls:

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Gunnarson of Warren were touring a large sugar plantation, Rancho Luna, seven miles north of Havana, Cuba, on their recent trip and they watched the natives drink the milk from green coconuts they were opening. After their guide got one for them, the good doctor commented, "Wouldn't it be nice if we could grow these in Warren?" A man and his wife were standing nearby and the man asked, "You don't mean Warren, Minnesota?" Assured that he did, conversation with the couple found they were Mr. and Mrs. Stan Nelson, formerly head of the area vocational school at Thief River Falls. Mr. Nelson left Thief River Falls about a year ago to take a job with United Nations UNESCO to help develop agriculture in Cuba.—Warren Sheaf.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR YOUNG MUSICIANS

It's a long time until November 25-26, but some things require a lot of preparation. Opportunity, for instance, to win scholarships and acclaim as a musician. The Womens Association of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra already is planning their fifth annual statewide Contest for Young Artists, open to citizens of Minnesota and officially registered students in Minnesota schools, who have not reached their 26th birthday. Piano players and all orchestra instrumentalists except percussion are eligible to compete for at least $500 in cash, four-year full-tuition scholarship in a noted eastern music school, several lesser scholarships in Minnesota or the east, the possibility of an appearance with the Minneapolis Symphony, and probably many concert offers such as have come to four previous winners, as well as to talented runnersup. Complete information is available from the Womens Symphony association, 201 East 24th Street, Minneapolis 4.

Fire Chief Roy Langevin and Lawrence Hemmesch represented the local department at the annual spring meeting of the Northern Region Firemen's association held at Halstad last Thursday, 135 firemen from 26 towns being in attendance.

Poor Odds

In the insane game of "Russian Roulette," you have one chance out of five of blowing out your brains by putting the muzzle of a revolver against your head and pulling the trigger

In Thief River Falls, you have six chances during every day of splattering over the countryside not only yourself but every passenger in your car merely by crossing the railroad tracks in two or three locations.

Since the accident on First street the morning of Easter Sunday, it is apparent that at least a few people have grown tired of playing the motorized version of "let's live dangerously." They are recalling past incidents to themselves, their families and their friends. Let us hope that time doesn't dim their memories again.

The majority of opinion seems to be, "How many people have to be killed or injured before something is done about these blind crossings where there are no signals."

Like sin and communism, everyone I have talked to is against the present situation but, as in other subjects that are controversial, many hesitate to take any positive action, preferring rather to say something over a cup of coffee to someone else who also prefers to make positive motions only with his mouth.

Why all the noise about these crossings? Why not just leave the matter alone? The answer is simple — the danger to myself, my family and my friends will not go away by turning my back on it. The teenager lying in Northwestern hospital will not hurt any less if we disregard the hazard of this crossing and the others in the city. Everyone in this area and every visitor who comes to Thief River Falls is a potential victim of a crossing accident.

Those rail crossings are as dangerous to the community as an armed criminal. Unfortunately, there is no agency to deal with the former as there is with the latter. Or, if there is, the agency is shirking this part of its duty.

Signals would solve the problem for some of the crossings but they won't remove the barrier between the east side and the fire station Somewhere along the line, there must be an overpass or underpass which will allow ambulances, fire engines and other emergency equipment free access to both sides of the river at all times of the day.

Unless someone "gets stirred up" soon, it appears that a few deaths and a few burned to the ground homes will have to be recorded before something is done.

Prowlers Swamp Goodridge 18-0

On a cold and wind-swept Fair Grounds diamond on Friday afternoon the Prowlers and the Goodridge Huskies opened the 1960 district high school baseball season, and coach Ralph Skay's district and regional champion Prowlers marked up a decisive 18 to 0 win.

The Prowlers will meet the Argyle Eagles here on Monday evening in an inter-district tilt, with game time slated for 6:00 P.M. On Wednesday afternoon, with game time scheduled for 5:00 P.M., the Prowlers will meet the Eagles of Red Lake Falls in a district game on Red Lake Falls' Riverside diamond.

In Friday afternoon's opener, the Prowlers tallied a run in the 1st inning when Gary Klungness led off with a ground single to right field, stole second, moved to third on Eddie Lietzow's smash off the shortstop's glove, and scored on Arlan Hjelle's infield out.

In the 2nd inning the Prowlers racked up seven runs although getting but two base hits off the righthanded slants of the Huskies' Howard Hendrickson. Those base hits, a single by Jim Weckwerth and a double by Lietzow, were sandwiched among three bases on balls, a hit batsman, and a pair of Goodridge errors to account for the seven-run cluster.

The Prowlers added five runs in the 3rd inning, utilizing a bunt-and-run attack to good advantage, getting three base hits by the leg-work of Gary and Paul Klungness and Arlan Hjelle, who beat out bunts. Gary Anderson's two-base hit to left field was the "power" blow of the inning, driving in two runs.

The locals closed out the game's scoring with another five-run outbreak in the 6th inning, tagging southpaw Larry Vigen, who had replaced Hendrickson on the mound for the Huskies in the 5th inning, for three hits. Paul Saurdiff banged out a double to center field to plate a pair of runs in the inning. A pair of walks, a hit batsman, an error, and two wild pitches were contributing factors to the five-run rally.

Coach Curly Gasperlin's Goodridge Huskies, who have been handicapped greatly by lack of practice facilities this spring, collected but two base hits off the righthanded slants of Gary Anderson and Paul Saurdiff, who shared the Prowler pitching duties. In the 1st inning, Clarence Carlson drove a hit-and-run single into right field; and in the 5th inning, Larry Vigen sent a ground single past the outstretched arm of shortstop Lietzow.

Anderson, in four innings, struck out six batsman and walked four. Saurdiff, in his three-inning stint, struck out five and walked four. Included in Paul's strike-out total was his kid brother Dick, who played at second base for Goodridge.

Big Attendance at Trap Shoot Club's Banquet Thursday

Awards Are Presented to Shooters for Their Records in 1959 Season

The well-attended meeting, which officially closed out the successful eight-team 1959 season, was called to order by master of ceremonies Bill Dahlquist. Acting upon the recommendation of the nominations committee, the group elected Dahlquist and Frank Rinkel to honorary directorships.

The two men have been active directors of the club for many years, and at the expiration of their terms this year they requested that they should not be considered for re-nomination. The trap club, desirous of having the benefit of their years of experience, voted unanimously to give them honorary directorships with full voting privileges in the club.

Directors elected by the club, also by a unanimous vote, were Stan Wilson, Bob Mattson, and Roy Jorgenson. Wilson was re-elected to the board, while Mattson and Jorgenson are new members.

Special awards, in the form of shoulder patches, were made to Tony Dorn, for breaking 50 straight, and to Roy Peterson, Don Stewart and Dr. Jim Diase, for breaking 25 straight.

The league championship trophy for the 1959 season was presented to Don Olson, sponsor of the title-winning Coast-to-Coast team, who succeeded the Times squad as league champions. The members of the league champions — Fred Mittelstadt, Ivan Hoglin, Darrell Wood, Arne Johnson, Emil Malwitz, George Hale, Walt Fischer, Ted LaCoursiere and Roy Peterson — were presented with individual trophies.

The club's board of directors will name the executive officers, and will draft a schedule for the 1960 season.

17 Home Extension Groups Work Here

260 Pennington County Women Share in Project

Keeping up-to-date in the job of homemaking isn't too difficult if you're a member of one of the 17 home extension groups in Pennington county. Moreover, you get help in solving many of the everyday problems that come up in the home.

Members of the home extension groups are actually students in a nationwide program of continuing adult education. Instead of meeting in a classroom, they may meet in homes or in the county court house. Since the purpose of the informal classes is to make the members more proficient in their homes and communities, the students study a variety of subjects during the course of a year — from better nutrition for the family and wise buymanship to functions of the local government.

This national educational program for women — known as the extension home program in Minnesota, but as home demonstration work in many states—is planned by homemakers themselves and open to all rural women. It is sponsored by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the land-grant colleges such as the University of Minnesota and the local county.

In Minnesota, home agents, who are trained home economists, assisted by University home economics specialists, give professional guidance to the program and do much of the teaching. But in order to make it possible for small classes or groups to meet in local units, the homemakers receive training and serve as project leaders or teachers of various groups. In Pennington county, 68 women served as teachers to bring the latest information on homemaking to local women last year.

The 260 members of Pennington county's 17 home extension clubs are among more than a million homemakers in the U.S. who are getting the newest reliable information from research on many phases of homemaking and family living.

Many ways are used besides meetings to give reliable information on home and family living to Pennington county people.

Gas Service for Warren Due to Be Operated by City

Municipal ownership and operation of the proposed natural gas distribution system in Warren was approved unanimously by the City Council at a special session Monday night.

The council will file a petition with the Federal Power Commission in Washington at once, seeking a transfer of the city's allotment of gas from the United Petroleum Gas Company of Minneapolis. If United Gas makes no objection which company personnel have assured Mayor L. J. Fournier, the transfer will be a matter of routine, council members have been told.
